Flu shots serious business: area experts

Many welcome inoculation plan

A Herald staff report

A spot check of Northwest suburban residents suggests many will line up for flu shots if the national immunization program is approved.

Almost all those asked Thursday said they had heard about the plan, and many said they already have made a decision about getting a shot.

"I heard about the flu on TV and in the newspaper. The inoculation program is good for people who are susceptible," said Lee Schuler, Mount Prospect. "I don't think I'm going to get the shots, though. They have a lot more things to fight it with."

Diane Nealy, an Arlington Heights resident, said she is concerned about the possibility of a flu epidemic. "This thing is dangerous. Yes, I certainly will get the shots," she said.

OTHERS WERE MORE skeptical of Ford's proposal.

"I'll have to hear a lot more before I get shots," said David Dixon, Wheeling.

"I'll have to check with my doctor before I do anything," explained Pat Flug, Des Plaines.

Ford asked Congress to appropriate $135 million to produce the vaccine. The money will be used solely for production of the vaccine. Citizens will be asked to pay a small fee for inoculation, but no person will be turned away.

"I think it's a good idea. But it all depends on who's paying for it and if it'll raise taxes," said Linda Diehl, Hoffman Estates.

"I think it's a wonderful idea," said Mrs. John Mallow, Palatine, explaining she had never heard of the disease before but would get an inoculation if it's available.

DAVE THOMAS, Arlington Heights, said he thought the vaccination program is "a good idea."

"Why don't we wait 'til we're over the flu and have a tryst then?"

But he questioned using tax dollars to pay drug companies to produce the vaccine. Persons who plan to get vaccinated could contribute to a special fund to help shoulder the cost, he said.

A Rolling Meadows man, John Dillon, said he liked the idea of a flu vaccine so much he would pay for his own if the government plan is not approved.

"I'd like to see it made available to us free. But if necessary I'd pay for vaccine shots to protect both myself and family. It's a good idea," he said.

President Ford's proposal that every American be immunized this fall against a potentially deadly flu virus should be taken seriously, several local health experts said Thursday.

Older citizens and debilitated persons in particular should think about getting a vaccination against the flu if the $135 million national program is passed by Congress, a doctor said.

Ford and some public health officials are worried about the possible outbreak of "swine influenza," a virus thought to be similar to a flu strain that killed 500,000 people in the United States and 20 million worldwide in 1918-19.

ONE OUTBREAK OF swine influenza was reported last month at Fort Dix, N.J. To guard against widespread cases in 1976-77, Ford Thursday proposed that Congress appropriate $135 million to make sure there is enough flu vaccine for every man, woman and child in the country.

"We have a tremendous capacity to administer immunizations to large numbers of people," said Dr. Byron J. Francis, chief of the division of disease control for the Illinois Dept. of Public Health.

Flu shots probably would be available in community centers, schools, hospitals, public health departments and doctors' offices if Ford's proposal is accepted.

"A very large-scale program would be feasible, although I would always be unwilling to say that every American would be immunized. Some people would have religious objections; some would find it too inconvenient," Francis said.

ELDERLY CITIZENS and persons with chronic health problems are especially susceptible to flu and its complications, said Dr. Julio C.Gonzalez, head of infection control at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

"The disease is more overwhelming in these cases," he said.

Dr. Colette Rasmussen, epidemiologist for the Cook County public health department, said a mass immunization may mean that officials will have to delay or cut back other public health programs.

"I have not seen the scientific data on which the (President's) decision was made and without having seen it, it is difficult to make an intelligent decision. But I am afraid that we probably will have to sacrifice too much.

"THERE ARE great communicable disease problems in other areas that are not being conquered," she said.

James Watson, a mibrobiologist consultant for Northwest Community Hospital, said the flu vaccine is produced by chicken embryos. Persons who are allergic to eggs should be careful about taking the vaccine, he said.

"An injection will build up immunity for a short duration — one year, or one flu season. But because the flu virus changes its structure — mutates — the antibodies do not offer long-term immunity," Watson said.

Even persons who were exposed to the 1918-19 flu epidemic are probably no longer immune to the swine virus because their level of antibodies will be too low, he said.

Village parking garage wins merchants' blessing

by BILL HILL

Downtown merchants and property owners Thursday showed strong support for a parking garage as the initial project in plans to overhaul Arlington Heights' central business district.

Douglas W. Dodds, president of First Arlington National Bank, said a garage on village-owned property at Vail Avenue and Sigwalt Street "could do a great deal to induce the expansion of the central business district."

Donald F. Morton, president of Arlington Federal Savings, Dodds and the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce organized the special meeting of downtown businessmen to review alternative improvements for the area.

MORTON AND DODDS urged the village to build the first parking garage this year. "We've got the land. We're ready to go," Morton said.

They agreed the corner of Vail and Sigwalt is the ideal site for the first parking garage because the village already owns land there and intends to purchase an adjacent lot with commu-

Chamber seeks to unify hours

Merchants in the central business district will be surveyed by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce to determine if uniform store hours can be established among the downtown stores.

Trustee August Bettman, chairman of the village board's blue ribbon committee on downtown improvements, said Thursday results of questionnaires in this month's village newsletter indicate the lack of uniformity in store hours is a major reason many residents do not shop downtown.

"Establishing uniform hours is the most immediate thing you can do to improve downtown Arlington Heights," a resident told merchants at a special meeting Thursday. "I don't know when anyone is open," she complained.

Earl Johnson, executive manager of the chamber, said many merchants have set hours and taken the attitude "let the other guy change to (be the same as) me."

"Uniform hours would be great, but it's still a management decision for each store's operator," Johnson said.

Johnson said it may be possible to establish at least one night per week when all storeowners will agree to stay open.

Temple and church sponsor play Sunday

Temple Chai and the Kingswood Methodist Church will cosponsor a production of "Hansel and Gretel" by the Lyric Opera Guild at 3 p.m. Sunday at the church, 401 W. Dundee Rd. Buffalo Grove.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for children under 13. Tickets may be purchased at the door. For more information, call 394-4992 or 541-2442.

Mike Klein's people

The morning light broke across my struggling eyes as Harold Kees leaned over and pushed open the right front door of his big, black Cadillac Fleetwood 75.

A great smile came over Harold's craggy face. Then Harold introduced his new passenger to Max Brooks, relaxing peacefully in a rear seat that seemed miles away.

The large hand of Central Standard Time struggled past 6:20 a.m. Harold had been driving his limousine for more than an hour.

It was a beautiful day for chauffeuring customers back and forth to O'Hare Airport.

THERE ARE SOME mornings when Harold has traveled the Northwest suburban highways and byways for two hours before that magical moment when the great red ball of fire rises majestically in eastern skies and little clock radios begin waking America.

Max had been slow today. "I was just telling Harold that my alarm didn't go off this morning," said Max, who was bound from Arlington Heights to "The great city of St. Louis."

There have been other mornings when Max Brooks was late in rising, but Harold has gotten him moving. Max has never missed his plane.

"That's one reason I hit the first customer early," said Harold, who is 54. "Six minutes or eight minutes, that isn't much time to get ready. But I'll tell you, I haven't lost one yet."

None of his customers would miss their O'Hare Airport departures this morning.

NEARLY SEVEN years have passed since Harold Kees' failing back forced him to retire from truck driving.

"Rather than stay on, irritate my back and end up in the hospital, I was advised to take something lighter," said Harold, his eyes concealed behind deep green glasses.

Harold looked around from his Rolling Meadows homestead. What to do now? He began driving for Ray Gosch, who 10 years ago dropped his nursery business to found the Arlington Heights Limousine Service.

Harold is Ray's senior driver. He's generally on the job by 4:30 a.m., sees the sun rise each morning (when it bothers to rise) and leaves for home in the early afternoon.

All trips do not lead to O'Hare. There are charters and funerals and marriage parties. He has even chauffeured mechanics who doctor sick voting machines on election days.

HAROLD STEERED HIS big, bad, black Cadillac Fleetwood 75 down Algonquin Road, heading southeast. He would pick up a new customer to share the rear seat with Max, one Chuck Foster.

We arrived at an apartment complex.

Harold leaped outside. "Just a minute," he said. "I'll put your bag in the back."

Chuck Foster said he was bound

Despite official's opposition

Planners OK rezone for eatery

Rezoning a private residence on 2.5 acres for a restaurant has been approved by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, despite opposition by the village planner.

Donald J. Larson appeared before the commission seeking rezoning of his house and land at 519 W. Algonquin Rd. for a restaurant in a manufacturing zoning district.

Although a restaurant is a permitted used in a manufacturing zone, Joe Kesler, village planner, said it would not be the best use of the land. Kesler said some major companies might not want to locate in the village's southern industrial park if there was a restaurant in the immediate area.

Kesler's objections were echoed by commissioners Lewis O'Donnell and Donald Storino, who voted against the rezoning.

Comr. Norman Breyer said recent court rulings prohibit groups, such as the plan commission, from denying rezoning requests if the proposed use is permitted in that zoning classification.

Breyer said as long as restaurants were allowed in the manufacturing district, the plan commission could not deny rezoning.

The rezoning request was approved by a vote of 8-2. The matter will be sent to the village board for final action. No date for the hearing before the trustees was set.

Tully predicts lower tax rates

Cook County residents may be in for lower tax rates because of increases in real estate assessments announced Thursday by County Assessor Thomas Tully.

Tully said property assessment rose 4.3 per cent to over $13.8 billion throughout the county in 1975, according to the most current figures available.

"An increased tax base which is reflected in the real estate assessment totals we are releasing today can mean lower tax rates for most property owners, and especially homeowners, if local taxing bodies exhibit fiscal restraint in budgeting time," Tully said.

The assessment gains for area townships were:

- Elk Grove — from $379.2 million to $399.2 million, an increase of 5.28 per cent.
- Maine — from $470.5 million to $485.2 million, an increase of 3.14 per cent.
- Palatine — from $205.5 million to $212.8 million, an increase of 3.54 per cent.
- Schaumburg — from $255.8 million to $285.8 million, an increase of 11.71 per cent.
- Wheeling — from $355.4 million to $369.9 million, an increase of 4.08 per cent.

Area man named to Crane's staff

Former Mount Prospect Trustee Earl Lewis has been named to the Illinois staff of U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th.

Lewis will serve as district representative for Crane. He replaced Edward Murnane, who has worked for Crane since 1969 in a variety of positions both in Washington and locally. Murnane resigned from Crane's staff last week.

Crane also announced that Carol Thomas will join his Illinois staff.

Lewis and his wife, Edith, have lived in Mount Prospect for 22 years. He has been active in the Elk Grove Township Repulican Organization. Before joining Crane's staff, Lewis had worked for McGraw Edison. He served as a village trustee from 1967 to 1969.

Dist. 21, state differ on budget deficit

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 officials and the state disagree by $375,000 on the financial picture of the school district. Dist. 21 Supt. John Barger said Thursday that the board of education's projection of a $1 million budget deficit for next year is accurate despite the Illinois Office of Education's projection that the deficit is actually $605,000. Barger said the $375,000 difference in opinion is based on state and federal revenue projections. Barger says declining enrollment and the uncertainty of state aid were the reasons for the $1 million deficit projection. The state had made an analysis of the budget at the request of the Dist. 21 teachers' union. The board of education last month tentatively approved eliminating 50 teaching positions next year.

Employe cuts urged in Prospect

A Mount Prospect village trustee has recommended the firing of six village employes in order to save the village $126,572. Trustee Edward B. Rhea Jr. recommended the employe cutbacks as a means to reinstate other programs that have been cut from the proposed $9.1 million 1976-77 budget. "We must do something about our trees and we must put the sidewalk repair program back in (the budget) Rhea said. The tree and sidewalk programs had been cut from the proposed budget by Village Mgr. Robert Eppley in an effort to offset an estimated $400,000 budget deficit.

Schaumburg cop firing asked

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin J. Conroy is seeking the dismissal of a village patrolman who was arrested earlier this month in connection with a theft scheme. Conroy said Thursday he also has filed 20 departmental charges against Patrolman James Regan. The charges range from misconduct to disobeying orders and will be heard with the dismissal request before the village's police and fire commission April 17. Regan, 31, was arrested earlier this month for allegedly stealing an air conditioner and lawnmower worth $370 from the Walden apartment complex.

STRONGEST AND BEST FOR THE NORTHWEST

Arlington Federal is one of the "400," ranking 384th in size among the nation's 5,000 savings and loan associations. We are 16th among the largest savings and loans of the metropolitan Chicago area, a record which is particularly significant when it is realized that we are only 23 years old. Our competitors among Chicagoland's top 16 were as much as 67 years old when Arlington Federal was founded in Arlington Heights in March 1953.

This record of growth speaks for the reputation that Arlington Federal has earned and for the response of the northwest suburban community to our mission of thrift and development of personal resources.

There are additional reasons why so many savers prefer Arlington Federal. We'd like to mention four here:

1 We offer the highest allowable rates of interest.
Almost every financial institution is saying this—banks as well as savings and loans—and if they say so, they do. Savings and loans, of course, are empowered by Federal regulation to offer as much as 20% more interest than banks can (to encourage investment in housing, one of the nation's major industries, and in home ownership).

Even among savings and loans, however, there are differences in this "highest allowable" matter. How much, for example, does an S&L require as minimal deposit for the saver to enjoy the advantages of larger rates of return for certificates of deposit? Some are asking $5,000. At Arlington Federal, the deposit of only $1,000 earns you 7¾% annually for a six-year term, 7½% for a four-year term, 6¾% for a 2½-year term, 6½% for a one-year term, and 5¾% for a 90-day term. Our passbook rate is 5¼% and it is compounded daily (more about that below).

2 We compute interest for YOUR benefit—not ours.
Did you know that there are some 40 variables in computing the same rate of interest? And that these account for as much as 171% difference in the interest money you actually receive? This was the finding of a Kansas State University study which showed that in just one of these variables—how interest was computed—there was a difference of almost 68%.

Let's show you how this works. At Arlington Federal we compute interest daily from date of deposit to date of withdrawal. Some financial institutions, on the other hand, compute interest by deducting withdrawals from the starting balance of the interest period. To illustrate the difference, let's suppose that you deposit $1,000 on January 1, another $1,000 on February 1, and another $1,000 on March 1. Then on March 20, you withdraw $1,000. How much interest do you get on March 31 from this passbook account paying 5¼% annual interest? Using a first-in-first-out (FIFO) method, some institutions cancel the interest on your January 1 deposit and pay you $12.99 in interest for the quarterly period. At Arlington Federal, using day-in-day-out computation, we pay you $24.29 in interest—almost twice as much! As you see, we compute interest for your benefit—not ours.

3 Money you deposit here gets invested here.
We think of the northwest suburbs as Arlington Federal Territory. Here is where our roots are and where our future is linked. We don't advertise on television (as do the larger metropolitan institutions) because television is expensive and saturates the entire area, from which these associations draw their funds and where they invest them. Arlington Federal restricts our advertising media to those which serve our area, for greater effectiveness and economy. When you deposit your money with us, it goes back into your own community.

You can appreciate how important this is to you. Just consider that in the past 23 years Arlington Federal has invested over $225,000,000 principally in home mortgage loans in this area. Think what this reservoir of money has meant to the economic vitality of your community and to the worth of your home. When you deposit your money in your own community you increase its economic strength. You insure that when your home is ready for sale, the buyer will find the cash here to purchase it.

4 We have more branches in this area than any other financial institution.
As evidence that the northwest suburban community is best served by Arlington Federal, we have established branches wherever Federal authorities have allowed us. They must look kindly upon us because we have more branches here than any other association. We now range from Mount Prospect to Lake Zurich; we are also in downtown Arlington Heights, north Arlington Heights, and Elk Grove Village—and more branches are coming in Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, and elsewhere, to serve you still better.

Can you see now why we maintain that we are strongest and best for the Northwest?

Dist. 21, state differ on budget deficit

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 officials and the state disagree by $375,000 on the financial picture of the school district. Dist. 21 Supt. John Barger said Thursday that the board of education's projection of a $1 million budget deficit for next year is accurate despite the Illinois Office of Education's projection that the deficit is actually $605,000. Barger said the $375,000 difference in opinion is based on state and federal revenue projections. Barger says declining enrollment and the uncertainty of state aid were the reasons for the $1 million deficit projection. The state had made an analysis of the budget at the request of the Dist. 21 teachers' union. The board of education last month tentatively approved eliminating 50 teaching positions next year.

Employe cuts urged in Prospect

A Mount Prospect village trustee has recommended the firing of six village employes in order to save the village $126,572. Trustee Edward B. Rhea Jr. recommended the employe cutbacks as a means to reinstate other programs that have been cut from the proposed $9.1 million 1976-77 budget. "We must do something about our trees and we must put the sidewalk repair program back in (the budget) Rhea said. The tree and sidewalk programs had been cut from the proposed budget by Village Mgr. Robert Eppley in an effort to offset an estimated $400,000 budget deficit.

Schaumburg cop firing asked

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin J. Conroy is seeking the dismissal of a village patrolman who was arrested earlier this month in connection with a theft scheme. Conroy said Thursday he also has filed 20 departmental charges against Patrolman James Regan. The charges range from misconduct to disobeying orders and will be heard with the dismissal request before the village's police and fire commission April 17. Regan, 31, was arrested earlier this month for allegedly stealing an air conditioner and lawnmower worth $370 from the Walden apartment complex.

Tully predicts lower tax rates

Cook County residents may be in for lower tax rates because of increases in real estate assessments announced Thursday by County Assessor Thomas Tully.

Tully said property assessment rose 4.3 per cent to over $13.8 billion throughout the county in 1975, according to the most current figures available.

"An increased tax base which is reflected in the real estate assessment totals we are releasing today can mean lower tax rates for most property owners, and especially homeowners, if local taxing bodies exhibit fiscal restraint in budgeting time," Tully said.

The assessment gains for area townships were:

- Elk Grove — from $379.2 million to $399.2 million, an increase of 5.28 per cent.
- Maine — from $470.5 million to $485.2 million, an increase of 3.14 per cent.
- Palatine — from $205.5 million to $212.8 million, an increase of 3.54 per cent.
- Schaumburg — from $255.8 million to $285.8 million, an increase of 11.71 per cent.
- Wheeling — from $355.4 million to $369.9 million, an increase of 4.08 per cent.

Area man named to Crane's staff

Former Mount Prospect Trustee Earl Lewis has been named to the Illinois staff of U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th.

Lewis will serve as district representative for Crane. He replaced Edward Murnane, who has worked for Crane since 1969 in a variety of positions both in Washington and locally. Murnane resigned from Crane's staff last week.

Crane also announced that Carol Thomas will join his Illinois staff.

Lewis and his wife, Edith, have lived in Mount Prospect for 22 years. He has been active in the Elk Grove Township Repulican Organization. Before joining Crane's staff, Lewis had worked for McGraw Edison. He served as a village trustee from 1967 to 1969.

STRONGEST AND BEST FOR THE NORTHWEST

Arlington Federal is one of the "400," ranking 384th in size among the nation's 5,000 savings and loan associations. We are 16th among the largest savings and loans of the metropolitan Chicago area, a record which is particularly significant when it is realized that we are only 23 years old. Our competitors among Chicagoland's top 16 were as much as 67 years old when Arlington Federal was founded in Arlington Heights in March 1953.

This record of growth speaks for the reputation that Arlington Federal has earned and for the response of the northwest suburban community to our mission of thrift and development of personal resources.

There are additional reasons why so many savers prefer Arlington Federal. We'd like to mention four here:

1 We offer the highest allowable rates of interest.
Almost every financial institution is saying this–banks as well as savings and loans–and if they say so, they do. Savings and loans, of course, are empowered by Federal regulation to offer as much as 20% more interest than banks can (to encourage investment in housing, one of the nation's major industries, and in home ownership).

Even among savings and loans, however, there are differences in this "highest allowable" matter. How much, for example, does an S&L require as minimal deposit for the saver to enjoy the advantages of larger rates of return for certificates of deposit? Some are asking $5,000. At Arlington Federal, the deposit of only $1,000 earns you 7¾% annually for a six-year term, 7½% for a four-year term, 6¾% for a 2½-year term, 6½% for a one-year term, and 5¾% for a 90-day term. Our passbook rate is 5¼% and it is compounded daily (more about that below).

2 We compute interest for YOUR benefit–not ours.
Did you know that there are some 40 variables in computing the same rate of interest? And that these account for as much as 171% difference in the interest money you actually receive? This was the finding of a Kansas State University study which showed that in just one of these variables–how interest was computed–there was a difference of almost 68%.

Let's show you how this works. At Arlington Federal we compute interest daily from date of deposit to date of withdrawal. Some financial institutions, on the other hand, compute interest by deducting withdrawals from the starting balance of the interest period. To illustrate the difference, let's suppose that you deposit $1,000 on January 1, another $1,000 on February 1, and another $1,000 on March 1. Then on March 20, you withdraw $1,000. How much interest do you get on March 31 from this passbook account paying 5¼% annual interest? Using a first-in-first-out (FIFO) method, some institutions cancel the interest on your January 1 deposit and pay you $12.99 in interest for the quarterly period. At Arlington Federal, using day-in-day-out computation, we pay you $24.29 in interest–almost twice as much! As you see, we compute interest for your benefit–not ours.

3 Money you deposit here gets invested here.
We think of the northwest suburbs as Arlington Federal Territory. Here is where our roots are and where our future is linked. We don't advertise on television (as do the larger metropolitan institutions) because television is expensive and saturates the entire area, from which these associations draw their funds and where they invest them. Arlington Federal restricts our advertising media to those which serve our area, for greater effectiveness and economy. When you deposit your money with us, it goes back into your own community.

You can appreciate how important this is to you. Just consider that in the past 23 years Arlington Federal has invested over $225,000,000 principally in home mortgage loans in this area. Think what this reservoir of money has meant to the economic vitality of your community and to the worth of your home. When you deposit your money in your own community you increase its economic strength. You insure that when your home is ready for sale, the buyer will find the cash here to purchase it.

4 We have more branches in this area than any other financial institution.
As evidence that the northwest suburban community is best served by Arlington Federal, we have established branches wherever Federal authorities have allowed us. They must look kindly upon us because we have more branches here than any other association. We now range from Mount Prospect to Lake Zurich; we are also in downtown Arlington Heights, north Arlington Heights, and Elk Grove Village–and more branches are coming in Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, and elsewhere, to serve you still better.

Can you see now why we maintain that we are strongest and best for the Northwest?

Smoke rises over Beirut as anarchy reigns

President Franjieh flees Beirut as death and destruction reign

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Suleiman Franjieh fled his palace under Moslem artillery fire Thursday but refused to resign. Death, destruction and anarchy reigned in Lebanon.

Thousands of Christian youths reported to army barracks in response to an appeal for Christians to take up arms to "defend the homeland."

Corpses lay in the streets. The skies of Beirut were black with smoke, tinted red by continuous artillery and tracer fire. The air was filled with the sound of booming guns.

The Moslem rebel-held Beirut radio instructed citizens to store provisions and "be prepared to go down to the shelters with enough food and water for three days" as Christians and Moslems squared off in the bloodiest round to date in their civil war.

The Christian Phalangist radio said thousands of youths had reported to army barracks in response to an earlier militant Christian call to arms to defend "the land we built stone by stone (which) is dying before our eyes."

More than 250 persons were killed and 600 wounded in what one commentator called "the most terrifying nightmare Lebanon has ever faced." The overall toll since the Christian-Moslem civil war began last April climbed to nearly 15,000 dead and 32,000 injured.

Corpses lay in the streets, some clad only in nightclothes, with no one either available or brave enough to haul the bodies away.

The sky over the ravaged capital was a dark grey from a huge cloud of smoke spiraling from a fire raging out of control in Beirut port and the continuous artillery fire throughout the suburbs.

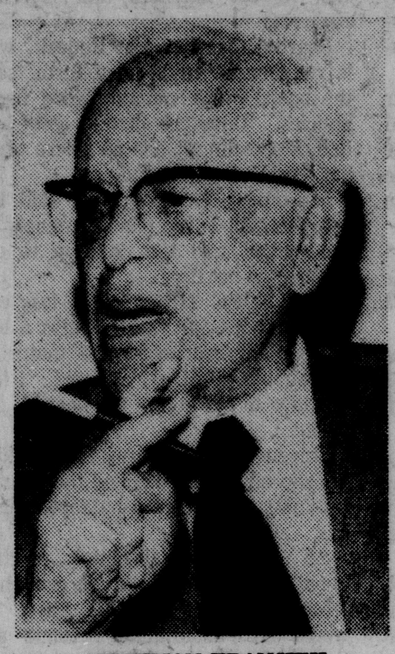
Rebel Moslem forces shelled the Baabda presidential palace with heavy artillery, forcing Franjieh and his family to flee to the Christian stronghold of Jounieh 14 miles to the north.

Forces loyal to Franjieh responded with artillery barrages from 155 mm guns against the western Beirut sector. Frightened residents ran into the streets in panic in their nightclothes and were cut down on the sidewalks.

Franjieh remained adamant that he would not resign until his presidential term expires in September.

"There may be an early election for the next president, but I am staying until the end of my term in accordance with the constitution," Franjieh said.

Christian militia leader Pierre Gemayel issued the call to arms on behalf of the Franjieh forces over the pirate radio station of his right-wing Phalangist Party.



SULEIMAN FRANJIEH

"Lebanese, the homeland is imperiled," he said "Death and destruction are spreading their wings over the cities, villages, fields and mountains. The land we built stone by stone is dying before our eyes while the world forgets us.

"I urge all members of the army, the command and the people to close ranks and report immediately to their nearest barracks to defend their homeland," Gemayel said.

Heavy fighting between rival Christian militias and rebel Moslem army factions flared across the country, with major battles under way in central Beirut, the Mt. Lebanon foothills and north between leftist-controlled Tripoli and Christian Zghorta, Franjieh's hometown.

Elsewhere bands of gunmen prowled the streets of Beirut, kidnaping passersby and shooting at others.

Two shells slammed into the dormitories of the American University of Beirut, wounding four students. Another that fell near the UPI office scattered the bodies of three pedestrians across the sidewalk.

All eyes on junta

Argentina back to normal

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Factories hummed, theaters reopened and Argentina appeared tranquil Thursday while it waited to see if the military junta that overthrew President Isabel Peron could end Argentina's economic and political chaos.

The three-man junta, composed of army commander Lt. Gen Jorge Videla, navy commander Adm. Emilio Massera, and Air Force commander Lt. Gen. Orlando Agosti, has not yet announced any measure to restore Argentina's inflation ridden economy.

Tanks and troops disappeared from the streets one day after Mrs. Peron was overthrown, and there were no reports of any violent confrontations or gunfights. Left-wing terrorists apparently were lying low to await developments.

Banks remained closed so junta agents could go over accounts looking for evidence of graft or corruption in the Peronist administration. Industry sources said military officers had visited important factories in the industrial zones.

Slowdowns, walkouts and a high degree of absenteeism plagued industries Wednesday but production was back to normal 24 hours later, the sources said. Peronist labor leaders were among the first persons arrested when the coup began.

A military communique said "the economic factor is one of the most affected by the disorder, corruption and subversion suffered by the country and making the intervention of the armed forces necessary."

The junta has established military courts with authority to use the death penalty to try terrorists. The armed forces also gave anyone possessing illegal arms or explosives a 48-hour period in which to turn them over to the authorities.

There was no further word on Mrs. Peron, who is under house arrest at a remote mansion usually used by the government for visiting dignitaries, in the Andes lake region near Bariloche, 1,010 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Air force sources said she had no idea she was being arrested Wednesday when she boarded a helicopter to fly her from Buenos Aires to her suburban home. The helicopter set down at a military airport and she was told of the arrest while air force officers menaced her bodyguard and other aides with pistols.

THE SENATE Thursday, by a 50-31 vote, rejected a proposal to ban the British-French Concorde from Landing in the United States. Other amendments are pending, but Concorde's two flights daily into Dulles Airport are expected to begin May 24. Kennedy landings have been held up.

Ford lifts trade boycott against Egypt

President Ford Thursday decided to lift a 20 year old boycott against military trade with Egypt and sell six C130 transport planes to that nation, the White House announced. Congress has 20 days to veto the estimated $40 million cash sale, whch has been opposed by leading American Jewish groups and the Israeli government. The sale includes training for Egyptian airmen in U.S. military schools.

Huge heroin smuggling ring smashed

A huge smuggling ring that allegedly utilized unsuspecting Air Force crews to funnel $100-million worth of pure heroin into the country through U.S. Military bases was broken up with the arrest of 14 persons, officials announced Thursday. "I would say this organization would have to be classified as one of the largest heroin smuggling organizations in the world which would directly affect the United States, particularly the east coast," said Don Ashton, top Drug Enforcement Administration officer in North Carolina. The defendants imported heroin by concealing it in false-bottomed furniture, overnight bags and other such items.

Absent from the brief Roman Catholic ceremony was Miss Longet, his French-born lover. The slaying took place in their Aspen, Colo., residence.

N.Y. mayor unveils fiscal plan

Mayor Abraham Beame Thursday unveiled a modified New York fiscal plan calling for $379 million in new spending cuts and the elimination of an estimated 8,500 additional city jobs. The mayor told a joint session of the Board of Estimate and City Council that most of the job eliminations could be accomplished through attrition, but his official report projected as many as 542 of 5,027 jobs to be dropped in mayoral agencies could come through layoffs.

Probation officers again interview Patty

Patricia Hearst Thursday underwent a second day of intensive interviewing by probation officers who must report to the judge before her bank robbery sentencing April 12. There still was no word on when the 22-year-old newspaper heiress would be flown to Los Angeles for arraignment on kidnaping, robbery and assault charges.

Rhodesia reports fairy tales: Gromyko

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Thursday dismissed as "fairy tales" reports that the Soviet Union plans to intervene in Rhodesia or South West Africa. "Do not believe in fairy tales about the Soviet Union having anything to do with Rhodesia or Namibia," Gromyko said at a Soviet embassy news conference ending three days of talks with the British government. Namibia is the African name for disputed South West Africa, administered by South Africa.

FBI reports 9% crime rate hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI Thursday reported a 9 per cent increase in the nation's crime rate for 1975 compared with the record 18 per cent leap recorded the previous year.

Although the rate of increase slackened by half overall, the report showed the crime rate is rising faster in the small towns, suburbs and rural areas than it is in the big cities.

"While the per cent increase in reported serious crime in the nation was only half as great (in 1975), the levels of crime remained much too high," Attorney General Edward Levi said in a statement accompanying the crime report.

"All segments of the criminal justice system must continue to improve . . ."

Among the major categories of crime, only the murder rate decreased nationwide — by 1 per cent — the FBI said.

Among population groups, the 1975 murder rate dropped 2 per cent in all cities over 25,000 population, 7 per cent in cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population, 5 per cent in cities between 500,000 and 1 million, and 1 per cent in cities over 1 million.

But the murder rate increased by 1 per cent in suburbs, 3 per cent in cities of less than 10,000 population and 5 per cent in rural areas.

The breakdown for overall crime rates showed cities of more than 1 million population had a 6 per cent increase compared to 12 per cent in cities under 10,000 population.

The report showed that increases in property crimes were greater than for violent crimes — a trend also reflected in previous years.

There was a composite 5 per cent increase in murder, rape, robbery and assault nationwide compared to a 9 per cent for burglary, theft or larceny and motor vehicle theft.

The report is a preliminary one for the year. A final FBI report, much greater in detail, comes out in the early fall every year.

The report is based on information sent in voluntarily by police departments, sheriffs and other local law enforcement agents, and the FBI emphasizes it does not necessarily include all crimes actually committed.

Police and Arabs clash in Galilee

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Arab youths Thursday clashed with police in Galilee in the first such incident inside Israel proper since a wave of protests hit the occupied West Bank of Jordan two months ago.

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon, meantime, summoned U. S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon for talks about the tough American stand against Israeli policies on the West Bank.

In the Galilee clash teenagers threw rocks at Israeli police after Arab notables voted to reject a Communist-proposed general strike against planned government expropriation of thousands of acres of land.

One policeman was hurt and 20 youths were arrested, police said.

Thirty-five of 48 heads of local Arab councils voted against the strike called for March 30 by the newly formed Congress for the Protection of Arab-Owned Land.

Employers in the area warned that workers who did not show up next Tuesday would be considered to have quit.

The youths outside the meeting at Shfar'am in Western Galilee shouted, "We are ready to die for Galilee!"

The government, which requisitioned the acreage for a predominantly Jewish housing project and an army base, has promised compensation in the form of money and land.

Allon's meeting with Toon Friday will follow contacts between Israeli officials in Washington and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to express dissatisfaction with the comments of Ambassador William Scranton in the U. N. Security Council Tuesday. Scranton called Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territories an "obstacle to peace."

Israeli officials said Scranton's speech departed "both in content and phrasing" from declared U. S. policy on the Middle East and they expected a formal statement putting the remarks in context.

Meantime, at the United Nations Security Council Thursday night, the United States vetoed a resolution that would have deplored Israel's annexation of Jerusalem and would have called for an end to Israeli measures against Arab inhabitants of occupied territories.

The vote for the measure was 14-1, with only Ambassador William W. Scranton's negative vote killing its passage.

It was the 14th U.S. veto in U.N. history and the fifth time the United States used its veto power to prevent action against Israel.

Scranton, whose criticism of Israeli policy in occupied Arab territories earlier this week brought heavy pressure from Israel, told the council the five-power resolution did not meet the standards Washington felt would advance peace in the Middle East.

Foot in front in voting to succeed Wilson

LONDON (UPI) — Employment Secretary Michael Foot, 62, a spellbinding prophet of oldtime Socialism and darling of the governing Labor party's left wing, won the first ballot for prime minister Thursday but failed to get the majority needed for outright victory.

A second ballot among the 317 labor party members of parliament was ordered for March 30.

The lowest man in the first round of voting was eliminated automatically and two others pulled out quickly, leaving only three contestants for the second round.

Political observers predicted the outcome would be decided in a third and final round of voting April 1.

Foot was followed closely by Foreign Secretary James Callaghan. Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, a party right winger, placed third.

Corpses lay in the streets, some clad only in nightclothes, with no one either available or brave enough to haul the bodies away.

The sky over the ravaged capital was a dark grey from a huge cloud of smoke spiraling from a fire raging out of control in Beirut port and the continuous artillery fire throughout the suburbs.

Rebel Moslem forces shelled the Baabda presidential palace with heavy artillery, forcing Franjieh and his family to flee to the Christian stronghold of Jounieh 14 miles to the north.

Forces loyal to Franjieh responded with artillery barrages from 155 mm guns against the western Beirut sector. Frightened residents ran into the streets in panic in their nightclothes and were cut down on the sidewalks.

Franjieh remained adamant that he would not resign until his presidential term expires in September.

"There may be an early election for the next president, but I am staying until the end of my term in accordance with the constitution," Franjieh said.

Christian militia leader Pierre Gemayel issued the call to arms on behalf of the Franjieh forces over the pirate radio station of his right-wing Phalangist Party.

SULEIMAN FRANJIEH

"Lebanese, the homeland is imperiled," he said "Death and destruction are spreading their wings over the cities, villages, fields and mountains. The land we built stone by stone is dying before our eyes while the world forgets us.

"I urge all members of the army, the command and the people to close ranks and report immediately to their nearest barracks to defend their homeland," Gemayel said.

Heavy fighting between rival Christian militias and rebel Moslem army factions flared across the country, with major battles under way in central Beirut, the Mt. Lebanon foothills and north between leftist-controlled Tripoli and Christian Zghorta, Franjieh's hometown.

Elsewhere bands of gunmen prowled the streets of Beirut, kidnaping passersby and shooting at others.

Two shells slammed into the dormitories of the American University of Beirut, wounding four students. Another that fell near the UPI office scattered the bodies of three pedestrians across the sidewalk.

All eyes on junta

Argentina back to normal

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Factories hummed, theaters reopened and Argentina appeared tranquil Thursday while it waited to see if the military junta that overthrew President Isabel Peron could end Argentina's economic and political chaos.

The three-man junta, composed of army commander Lt. Gen Jorge Videla, navy commander Adm. Emilio Massera, and Air Force commander Lt. Gen. Orlando Agosti, has not yet announced any measure to restore Argentina's inflation ridden economy.

Tanks and troops disappeared from the streets one day after Mrs. Peron was overthrown, and there were no reports of any violent confrontations or gunfights. Left-wing terrorists apparently were lying low to await developments.

Banks remained closed so junta agents could go over accounts looking for evidence of graft or corruption in the Peronist administration. Industry sources said military officers had visited important factories in the industrial zones.

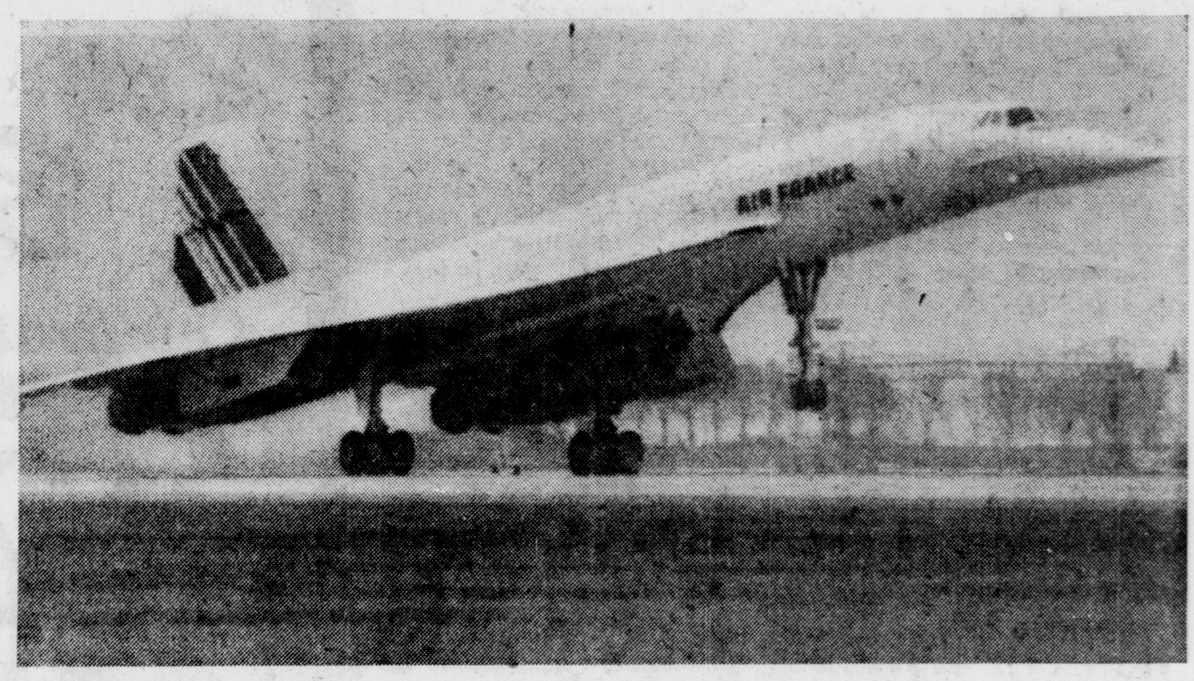
Slowdowns, walkouts and a high degree of absenteeism plagued industries Wednesday but production was back to normal 24 hours later, the sources said. Peronist labor leaders were among the first persons arrested when the coup began.

A military communique said "the economic factor is one of the most affected by the disorder, corruption and subversion suffered by the country and making the intervention of the armed forces necessary."

The junta has established military courts with authority to use the death penalty to try terrorists. The armed forces also gave anyone possessing illegal arms or explosives a 48-hour period in which to turn them over to the authorities.

There was no further word on Mrs. Peron, who is under house arrest at a remote mansion usually used by the government for visiting dignitaries, in the Andes lake region near Bariloche, 1,010 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Air force sources said she had no idea she was being arrested Wednesday when she boarded a helicopter to fly her from Buenos Aires to her suburban home. The helicopter set down at a military airport and she was told of the arrest while air force officers menaced her bodyguard and other aides with pistols.



THE SENATE Thursday, by a 50-31 vote, rejected a proposal to ban the British-French Concorde from Landing in the United States. Other amendments are pending, but Concorde's two flights daily into Dulles Airport are expected to begin May 24. Kennedy landings have been held up.

Ford lifts trade boycott against Egypt

President Ford Thursday decided to lift a 20 year old boycott against military trade with Egypt and sell six C130 transport planes to that nation, the White House announced. Congress has 20 days to veto the estimated $40 million cash sale, whch has been opposed by leading American Jewish groups and the Israeli government. The sale includes training for Egyptian airmen in U.S. military schools.

Huge heroin smuggling ring smashed

A huge smuggling ring that allegedly utilized unsuspecting Air Force crews to funnel $100-million worth of pure heroin into the country through U.S. Military bases was broken up with the arrest of 14 persons, officials announced Thursday. "I would say this organization would have to be classified as one of the largest heroin smuggling organizations in the world which would directly affect the United States, particularly the east coast," said Don Ashton, top Drug Enforcement Administration officer in North Carolina. The defendants imported heroin by concealing it in false-bottomed furniture, overnight bags and other such items.

'Spider' Sabich buried in Nevada

Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, a ski professional and former U.S. Olympian allegedly slain by singer Claudine Longet, was buried Thursday in Sierra, Nev., where, as a youngster he became enchanted with the snow slopes. Absent from the brief Roman Catholic ceremony was Miss Longet, his French-born lover. The slaying took place in their Aspen, Colo., residence.

N.Y. mayor unveils fiscal plan

Mayor Abraham Beame Thursday unveiled a modified New York fiscal plan calling for $379 million in new spending cuts and the elimination of an estimated 8,500 additional city jobs. The mayor told a joint session of the Board of Estimate and City Council that most of the job eliminations could be accomplished through attrition, but his official report projected as many as 542 of 5,027 jobs to be dropped in mayoral agencies could come through layoffs.

Probation officers again interview Patty

Patricia Hearst Thursday underwent a second day of intensive interviewing by probation officers who must report to the judge before her bank robbery sentencing April 12. There still was no word on when the 22-year-old newspaper heiress would be flown to Los Angeles for arraignment on kidnaping, robbery and assault charges.

Rhodesia reports fairy tales: Gromyko

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Thursday dismissed as "fairy tales" reports that the Soviet Union plans to intervene in Rhodesia or South West Africa. "Do not believe in fairy tales about the Soviet Union having anything to do with Rhodesia or Namibia," Gromyko said at a Soviet embassy news conference ending three days of talks with the British government. Namibia is the African name for disputed South West Africa, administered by South Africa.

FBI reports 9% crime rate hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI Thursday reported a 9 per cent increase in the nation's crime rate for 1975 compared with the record 18 per cent leap recorded the previous year.

Although the rate of increase slackened by half overall, the report showed the crime rate is rising faster in the small towns, suburbs and rural areas than it is in the big cities.

"While the per cent increase in reported serious crime in the nation was only half as great (in 1975), the levels of crime remained much too high," Attorney General Edward Levi said in a statement accompanying the crime report.

"All segments of the criminal justice system must continue to improve . . ."

Among the major categories of crime, only the murder rate decreased nationwide — by 1 per cent — the FBI said.

Among population groups, the 1975 murder rate dropped 2 per cent in all cities over 25,000 population, 7 per cent in cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population, 5 per cent in cities between 500,000 and 1 million, and 1 per cent in cities over 1 million.

But the murder rate increased by 1 per cent in suburbs, 3 per cent in cities of less than 10,000 population and 5 per cent in rural areas.

The breakdown for overall crime rates showed cities of more than 1 million population had a 6 per cent increase compared to 12 per cent in cities under 10,000 population.

The report showed that increases in property crimes were greater than for violent crimes — a trend also reflected in previous years.

There was a composite 5 per cent increase in murder, rape, robbery and assault nationwide compared to a 9 per cent for burglary, theft or larceny and motor vehicle theft.

The report is a preliminary one for the year. A final FBI report, much greater in detail, comes out in the early fall every year.

The report is based on information sent in voluntarily by police departments, sheriffs and other local law enforcement agents, and the FBI emphasizes it does not necessarily include all crimes actually committed.

Police and Arabs clash in Galilee

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Arab youths Thursday clashed with police in Galilee in the first such incident inside Israel proper since a wave of protests hit the occupied West Bank of Jordan two months ago.

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon, meantime, summoned U. S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon for talks about the tough American stand against Israeli policies on the West Bank.

In the Galilee clash teenagers threw rocks at Israeli police after Arab notables voted to reject a Communist-proposed general strike against planned government expropriation of thousands of acres of land.

One policeman was hurt and 20 youths were arrested, police said.

Thirty-five of 48 heads of local Arab councils voted against the strike called for March 30 by the newly formed Congress for the Protection of Arab-Owned Land.

Employers in the area warned that workers who did not show up next Tuesday would be considered to have quit.

The youths outside the meeting at Shfar'am in Western Galilee shouted, "We are ready to die for Galilee!"

The government, which requisitioned the acreage for a predominantly Jewish housing project and an army base, has promised compensation in the form of money and land.

Allon's meeting with Toon Friday will follow contacts between Israeli officials in Washington and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to express dissatisfaction with the comments of Ambassador William Scranton in the U. N. Security Council Tuesday. Scranton called Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territories an "obstacle to peace."

Israeli officials said Scranton's speech departed "both in content and phrasing" from declared U. S. policy on the Middle East and they expected a formal statement putting the remarks in context.

Meantime, at the United Nations Security Council Thursday night, the United States vetoed a resolution that would have deplored Israel's annexation of Jerusalem and would have called for an end to Israeli measures against Arab inhabitants of occupied territories.

The vote for the measure was 14-1, with only Ambassador William W. Scranton's negative vote killing its passage.

It was the 14th U.S. veto in U.N. history and the fifth time the United States used its veto power to prevent action against Israel.

Scranton, whose criticism of Israeli policy in occupied Arab territories earlier this week brought heavy pressure from Israel, told the council the five-power resolution did not meet the standards Washington felt would advance peace in the Middle East.

Foot in front in voting to succeed Wilson

LONDON (UPI) — Employment Secretary Michael Foot, 62, a spellbinding prophet of oldtime Socialism and darling of the governing Labor party's left wing, won the first ballot for prime minister Thursday but failed to get the majority needed for outright victory.

A second ballot among the 317 labor party members of parliament was ordered for March 30.

The lowest man in the first round of voting was eliminated automatically and two others pulled out quickly, leaving only three contestants for the second round.

Political observers predicted the outcome would be decided in a third and final round of voting April 1.

Foot was followed closely by Foreign Secretary James Callaghan. Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, a party right winger, placed third.

Budget cutbacks major issue in Dist. 21 election

by DIANE GRANAT

The impact of budget cutbacks in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 appears to be a key issue in the district's board of education race.

Parents at Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights, quizzed board candidates this week on their views of the recent cuts made by the board to offset a projected $1 million deficit in the 1976-77 budget.

Seven of the eight candidates running for three 3-year terms on the board answered questions during a PTA-sponsored candidates night.

THE 25 PARENTS attending the meeting heard several board hopefuls question budget cuts while incumbent candidates defended the action.

The Dist. 21 board last month approved the elimination of 50 teaching positions and the reduction of administration and materials costs to prevent the anticipated deficit.

Candidate Elaine Bond of Arlington Heights said she strongly opposes teacher cutbacks. She said the first priority should be to cut administrators, and teacher cutbacks should be made last.

Barbara Floyd of Buffalo Grove said she objected to the teacher cuts because they directly affect the children.

NEWCOMER FRED HARMS of Arlington Heights said the district will have to release some teachers to remain fiscally responsible. He added however, that he would like to see alternate solutions investigated before eliminating 50 teachers.

Linda Sprechman, also of Arlington Heights, questioned the board's decision to cut teachers and increase class size.

Board Pres. Kenneth Rodeck, who is running for his second term, said the board must maintain good fiscal policies. "Once the district gets into deficit spending it has no where to go but down," Rodeck said.

Incumbent Barbara Farr said the board is still in the planning stages of the budget and the decision to cut teachers is not final.

"I'M SURE THERE IS a loss cutting teachers, but there is also a loss cutting administration and materials and supplies," Mrs. Farr said. "I feel we have to cut across the board," she added.

Steven Greenberg, who is seeking his second term, defended the board's attempts to achieve a balanced budget.

"If we were absolutely certain about significant population growth in Dist. 21, then we would know we would have additional revenue and deficit spending would be realistic," Greenberg said.

"However, we don't know what that will be," Greenberg said.

James Gallagher of Wheeling did not attend the candidates night. Gallagher, who is running for his first term on the board, said he was not notified of the meeting.

DOROTHY BRUSSEAU, vice president of the Riley PTA, said Gallagher was not contacted about the meeting because "no one knew he was running before last Friday," when he filed a nominating petition.

State figures on deficit hit by Dist. 21 officials

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education said Thursday its projection of a $1 million deficit in the 1976-77 budget is accurate despite an Illinois Office of Education projection of a $605,000 deficit.

An analysis of the Dist. 21 projections by the state education office estimated approximately $375,000 in additional revenues are available which the board did not expect.

Associate Supt. John Barger said, however, that the additional $375,000 will not be available because of decreases in state aid, federal funds and tax revenue.

The Illinois Office of Education report was compiled in response to a request from the Dist. 21 teacher's union for an independent analysis of the current budget, revenue projections and next year's budget.

THE REPORT WAS READ to more than 250 parents and teachers attending the board meeting Thursday at London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The Dist. 21 Board last month approved tentative budget cuts which would eliminate 50 teaching positions, reduce the administrative staff and cut materials and supplies. The cuts would involve an increase in class size from an average of 25 to 27 students per class.

The Dist. 21 teachers' union two weeks ago asked the board to consider other ways to prevent a budget deficit besides cutting teachers and increasing class size.

The teachers told the board that in their analysis of the district's finances, they found surplus funds available.

The board Thursday replied to the teacher's budget evaluation and indicated the teachers' figures were incorrect.

BOARD PRES. KENNETH Rodeck said, "The Illinois Office of Education report substantiated our evaluation of the budget."

"The desirability of a reduced class size has been a goal of the board, but fiscal responsibility is also important to the board," Rodeck said.

Rodeck said because of decreased state aid, lower tax revenue and declining enrollment, the board has no alternative but to reduce expenditures.

The Illinois Office of Education suggested additional sources of revenue for the district, including holding a tax referendum to raise taxes and issuing tax anticipation warrants.

The state also said, however, that the funds acquired from a tax increase would not be available until the 1977-78 school year.

The board at 10:30 p.m. Thursday had not decided whether to send letters of dismissal to the 50 nontenured teachers affected by the cutbacks.

Unit school report hit in Dist. 59

A consultant's report on the educational advantages of a unit school district was criticized Thursday by members of a citizens committee studying the formation of a unit district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59.

Jake Turban, a member of the committee, said the report was biased in favor of the unit district concept because it did not give enough information on dual districts.

"I don't find a single statement that goes toward a dual district," Turban said.

"Most of the statements are not backed up by any specific data. I want the facts. We're not hearing the other side of the story," he said.

THE CITIZENS committee reviewed the educational report by the Illinois School Consultants, hired by Dist. 59 to provide information on forming a unit district.

A unit district would have one administration and school board governing kindergarten through 12th grade.

Dist. 59 now is one of seven elementary districts in High School District 214.

The report outlined current programs in Dist. 214 and Dist. 59. It also highlighted possible benefits for education programs if a unit district were formed.

JAN SCHMUTZER, a committee member, said she needed facts to compare unit and dual districts. "In all the information we have no comparison of facts. There is nowhere here that proves to me a unit district is better," she said.

Ed Kenna, also a committee member said, "If you are going to compare two things you must have two things to look at. You must look very thoroughly to dig through the irrelevancy in the report."

"Once you dig there is very little here," he said.

Wendel Peterson, a committee member, said he felt the report is "covering up. There is a feeling we are covering up because it's a hot issue. We have the opportunity here to be honest if we want to."

Tom Guy, committee chairman, said the consultants "were not expected to remain impartial."

Landis Holdorf, consultant, said his "attempt has been to be impartial and complete to give you material on the education program."

"Our focal point should be to look at what exists today and what would happen if a unit were formed," Holdorf said.

Mrs. Schmutzer said members criticizing the report, "don't want the material predigested with the conclusion already made."

Three get Dist. 25 union support

Two incumbents and one newcomer have been endorsed by the Dist. 25 teachers' union as candidates for the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education.

Incumbents Edith Jolly, 1310 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, and Donald Gibbins, 507 W. Cedar, Arlington Heights, and newcomer Douglas Chidley, 211 N. Lincoln Ln., Arlington Heights, were endorsed Monday by the Illinois Political Action Committee of the Illinois Education Assn., (IEA). Dist. 25 teachers who are members of the local Arlington Teachers Assn. are affiliated with the IEA.

Committee Chairman Ralph Smith said the committee believed that all five candidates who are running for the board are qualified, but the committee believed the three candidates endorsed "were more qualified than the others." The committee plans to inform members of the Arlington Teachers Assn. of the endorsement and plans to support the three candidates in their campaign for three 3-year terms open this year.

Other candidates seeking election April 10 are newcomers Sharon Wanner, 404 Larkdale Ln., Mount Prospect, and James Foster, 1416 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights.

Village legal unit OKs limit on coin-operated games

An ordinance limiting a business to 10 coin-operated amusement games has been approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board's legal committee.

The annual license fee for each machine is set at $30.

The intent of the ordinance is to prohibit games centers or arcades in the village.

Previously, an annual fee of $30 was charged but no limit has ever been set.

The proposed ordinance includes a provision excluding hotels, exhibition centers and race tracks from the 10-game per business limit. There are presently more than 20 coin-operated amusement devices at scattered sites around the Arlington Park race track-hotel complex.

The Pit-N-Pub on Rand Road now has 17 coin-operated machines but will not be forced to remove seven because it would be a violation of the business' property rights, Village Atty. Ernest Blomquist said. The Pit-N-Pub will not, however, be allowed to add any machines, he said.

HELP CHILDREN AVOID TROUBLE
To them, a package of pills or tablets, or a colorful bottle of medicine is a fascinating toy.

MEDICINES CAN BE DANGEROUS
If a large enough amount is absorbed, any medicine can become poisonous. Too often prescriptions, which are perfectly safe to take in their proper dosage, are carelessly left where little children can get at them.

PLEASE DANGER-CHECK YOUR HOME NOW
1. Collect all medicines and put them in a place impossible for children to reach.
2. While doing this throw away everything that is old or with contents you do not know.
3. Then, when you finish taking a dose of any medicine, don't carelessly leave it exposed to tempt children, but immediately place it away from their reach.

ALWAYS READ THE LABEL OF ANY MEDICINE
Never give or take any medicine without reading the label and directions to make certain it is the exact one you want.

PHARMACISTS ALWAYS CHECK LABELS
While compounding prescriptions we read the label of each ingredient when we take it off the shelf. We carefully read the label again before we compound the medicine. We next, for the third time, check the label and contents before we dispense the prescription. If you will be as careful, you will prevent trouble.

61 employes cut from fall payroll

Sixty-one employes are being notified they will not be rehired this fall in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

The Dist. 25 Board of Education accepted a personnel report Tuesday calling for the elimination of about 70 full-time and part-time jobs in the district, which includes the reduction of 43 teaching positions, about 10 instructional aides and other educational support personnel.

Because some employes already have resigned in the district for next year, only 61 employes will be notified they will not be offered a contract for the coming school year. All of the teachers are first- or second-year teachers and do not have tenure. If more resignations are forthcoming, some of these teachers may be rehired.

The reduction in staff is the result of a decline in enrollment in the district and budget cuts made by the board to offset a growing financial deficit. The reduction in teachers will increase the average class size in the district from about 25 students per teacher to an average of 26.4.

Board Pres. William Beck expressed his "personal pride in this staff and this district" and commended the staff for its contribution to the district and its understanding of the district's financial problems.

'76-'77 calendar approved

Students will report to classes Sept. 1 in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 to begin the 1976-77 school year.

The Dist. 26 Board of Education Tuesday approved a calendar for the coming year. Teachers will report to school on Aug. 30 for a workshop, with the first day of classes scheduled Sept. 1.

Thanksgiving vacation will be November 25 and 26. Winter vacation begins at the close of classes Dec. 22, and classes resume Jan. 3. Spring vacation begins at the close of classes April 7, and classes resume April 18.

The last day of classes next year will be June 10.

The festival is free of charge and open to the public.

Parking garage wins blessing of local merchants

nity development funds, Dodds said.

The garage is needed as a "stimulant" for further expansion of the central business district, he said.

"I don't think we need parking garages downtown right now, but if we built a few high-rise buildings, I think we would see a need for parking garages overnight," Morton said.

DODDS ALSO said he does not foresee any problems with financing downtown improvements through revenue from the parking garages and a special tax district. He is opposed to issuing any general obligation bonds.

"The business district should be able to pay its own way to pull itself out of its present situation," he said.

Though the parking garage proposal was well-received at the meeting attended by more than 60 persons, some objections were raised to the plans presented by Village Planner Joseph Kesler and the special tax district proposal.

"We are the forgotten part in all these plans, but we're not forgotten when it comes time to pay for them," a northside businessman said. "I can see this construction occurring on the south side and ending there."

DODDS AND KESLER said the second garage would be built on the north side of Northwest Highway.

There was also some opposition to Kesler's proposals, which call for Campbell and Miner streets to be closed to auto traffic and landscaped as pedestrian shopper malls. The plans also call for parking to be prohibited on Vail, Dunton and Evergreen avenues to allow for wider, landscaped sidewalks.

The village board's blue-ribbon committee on downtown improvements will meet Thursday to review Kesler's proposals and surveys returned by residents. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

61 employes cut from fall payroll

Sixty-one employes are being notified they will not be rehired this fall in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

The Dist. 25 Board of Education accepted a personnel report Tuesday calling for the elimination of about 70 full-time and part-time jobs in the district, which includes the reduction of 43 teaching positions, about 10 instructional aides and other educational support personnel.

Because some employes already have resigned in the district for next year, only 61 employes will be notified they will not be offered a contract for the coming school year. All of the teachers are first- or second-year teachers and do not have tenure. If more resignations are forthcoming, some of these teachers may be rehired.

The reduction in staff is the result of a decline in enrollment in the district and budget cuts made by the board to offset a growing financial deficit. The reduction in teachers will increase the average class size in the district from about 25 students per teacher to an average of 26.4.

Board Pres. William Beck expressed his "personal pride in this staff and this district" and commended the staff for its contribution to the district and its understanding of the district's financial problems.

'76-'77 calendar approved

Students will report to classes Sept. 1 in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 to begin the 1976-77 school year.

The Dist. 26 Board of Education Tuesday approved a calendar for the coming year. Teachers will report to school on Aug. 30 for a workshop, with the first day of classes scheduled Sept. 1.

Thanksgiving vacation will be November 25 and 26. Winter vacation begins at the close of classes Dec. 22, and classes resume Jan. 3. Spring vacation begins at the close of classes April 7, and classes resume April 18.

The last day of classes next year will be June 10.

Parking garage wins blessing of local merchants

nity development funds, Dodds said.

The garage is needed as a "stimulant" for further expansion of the central business district, he said.

"I don't think we need parking garages downtown right now, but if we built a few high-rise buildings, I think we would see a need for parking garages overnight," Morton said.

DODDS ALSO said he does not foresee any problems with financing downtown improvements through revenue from the parking garages and a special tax district. He is opposed to issuing any general obligation bonds.

"The business district should be able to pay its own way to pull itself out of its present situation," he said.

Though the parking garage proposal was well-received at the meeting attended by more than 60 persons, some objections were raised to the plans presented by Village Planner Joseph Kesler and the special tax district proposal.

"We are the forgotten part in all these plans, but we're not forgotten when it comes time to pay for them," a northside businessman said. "I can see this construction occurring on the south side and ending there."

DODDS AND KESLER said the second garage would be built on the north side of Northwest Highway.

There was also some opposition to Kesler's proposals, which call for Campbell and Miner streets to be closed to auto traffic and landscaped as pedestrian shopper malls. The plans also call for parking to be prohibited on Vail, Dunton and Evergreen avenues to allow for wider, landscaped sidewalks.

The village board's blue-ribbon committee on downtown improvements will meet Thursday to review Kesler's proposals and surveys returned by residents. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

for St. Louis and Washington, D.C. He has just moved here and still does not understand our weather.

"It won't be long and I'll be working on my trailer," said Harold, who enjoys camping on weekends.

MAX JOKED THAT signals are not straight with his wife when it comes to summer.

"I told her this summer she could work in the yard and I'd go fishing," said Max. "She threatened to resign."

It was 6:46 a.m. Higgins Road had become packed with the automobiles of morning.

Harold steered around the mess. He said the tollroads are risky after 7 o'clock. "You get too much traffic or a fender-bender and you watch your plane take off," he said.

Today

Mike Klein's people

Chuck Foster was talking again about the weather. He has not grown accustomed to tornados, snow and sunshine all within the same 24-hour period.

HAROLD HAD DRIVEN onto the O'Hare grounds now. Few automobiles hustled about. But the Chicago policemen, looking every bit like theater actors, had found their spots, ready to direct the coming masses.

"Just wait until our next run," warned Harold. "This place will be so busy, you won't believe it."

Harold's big, bad, black Cadillac Fleetwood 75 drew up near the Delta Airlines dropoff area. Harold, Max and Chuck hopped outside the limousine.

Chuck's baggage was retrieved. The three men wished each other their best. Then Harold slipped back inside his Cadillac.

It was 7:02 a.m. His day had just begun.

Thompson's ethics plan puts Howlett on notice

by STEVE BROWN

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett Thursday was put on notice that the questions about his outside employment and personal finances raised during the primary campaign by Gov. Daniel Walker will not be forgotten.

Republican James R. Thompson, who will face Howlett in the November election, introduced a series of ethics proposals which he said were "among the toughest ever proposed for any state in the country."

The proposals would prohibit several practices Howlett has followed during his 16 years in government to make violations of the ethics standards criminal felonies.

THOMPSON INSISTED his ethics plan was not an "anti-Howlett proposal." He also insisted he was not defending Howlett's holding of a $15,000 per year job with Sun Steel.

"I think the public deserves an answer on what he did for Sun Steel. I asked that question during the primary campaign and I will continue to ask it," he said.

Howlett's outside job was disclosed during the campaign. He announced, after heated questioning about what he did for the company, that he had resigned the position.

"I call upon him to explain exactly what he did for Sun Steel," Thompson added. Howlett has said only that he did sales and labor consulting work for the company.

THOMPSON'S ETHICS proposal would bar elected officials from holding outside jobs during their elected terms.

The proposal also calls for the creation of a State Board of Ethics for all of state government.

Walker attempted to do the same thing, but the Illinois General Assembly refused to pass the needed legislation. The governor later created an ethics board to cover the employes under his direct control.

The proposal would also:

- Ban politicians from converting campaign contributions for their private use.
- Prohibit lawyer-legislators from practicing before any state regulatory agencies.
- And prohibit former lawmakers and state employes from lobbying before any state regulatory agency.

Thompson said he would press to make violations of these provisions a felony.

He also suggested that some public employes who are now required to file economic disclosures statements would be freed from that requirement under the new law. The group will include teachers and state troopers, who are now required to file the statement annually because they make more than $20,000 per year.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetic must abide by consistent diet

I am supposed to be a diabetic and have been for two years. I am still concerned about this because at times I feel like I'm not. The way I felt before going to a doctor was always thirsty, dizzy and hardly able to see. I had double vision and also weight loss of about 20 pounds in two weeks. I made an appointment to see the doctor and he told me to eat something real sweet two hours before coming in, which I did. He ran a urine test and also a blood test and then put me in the hospital. They said my blood sugar went to 450. I don't really know what this means. They started me on 38 units of insulin. I can't stay on my diet. What effect will this have on me? Does this mean I am really a diabetic and I just don't want to accept it?

You are a diabetic. Even considering the varitaions in laboratory tests and the temporary peak rises in blood sugars that people may have, your level is way out.

Your symptoms were typical of an untreated diabetic. The basic defect is the failure of the normal insulin mechanism to enable glucose (sugar) to be transported into the cells for energy. It builds up in the blood. Normally the blood level even after eating a very sweet meal is not over 170.

The excess glucose in the blood is spilled into the urine producing what the old medical sages called "sweet urine." This food energy is literally lost into the urine and is not available to the body, resulting in weight loss.

The kidney has trouble concentrating sugar and uses a lot of water to flush out excess glucose. When you lose a lot of water, you are thirsty. A typical advanced diabetic is thirsty, drinks a lot of water, passes a lot of urine, is weak and may have weight loss despite eating lots of food.

All carbohydrates from any source including milk merely help build up the level of blood glucose and are not used properly for energy. In the advanced diabetic the body protein including that in the muscle may be broken down and converted into glucose. This causes the blood glucose level to rise even if the carbohydrate intake is restricted.

YOU HAVE TO correct the basic defect as best you can. That means providing insulin. The amount of insulin you take has to be balanced against the amount of food you eat. That is why you must be consistent in your diet and follow your doctor's directions carefully. Exercise also influences the utilization of food energy. It becomes important to regulate your physical activity level. The intelligent diabetic follows a consistent pattern of the same amounts of energy intake in the diet and energy expenditure in terms of physical activity. This enables satisfactory control with a relatively constant level of insulin.

You are very unwise if you are not staying on the diet your doctor asked you to follow in relation to the amount of insulin he is giving you. Diabetes is a serious disease. A great deal can be done to control it and prevent complications in the patient who is well supervised and cooperates with the doctor.

You have an advanced form of diabetes and you need all the help you can get. Those who want more information on diabetes can send 50 cents for The Letter, number 3-10, Diabetes, the Sweet Sickness. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Good cleaning might restore blackboard

Dear Dorothy: How would you go about resurfacing an old, worn-out blackboard? A neighbor's solution was to get a new one. I did and I don't like it. The old one has hardboard backing. The front looks as if the factory had painted it flat black. But what kind of paint?—James Maher

Welcome to the pack-rat club. You show the proper insticnt, although you flunked the first course. The true pack-rat would not have gone out to buy a new blackboard without first going through all the classwork. The old surface may not be worn out, but simply covered with layers of chalk, dirt and so forth.

There are several recommended ways of cleaning: 0000 steel wool, fine emery paper, baking soda on a damp sponge (then rinsed and dried with a clean sponge) or a good cleaning solvent. If none of these works, then you buy regular blackboard paint at any school supply outfit.

Dear Dorothy: A reader was asking for suggestions on how to take away the bare look from skinned chicken. I, too, take off the skin and dip each piece in a favorite low-calorie salad dressing, then sprinkle with cornflake crumbs. The pieces are then baked in the oven, covered with foil, for 30 minutes. Then the foil is removed and the chicken baked until tender and brown.—Cordelia B. Pullum

Dear Dorothy: We love birds but hate to have them roosting in our garage. We have to leave the door open on account of our dog. Do you have any suggestions?—Cynthia Osgood String a bunch of small aluminum foil pans across the top of the door frame. The smallest breeze rattles the pans and birds hate to be disturbed after night sets in. Soon, no more nesters.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetic must abide by consistent diet

I am supposed to be a diabetic and have been for two years. I am still concerned about this because at times I feel like I'm not. The way I felt before going to a doctor was always thirsty, dizzy and hardly able to see. I had double vision and also weight loss of about 20 pounds in two weeks. I made an appointment to see the doctor and he told me to eat something real sweet two hours before coming in, which I did. He ran a urine test and also a blood test and then put me in the hospital. They said my blood sugar went to 450. I don't really know what this means. They started me on 38 units of insulin. I can't stay on my diet. What effect will this have on me? Does this mean I am really a diabetic and I just don't want to accept it?

You are a diabetic. Even considering the varitaions in laboratory tests and the temporary peak rises in blood sugars that people may have, your level is way out.

Your symptoms were typical of an untreated diabetic. The basic defect is the failure of the normal insulin mechanism to enable glucose (sugar) to be transported into the cells for energy. It builds up in the blood. Normally the blood level even after eating a very sweet meal is not over 170.

The excess glucose in the blood is spilled into the urine producing what the old medical sages called "sweet urine." This food energy is literally lost into the urine and is not available to the body, resulting in weight loss.

The kidney has trouble concentrating sugar and uses a lot of water to flush out excess glucose. When you lose a lot of water, you are thirsty. A typical advanced diabetic is thirsty, drinks a lot of water, passes a lot of urine, is weak and may have weight loss despite eating lots of food.

All carbohydrates from any source including milk merely help build up the level of blood glucose and are not used properly for energy. In the advanced diabetic the body protein including that in the muscle may be broken down and converted into glucose. This causes the blood glucose level to rise even if the carbohydrate intake is restricted.

YOU HAVE TO correct the basic defect as best you can. That means providing insulin. The amount of insulin you take has to be balanced against the amount of food you eat. That is why you must be consistent in your diet and follow your doctor's directions carefully. Exercise also influences the utilization of food energy. It becomes important to regulate your physical activity level. The intelligent diabetic follows a consistent pattern of the same amounts of energy intake in the diet and energy expenditure in terms of physical activity. This enables satisfactory control with a relatively constant level of insulin.

You are very unwise if you are not staying on the diet your doctor asked you to follow in relation to the amount of insulin he is giving you. Diabetes is a serious disease. A great deal can be done to control it and prevent complications in the patient who is well supervised and cooperates with the doctor.

You have an advanced form of diabetes and you need all the help you can get. Those who want more information on diabetes can send 50 cents for The Letter, number 3-10, Diabetes, the Sweet Sickness. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Good cleaning might restore blackboard

Dear Dorothy: How would you go about resurfacing an old, worn-out blackboard? A neighbor's solution was to get a new one. I did and I don't like it. The old one has hardboard backing. The front looks as if the factory had painted it flat black. But what kind of paint?—James Maher

Welcome to the pack-rat club. You show the proper instict, although you flunked the first course. The true pack-rat would not have gone out to buy a new blackboard without first going through all the classwork. The old surface may not be worn out, but simply covered with layers of chalk, dirt and so forth.

There are several recommended ways of cleaning: 0000 steel wool, fine emery paper, baking soda on a damp sponge (then rinsed and dried with a clean sponge) or a good cleaning solvent. If none of these works, then you buy regular blackboard paint at any school supply outfit.

Dear Dorothy: A reader was asking for suggestions on how to take away the bare look from skinned chicken. I, too, take off the skin and dip each piece in a favorite low-calorie salad dressing, then sprinkle with cornflake crumbs. The pieces are then baked in the oven, covered with foil, for 30 minutes. Then the foil is removed and the chicken baked until tender and brown.—Cordelia B. Pullum

Military action prompts late selling

Profit takers drive stocks down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit takers cashed in on recent gains to drive prices lower in moderately active trading Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Selling accelerated during the afternoon in the wake of disturbing news.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which climbed to its highest level in more than three years Wednesday, lost 7.09 points to close at 1,002.13. It had been ahead more than a point at the outset, but profit taking became a factor after the first hour of trading.

The blue-chip average had gained 13.78 points Wednesday to close at 1,009.21, the best level since its finish at 1,018.66 on Jan. 23, 1973. The Dow had reached 1,003.31 on March 11. Its all-time high of 1,051.70 was attained Jan. 11, 1973.

OTHER AVERAGES suffered in the profit taking. Standard + Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.57 to 102.85, the NYSE common stock index 0.31 to 54.84 and the average price of an NYSE common share by 19 cents.

Declines routed advances, 935 to 509, among the 1,876 issues crossing the tape. The 432 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty, analysts said.

Volume totaled 22,510,000 shares, down sharply from the 32,610,000 traded Wednesday, the heaviest turnover in a month. Analysts said the decreased trading indicated the profit-taking pressures generally were not strong.

Selling increased late in the afternoon following reports the White House was studying contingency plans for military action in case Cuba intervenes in other countries as it did in Angola.

Polaroid led the Big Board actives, off ¾ to 36¾ on 238,400 shares. The stock has been weak following reports Eastman Kodak was about to introduce a new instant camera, which may produce larger pictures. Kodak lost ¾ to 116¼.

Texaco, which announced price cuts on a number of products, was the second most active Big Board issue, unchanged at 26-5/8 on 234,800 shares. TelePrompter was third most active, up ¼ to 9-5/8 on 184,200 shares.

Prices closed lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by three cents. Volume totaled 3,000,000 shares, compared with 3,990,000 traded Wednesday.

Chamber chief sees economic rise continuing

Economic recovery continues at a steady pace in Illinois, said Richard Apland of Palatine, vice president and general manager of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Apland testified Wednesday before the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission in Chicago. He warned that economic activity "will have a heavy impact on final state revenue collections."

"Although we are forecasting increases in income and sales tax collections in Illinois, our projections are tempered by some reservations on how the Illinois business man and woman will respond to local conditions," Apland said. "At best, Gov. Walker's proposed 1977 budget is precarious in balance, even with his proposed speed-up of collections."

APLAND CRITICIZED the tax "speed-up" as a hardship on business. "Moreover, it will build approximately $100 million into fiscal year 1977 which will have to be made up in fiscal year 1978, since this is only a one-time windfall — a false way to balance a budget. And it could precipitate a cash flow crisis for the state's next governor," he said.

A slowdown in the growth of general revenue and school fund tax revenue sources is forecast by Apland. About $426 million in added revenue from these sources and interest income on state funds will be available to the state for fiscal year 1977 which starts July 1.

Apland said the state legislature must control spending. The chamber plans to press for legislation limiting state spending to available revenues.

Lester Brann Jr., president of the chamber, will present the results of a state-wide business survey at a conference in Chicago Friday. The meeting will start at 9:30 a.m. at 20 N. Wacker Dr., room 1960.

Epton in house leader bid

State Rep. Bernard E. Epton, R-Chicago, announced Monday he will run for minority leader in the Illinois House next yar.

The current minority leader, state Rep. James Washburn, R-Morris, was defeated in a bid for the GOP nomination for Congress from the 15th District last week.

NW cancer society slates solicitation

The Northwest suburban unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual door-to-door solicitation from Sunday to April 4.

In addition, Dominick's supermarkets will hold a Cancer Society benefit day April 7. On that day, persons with an idenification slip can ask the store to donate 5 per cent of the amount of their purchase to the Cancer Society.

Military action prompts late selling

Profit takers drive stocks down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit takers cashed in on recent gains to drive prices lower in moderately active trading Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Selling accelerated during the afternoon in the wake of disturbing news.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which climbed to its highest level in more than three years Wednesday, lost 7.09 points to close at 1,002.13. It had been ahead more than a point at the outset, but profit taking became a factor after the first hour of trading.

The blue-chip average had gained 13.78 points Wednesday to close at 1,009.21, the best level since its finish at 1,018.66 on Jan. 23, 1973. The Dow had reached 1,003.31 on March 11. Its all-time high of 1,051.70 was attained Jan. 11, 1973.

OTHER AVERAGES suffered in the profit taking. Standard + Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.57 to 102.85, the NYSE common stock index 0.31 to 54.84 and the average price of an NYSE common share by 19 cents.

Declines routed advances, 935 to 509, among the 1,876 issues crossing the tape. The 432 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty, analysts said.

Volume totaled 22,510,000 shares, down sharply from the 32,610,000 traded Wednesday, the heaviest turnover in a month. Analysts said the decreased trading indicated the profit-taking pressures generally were not strong.

Selling increased late in the afternoon following reports the White House was studying contingency plans for military action in case Cuba intervenes in other countries as it did in Angola.

Polaroid led the Big Board actives, off ¾ to 36¾ on 238,400 shares. The stock has been weak following reports Eastman Kodak was about to introduce a new instant camera, which may produce larger pictures. Kodak lost ¾ to 116¼.

Texaco, which announced price cuts on a number of products, was the second most active Big Board issue, unchanged at 26-5/8 on 234,800 shares. TelePrompter was third most active, up ¼ to 9-5/8 on 184,200 shares.

Prices closed lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by three cents. Volume totaled 3,000,000 shares, compared with 3,990,000 traded Wednesday.

Chamber chief sees economic rise continuing

Economic recovery continues at a steady pace in Illinois, said Richard Apland of Palatine, vice president and general manager of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Apland testified Wednesday before the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission in Chicago. He warned that economic activity "will have a heavy impact on final state revenue collections."

"Although we are forecasting increases in income and sales tax collections in Illinois, our projections are tempered by some reservations on how the Illinois business man and woman will respond to local conditions," Apland said. "At best, Gov. Walker's proposed 1977 budget is precarious in balance, even with his proposed speed-up of collections."

APLAND CRITICIZED the tax "speed-up" as a hardship on business. "Moreover, it will build approximately $100 million into fiscal year 1977 which will have to be made up in fiscal year 1978, since this is only a one-time windfall — a false way to balance a budget. And it could precipitate a cash flow crisis for the state's next governor," he said.

A slowdown in the growth of general revenue and school fund tax revenue sources is forecast by Apland. About $426 million in added revenue from these sources and interest income on state funds will be available to the state for fiscal year 1977 which starts July 1.

Apland said the state legislature must control spending. The chamber plans to press for legislation limiting state spending to available revenues.

Lester Brann Jr., president of the chamber, will present the results of a state-wide business survey at a conference in Chicago Friday. The meeting will start at 9:30 a.m. at 20 N. Wacker Dr., room 1960.

Epton in house leader bid

State Rep. Bernard E. Epton, R-Chicago, announced Monday he will run for minority leader in the Illinois House next yar.

The current minority leader, state Rep. James Washburn, R-Morris, was defeated in a bid for the GOP nomination for Congress from the 15th District last week.

The way we see it

Election law change needed

Congress' failure to meet a previously extended Supreme Court deadline to revamp the Federal Elections Commission has ended the noble experiment of publicly financing presidential campaigns, at least temporarily.

Leaders in both the U.S. House and Senate continue to haggle over replacement legislation, and while both chambers will pass bills this week, a final compromise version does not appear on the horizon.

In the meantime, presidential candidates, who already have received millions in funds, must campaign without the assistance. Conceivably some presidential campaigns could run into trouble.

It would be wrong to deny a candidate a chance at the nomination just because legislative leaders are balking at speedy action on this matter.

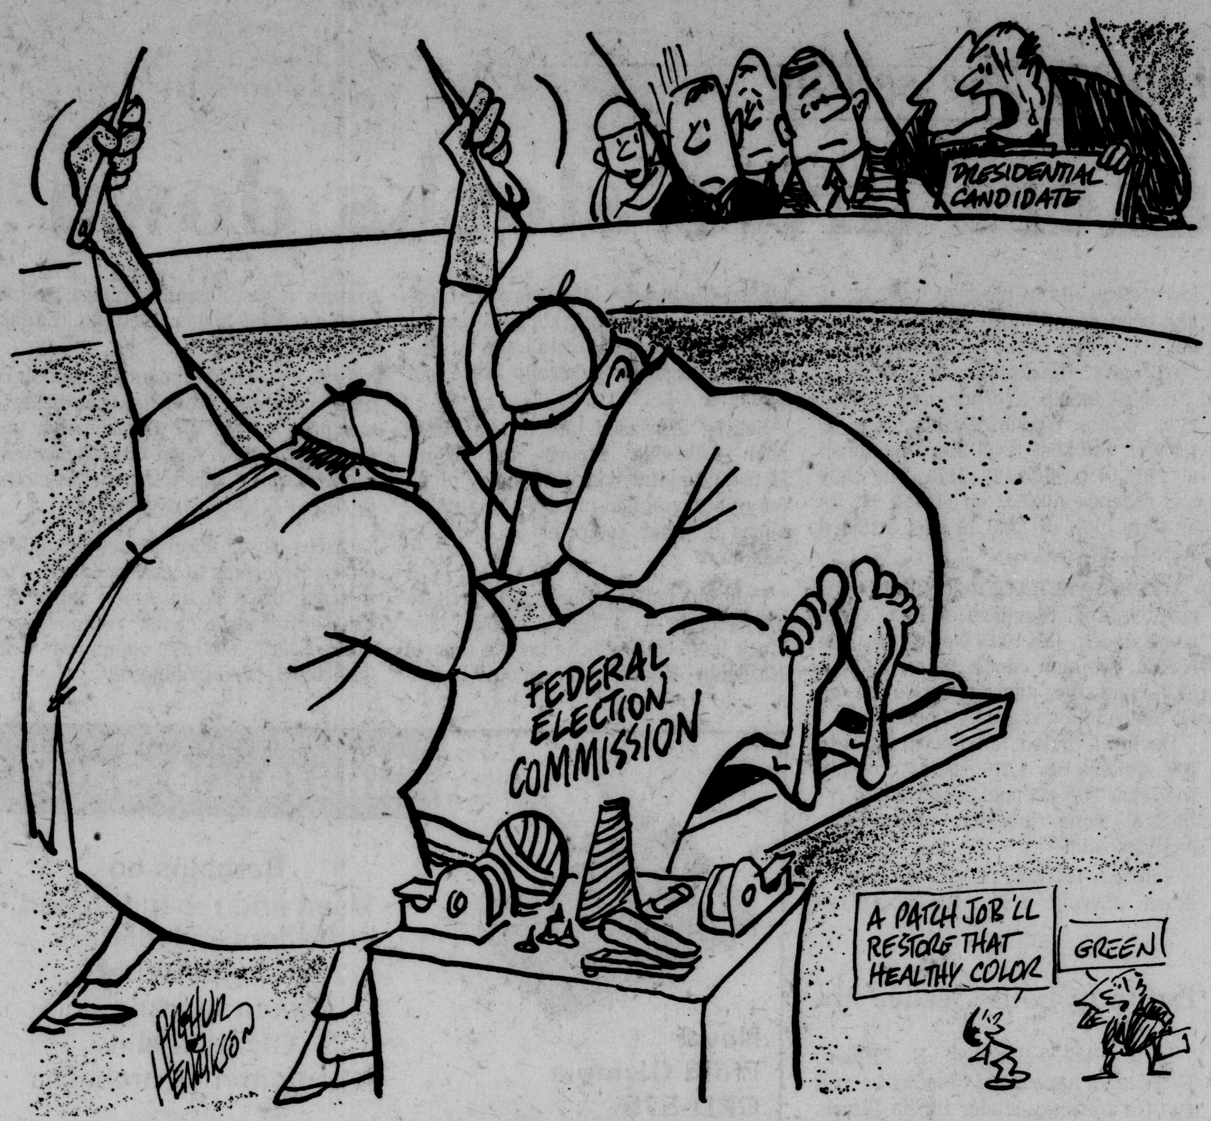
The Supreme Court declared earlier this year that a number of provisions in the federal election law were unconstitutional. The stumbling block which caused the halt to distributing funds involves how the members of the commission are selected.

Some members of Congress, like U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, want to move quickly to resolve the commission selection problems, but others are delaying this action while they work to revamp the entire FEC concept.

The middle of a heated election year is not the time to make major changes in the FEC. Congress should put aside attempts to substantially revise the law and work instead to meet the high court's order for selecting members of the commission. This will limit the disruption caused by the present cut-off of funds to presidential candidates.

Continued legislative fights over the FEC can only serve to hinder presidential campaigns. In the end this will limit the information candidates can get to the voters, who are supposed to be the ultimate beneficiaries of this reform movement which sprang from the ashes of Watergate.

A thorough review of the federal election law could best be accomplished next year. When that review takes place, Congress ought to give some attention to tightening eligibility requirements to prevent one-issue candidates, like right to lifer Ellen McCormack, from using the facade and financing of a presidential campaign to promote their personal crusades around the nation.



Of course I'm nervous! He's got the key to the safe!

The almanac

by United Press International

Today is Friday, March 26, the 86th day of 1976 with 280 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date in history are under the sign of Aries. American poet Robert Frost was born March 26, 1875.

On this day in History:

• In 1952, Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine of immunization against polio.

• In 1965, President Lyndon Johnson ordered investigation of the Ku Klux Klan after four men were arrested in the fatal shooting of a white civil rights worker in Alabama.

• In 1973, Sir Noel Coward, playwright, actor and songwriter, died at his home in Jamaica at the age of 73.

• In 1975, Senate and House conferees finished action on a $22.8 billion tax cut bill. It was signed the following day by President Ford.

A thought for the day: American poet Robert Frost said: "A child misses the unsaid goodnight, and falls asleep with heartache."

Youth, age have much in common

In Friday, March 19's Arlington Herald, we see on the front page that the village finance committee rejects funds for a human relations coordinator to work on problems of both youth and the aging, partly because "handling both groups . . . would be like taking care of apples and oranges."

I hope village board members who will vote on this issue on April 5 also saw the front page of Section 2 that day, where Tom Wellman reviews the book "Gramp" by Mark and Dan Jury. Just a look at the two photos shows that youth and age have much in common.

The idea that needs of youth and seniors, those officially under-aged or over-aged, don't have common problems and therefore shouldn't be funded over looks the job title itself: human relations coordinator. "Human relations" begins with/before birth and ends with/after death; and "coordinator" is needed by us in the middle — parents, children of parents, taxpayers and members of councils, commissions, committees.

What needs of these apples and oranges belong to us all?

• the need not to be victims of fraud, or at best of wasteful and confusing messages, in the management of our welfare, Medicaid, Medicare, housing, poverty or job funds;

• the need not to pay for vandalism, the vandalizer being also a victim;

• The need not to spin our wheels on social and school programs which work better if we coordinate jobs of already-funded professionals with parents and community — such as mature career advisors, volunteers, and foster grandparents, for example;

• the need of parents and teachers and youth workers not to waste time, money, and children's talents because we lack coordination from one place to another in the child's day and from year to year in terms of programs

• the need to make school taxes do their job better;

• the need to find something to do for more and more able and eager older citizens, not just places to put them;

• the need of homeowners and auto owners and businessmen and park districts and police and courts to find something to do about youthful, sometimes very young, offenders;

• the need to extend boundaries for suburban youth, as both theorists and recent alumni of the suburbs have expressed the opinion that they may be the most underprivileged group in America in terms of life experience.

WE'VE GOT ALL those needs and more. Townships may be helping, but Arlington Heights is in two townships and who coordinates them? If our village board can be galvanized into a unanimous vote to put Arlington Park racing on our Bicentennial July 4, how about supplying the funds and also the directives and backing for that "very unique" person who might try tackling the problems of the apples and oranges — and all us grated coconuts in the middle?

Board hit for making cuts

I am writing this letter as a concerned parent representing only myself.

Monday evening, March 15, about 500 of us were witnesses to an inconceivable climax to an accumulation of events concerning Dist. 62 and our school board. Granted, the people serving on the school board give of themselves as public servants on their own time and with no salary. But, these people chose to serve and they asked us to elect them to represent us as taxpayers in our community.

The people for whom we were all at the meeting were the teachers and staff involved in the cutbacks in Dist. 62. These people are paid professionals in whose trust we put the lives of our children six and a half hours every day, five days a week, nine months a year. Our ultimate concern is our children. I feel the ultimate concern of our teachers and staff is also our children. I do not feel that the school board acted professionally, nor do I feel that their ultimate concern was our children. I had the distinct feeling that the ultimate concern of the board members Monday night was money and a "seemingly balanced budget," at any expense. A second concern of theirs was obviously a strict adherance to Robert's Rules of Order, to the complete frustration of those of us who had come to the meeting.

WHY COULD THE board not have temporarily called adjournment of their well-planned meeting, hear from the interested and concerned parents and teachers, consider their grievances and then continue their meeting after having heard from their constituents. The school board chose, rather, to carry on "affairs of state" without teachers and/or public input.

We witnessed a "fait accompli" and then were called upon to speak. Needless to say, anything to be said fell on deaf ears. Is this the democratic process?

Trucker statute has oversight

The Motor Carrier Act of 1935 virtually prohibited independent truckers from competing for freight on the open market. That was a legislative "oversight" that has lasted 41 depressing years. There is a bill in the Senate right now (Bill S2271) that could correct this. This bill would give the owner-operator the right to haul whatever and for whomever they please. The consumer benefits from this too, in the fact there would be fewer empty truck miles, and result in fuel savings and lower cost to consumer of agricultural products.

The independent trucker has many enemies trying to stop any regulation that would help the independent trucker. Two of them are the railroads and large regulated carriers. They are pouring a lot of money into a well financed lobbying group. What is needed is to let the people know, and if they believe in free enterprise they should write their congressmen in support of Senate Bill S2271.

If you need more information feel free to contact me or Edmond Krotz who is president of the Illinois Independent Truckers Assn., at 620 E. Liberty, Wauconda, Illinois, 60084.

Dist. 125 ethics questioned

As a parent in Dist. 125, I am interested in the education afforded our children. I personally feel that the present alternatives available to our children are acceptable, and each student can achieve the highest level of success he or she wishes. The faculty is competent, the administrators are qualified, and the total staff of Stevenson High School is working to provide the best educational experience for our children.

My concern, therefore, is not with the education of our children but with the behavior of the Board of Education of Dist. 125 and its relationship with the superintendent. It is necessary for each of us to question if particular past actions by certain board members were appropriate and ethical.

As I understand the role of a board member, it is to determine the policies which guide the decision-making process governing the activities of the school. Accepting this promise, I ask you to consider the following behaviors of certain board members.

1. Is it proper to harass the administrators in a public meeting and continually belittle them?

2. Is it proper to quiz teachers on issues that should be discussed with the superintendent?

3. Is it proper to take many hours per week of the superintendent's time which in effect does not allow him to do his job?

4. Is it proper to continually relate to personal issues about specific people in open discussion when a board member's role is to deal with district policies?

5. Is it proper to embarrass specific staff members and accuse them of disrespect at a public board meeting?

6. Is it proper to attack and destroy the morale of the administrative staff and force one administrator against the other in a public meeting?

7. Is it proper to present data that supports a specific board member's point of view rather than presenting an objective analysis of all data related to the issue?

8. Is it proper to bring up items and information that are not on the board agenda?

AS A PARENT in this community, I wonder how many of you are aware of these kinds of activities? I strongly believe that we as a community, for the sake of our children, teachers and administrators demand a change in the behavior of certain board members and ask that these kinds of tactics be eliminated from our school board meetings!

Loss of specialists to hurt

In these times of unrest, anxiety and pressing issues, I feel compelled to share with all the people who care about the future of Des Plaines some of my thoughts. I'm wondering if the business people, Realtors and industry of Des Plaines have stopped to analyze how the quality of the educational program in the school affects them. How can industry attract high quality employes to move to Des Plaines if they can't tell the prospective employe that the educational programs, for their children, in the schools are of the highest quality? Will it not affect the value of homes and businesses when the quality of education is lowered? How will the poorer quality of education influence the rate of delinquency and crime? If you care about Des Plaines, are you going to allow a few people to be penny wise and pound foolish?

Eight years ago I came to the Chicago area to interview for the position of school social worker. The state consultant of school social work directed me to several communities that had high standards for their educational program. Des Plaines was one of those communities. I chose to enter the school environment because I believe it is better to identify problems as early as possible in a person's life and help them be relieved of those problems so they don't develop into emotional problems in adulthood. In other words, it is preventive social work.

In the position of school social worker, I listen with empathy to many, many parents who really care about the welfare and education of their children.

THE SCHOOL SOCIAL worker often is the liaison between parents and school personnel. The social worker must stay informed of the wide array of community resources, agencies, and facilities that families may wish to utilize in meeting their family's needs. The social worker is a consultant to any staff member working with any child that is experiencing difficulties.

The social workers in the Des Plaines Schools are quite flexible; coming to school early before school hours, spending noon hours, staying late after school, or coming back later in the evenings to confer with parents or to participate in joint conferences and staffings. Your school social worker is available to parents for individual, joint or family therapy, as well as working with the children during school hours. Home visits are made as an accommodation to parents.

The social worker is one of the team of interdisciplinary specialist available to teachers and parents to assist in the diagnosis of the problems recommending the treatment plan.

The other specialists that are usually a part of that team are, Guidance Counselors (in junior high), nurses, learning disabilities teachers, speech clinicians, reading specialists (four in the district), classroom teacher, principal and often a psychologist and the Reading/L.D. coordinator.

With the elimination of school nurses and guidance counselors (G.C.), the team approach is less effective because these two specialists would no longer be available to make their contribution. This could create voids and/or the over-looking of some elements of a child's problem.

Your schools have a complete team of specialists serving you and your children. Do you want that torn down? Would you be willing to have your child go through surgery without the complete team of surgeon, nurses, assisting physical, anesthesiologist, etc. all present?

The quality educational program today is staffed to help your children realize success in as many aspects of their lives as possible.

Doesn't your child deserve to have a good foundation for adulthood?

The almanac

by United Press International

Today is Friday, March 26, the 86th day of 1976 with 280 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date in history are under the sign of Aries. American poet Robert Frost was born March 26, 1875.

On this day in History:

• In 1952, Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine of immunization against polio.

• In 1965, President Lyndon Johnson ordered investigation of the Ku Klux Klan after four men were arrested in the fatal shooting of a white civil rights worker in Alabama.

• In 1973, Sir Noel Coward, playwright, actor and songwriter, died at his home in Jamaica at the age of 73.

• In 1975, Senate and House conferees finished action on a $22.8 billion tax cut bill. It was signed the following day by President Ford.

A thought for the day: American poet Robert Frost said: "A child misses the unsaid goodnight, and falls asleep with heartache."

The way we see it

Election law change needed

Congress' failure to meet a previously extended Supreme Court deadline to revamp the Federal Elections Commission has ended the noble experiment of publicly financing presidential campaigns, at least temporarily.

Leaders in both the U.S. House and Senate continue to haggle over replacement legislation, and while both chambers will pass bills this week, a final compromise version does not appear on the horizon.

In the meantime, presidential candidates, who already have received millions in funds, must campaign without the assistance. Conceivably some presidential campaigns could run into trouble.

It would be wrong to deny a candidate a chance at the nomination just because legislative leaders are balking at speedy action on this matter.

The Supreme Court declared earlier this year that a number of provisions in the federal election law were unconstitutional. The stumbling block which caused the halt to distributing funds involves how the members of the commission are selected.

Some members of Congress, like U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, want to move quickly to resolve the commission selection problems, but others are delaying this action while they work to revamp the entire FEC concept.

The middle of a heated election year is not the time to make major changes in the FEC. Congress should put aside attempts to substantially revise the law and work instead to meet the high court's order for selecting members of the commission. This will limit the disruption caused by the present cut-off of funds to presidential candidates.

Continued legislative fights over the FEC can only serve to hinder presidential campaigns. In the end this will limit the information candidates can get to the voters, who are supposed to be the ultimate beneficiaries of this reform movement which sprang from the ashes of Watergate.

A thorough review of the federal election law could best be accomplished next year. When that review takes place, Congress ought to give some attention to tightening eligibility requirements to prevent one-issue candidates, like right to lifer Ellen McCormack, from using the facade and financing of a presidential campaign to promote their personal crusades around the nation.

Youth, age have much in common

In Friday, March 19's Arlington Herald, we see on the front page that the village finance committee rejects funds for a human relations coordinator to work on problems of both youth and the aging, partly because "handling both groups . . . would be like taking care of apples and oranges."

I hope village board members who will vote on this issue on April 5 also saw the front page of Section 2 that day, where Tom Wellman reviews the book "Gramp" by Mark and Dan Jury. Just a look at the two photos shows that youth and age have much in common.

The idea that needs of youth and seniors, those officially under-aged or over-aged, don't have common problems and therefore shouldn't be funded over looks the job title itself: human relations coordinator. "Human relations" begins with/before birth and ends with/after death; and "coordinator" is needed by us in the middle — parents, children of parents, taxpayers and members of councils, commissions, committees.

What needs of these apples and oranges belong to us all?

• the need not to be victims of fraud, or at best of wasteful and confusing messages, in the management of our welfare, Medicaid, Medicare, housing, poverty or job funds;

• the need not to pay for vandalism, the vandalizer being also a victim;

• The need not to spin our wheels on social and school programs which work better if we coordinate jobs of already-funded professionals with parents and community — such as mature career advisors, volunteers, and foster grandparents, for example;

• the need of parents and teachers and youth workers not to waste time, money, and children's talents because we lack coordination from one place to another in the child's day and from year to year in terms of programs

• the need to make school taxes do their job better;

• the need to find something to do for more and more able and eager older citizens, not just places to put them;

• the need of homeowners and auto owners and businessmen and park districts and police and courts to find something to do about youthful, sometimes very young, offenders;

• the need to extend boundaries for suburban youth, as both theorists and recent alumni of the suburbs have expressed the opinion that they may be the most underprivileged group in America in terms of life experience.

WE'VE GOT ALL those needs and more. Townships may be helping, but Arlington Heights is in two townships and who coordinates them? If our village board can be galvanized into a unanimous vote to put Arlington Park racing on our Bicentennial July 4, how about supplying the funds and also the directives and backing for that "very unique" person who might try tackling the problems of the apples and oranges — and all us grated coconuts in the middle?

Board hit for making cuts

I am writing this letter as a concerned parent representing only myself.

Monday evening, March 15, about 500 of us were witnesses to an inconceivable climax to an accumulation of events concerning Dist. 62 and our school board. Granted, the people serving on the school board give of themselves as public servants on their own time and with no salary. But, these people chose to serve and they asked us to elect them to represent us as taxpayers in our community.

The people for whom we were all at the meeting were the teachers and staff involved in the cutbacks in Dist. 62. These people are paid professionals in whose trust we put the lives of our children six and a half hours every day, five days a week, nine months a year. Our ultimate concern is our children. I feel the ultimate concern of our teachers and staff is also our children. I do not feel that the school board acted professionally, nor do I feel that their ultimate concern was our children. I had the distinct feeling that the ultimate concern of the board members Monday night was money and a "seemingly balanced budget," at any expense. A second concern of theirs was obviously a strict adherance to Robert's Rules of Order, to the complete frustration of those of us who had come to the meeting.

WHY COULD THE board not have temporarily called adjournment of their well-planned meeting, hear from the interested and concerned parents and teachers, consider their grievances and then continue their meeting after having heard from their constituents. The school board chose, rather, to carry on "affairs of state" without teachers and/or public input.

We witnessed a "fait accompli" and then were called upon to speak. Needless to say, anything to be said fell on deaf ears. Is this the democratic process?

Trucker statute has oversight

The Motor Carrier Act of 1935 virtually prohibited independent truckers from competing for freight on the open market. That was a legislative "oversight" that has lasted 41 depressing years. There is a bill in the Senate right now (Bill S2271) that could correct this. This bill would give the owner-operator the right to haul whatever and for whomever they please. The consumer benefits from this too, in the fact there would be fewer empty truck miles, and result in fuel savings and lower cost to consumer of agricultural products.

The independent trucker has many enemies trying to stop any regulation that would help the independent trucker. Two of them are the railroads and large regulated carriers. They are pouring a lot of money into a well financed lobbying group. What is needed is to let the people know, and if they believe in free enterprise they should write their congressmen in support of Senate Bill S2271.

If you need more information feel free to contact me or Edmond Krotz who is president of the Illinois Independent Truckers Assn., at 620 E. Liberty, Wauconda, Illinois, 60084.

Dist. 125 ethics questioned

As a parent in Dist. 125, I am interested in the education afforded our children. I personally feel that the present alternatives available to our children are acceptable, and each student can achieve the highest level of success he or she wishes. The faculty is competent, the administrators are qualified, and the total staff of Stevenson High School is working to provide the best educational experience for our children.

My concern, therefore, is not with the education of our children but with the behavior of the Board of Education of Dist. 125 and its relationship with the superintendent. It is necessary for each of us to question if particular past actions by certain board members were appropriate and ethical.

As I understand the role of a board member, it is to determine the policies which guide the decision-making process governing the activities of the school. Accepting this promise, I ask you to consider the following behaviors of certain board members.

1. Is it proper to harass the administrators in a public meeting and continually belittle them?

2. Is it proper to quiz teachers on issues that should be discussed with the superintendent?

3. Is it proper to take many hours per week of the superintendent's time which in effect does not allow him to do his job?

4. Is it proper to continually relate to personal issues about specific people in open discussion when a board member's role is to deal with district policies?

5. Is it proper to embarrass specific staff members and accuse them of disrespect at a public board meeting?

6. Is it proper to attack and destroy the morale of the administrative staff and force one administrator against the other in a public meeting?

7. Is it proper to present data that supports a specific board member's point of view rather than presenting an objective analysis of all data related to the issue?

8. Is it proper to bring up items and information that are not on the board agenda?

AS A PARENT in this community, I wonder how many of you are aware of these kinds of activities? I strongly believe that we as a community, for the sake of our children, teachers and administrators demand a change in the behavior of certain board members and ask that these kinds of tactics be eliminated from our school board meetings!

Loss of specialists to hurt

In these times of unrest, anxiety and pressing issues, I feel compelled to share with all the people who care about the future of Des Plaines some of my thoughts. I'm wondering if the business people, Realtors and industry of Des Plaines have stopped to analyze how the quality of the educational program in the school affects them. How can industry attract high quality employes to move to Des Plaines if they can't tell the prospective employe that the educational programs, for their children, in the schools are of the highest quality? Will it not affect the value of homes and businesses when the quality of education is lowered? How will the poorer quality of education influence the rate of delinquency and crime? If you care about Des Plaines, are you going to allow a few people to be penny wise and pound foolish?

Eight years ago I came to the Chicago area to interview for the position of school social worker. The state consultant of school social work directed me to several communities that had high standards for their educational program. Des Plaines was one of those communities. I chose to enter the school environment because I believe it is better to identify problems as early as possible in a person's life and help them be relieved of those problems so they don't develop into emotional problems in adulthood. In other words, it is preventive social work.

In the position of school social worker, I listen with empathy to many, many parents who really care about the welfare and education of their children.

THE SCHOOL SOCIAL worker often is the liaison between parents and school personnel. The social worker must stay informed of the wide array of community resources, agencies, and facilities that families may wish to utilize in meeting their family's needs. The social worker is a consultant to any staff member working with any child that is experiencing difficulties.

The social workers in the Des Plaines Schools are quite flexible; coming to school early before school hours, spending noon hours, staying late after school, or coming back later in the evenings to confer with parents or to participate in joint conferences and staffings. Your school social worker is available to parents for individual, joint or family therapy, as well as working with the children during school hours. Home visits are made as an accommodation to parents.

The social worker is one of the team of interdisciplinary specialist available to teachers and parents to assist in the diagnosis of the problems recommending the treatment plan.

The other specialists that are usually a part of that team are, Guidance Counselors (in junior high), nurses, learning disabilities teachers, speech clinicians, reading specialists (four in the district), classroom teacher, principal and often a psychologist and the Reading/L.D. coordinator.

With the elimination of school nurses and guidance counselors (G.C.), the team approach is less effective because these two specialists would no longer be available to make their contribution. This could create voids and/or the over-looking of some elements of a child's problem.

Your schools have a complete team of specialists serving you and your children. Do you want that torn down? Would you be willing to have your child go through surgery without the complete team of surgeon, nurses, assisting physical, anesthesiologist, etc. all present?

The quality educational program today is staffed to help your children realize success in as many aspects of their lives as possible.

Visitation will be from 7 to 10 p.m. today in McMurrough Funeral Home.

HILDA S. OLSON, 83, of Northbrook, mother of Donald T. Olson of Des Plaines, died Thursday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Services will be held Monday at 11 a.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, with burial in Rosehill Cemetery, Chicago. Visitation will be Saturday from 6 to 9:30 p.m. and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the funeral home. Memorials may be made to the Leukemia Foundation.

Give blood, brothers.

It's so easy to give ... yet so precious. Help someone else with the gift of life. Today.

Pleased to be a part of top ballet company

by LYNN ASINOF

Eleanor d'Antuono is one of the best in the world, and she knows it. She dances with the American Ballet Theatre because it is the best in the world.

"Ballet Theatre is the most important company in the world," she said Tuesday while sipping coffee in a hotel coffee shop. Noting the lengthy list of dance luminaries who have danced with ABT she added, "It is exciting to have all the best in one place."

The best includes ballet superstar Mikhail Baryshnikov, who made his Chicago debut this week, Natalia Makarova, Gelsey Kirkland, Ted Kivitt, Fernando Bujones, Martine van Hamel and others too numerous to mention.

D'Antuono is a big fish in a big pond. She's comfortable with the role, and therefore, gracious too.

Because the list is awesome, some have complained about the star system which plays on the big names, particularly those of the Russian defectors. But d'Antuono says the foreign dancers belong here and add to the company.

"I'm not afraid of the competition," she said with the same confidence that permeates her dancing. "I think our dancers are certainly equal to what they have."

AT 35, THE brunette dancer with gentle eyes has won acclaim for her technique, which is as solid as the Rock of Gibralter. But as an artist, d'Antuono said she is tired of hearing about the fact that she never misses.

"I am extremely strong and I never miss, but that has nothing to do with my art," she said. "One tends to overlook how I dance."

D'Antuono said she would rather be remembered for her artistry than her bravura, but insists that she doesn't want to be categorized.

While she does newer modern pieces, d'Antuono is best know for her interpretation of the classics, and "Giselle" is one of her favorites. She said, however, she more or less fell into the role of a classical ballerina.

"They needed a classic ballerina at the time and I suited their needs," she said. It was a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

D'Antuono has been with the American Ballet Theatre since 1961 and was raised to the rank of principal dancer in 1963. Despite brief run-ins with the company, d'Antuono has been loyal to ABT and sees the company as a vehicle for her career.

"I HAVE A LOT to do and only a few years to do it," she said, referring to her age. "But that has nothing to do with the company."

She says she would still like someone to create a ballet for her. "That's very special because you feel that it suits you and uses the best of your abilities," she said. She would also like to dance in Europe again and in Russia.

Asked if any such trip was in the offing, she said, "There is something, but I'm very superstititous so I don't want to talk about it. If you talk about it, it might not happen."

The men in her dance life are varied. "Because of my size I dance with all the boys," she said. With a smile, however, she admitted that Fernando Bujones, whom she dances with often, "is one of the very special ones."

"I get something very special from him," she said. "It's a certain excitement. It is challenging to me to keep my technique that young."

Rudolf Nureyev also rated special mention among partners. "Rudolph, naturally being older, was a much richer experience," she said, referring to their partnership in his "Raymonda."

D'ANTUONO SAID she is not particularly interested in exploring the field of choreography. "I just don't think the world needs another good dancer turned bad choreographer," she said with a laugh.

The field of modern dance, however, seemed to have a stronger pull. "For the future possibly, but not now," she said when asked if she might follow Nureyev's ventures into this area.

Right now, d'Antuono seems prepared to enjoy her position and prestige to the fullest. "I'm at a very nice time in my career," she said, noting that she has a variety of both old and new roles.

And the so-called dance explosion is creating "Ballet Theatre mania" which only draws more attention to the stars of the star-laden troupe.

As she put it — "We're riding high right now, and I think we should enjoy it."

Week night thirst?

Where to go to find a beer on tap after 2 a.m.

by JOHN MAES

The streets don't roll up at 10 p.m. in the suburbs. Not even at midnight. Not even on a week night. That's a proven fact.

And while Northwest suburbia's late, late night watering holes are fewer than the abundance of pubs and bars where it's lights out after 1 or 2 a.m., it is possible to get a beer on tap past 3 a.m. and maybe even until 5. That is, if you're a real night owl.

Though discotheques are noted for staying open until the wee hours of the morning, there are other places to alight, where the atmosphere is less than flashy and the room cleared out but for one lonely bartender.

SOME OF THE drinks-only places have taken refuge in the unincorporated areas of the county because surrounding municipalities don't allow liquor sales past 1 or 2 a.m. during the week unless it's in a restaurant.

Despite a relative paucity in number compared with the earlier closing places, you can even be fussy to the extent of wanting a dance band, an arcade of electronic games or just some place quiet and comfortable.

One spot is the Runway-22 lounge in the Des Plaines Holiday Inn.

BILLED AS THE "lounge with the different approach" (it's only a few minutes from O'Hare Airport at Touhy and Mannheim Roads), the Runway's decor will make one feel as though he's enjoying his potable at 5,000 feet.

Done up like the cabin of a jetliner, the trappings include airplane-type seats, walls with portholes depicting a Chicago panorama and a montage of flashing, colored lights over the bar, presumably a facsimile of a pilot's instrument panel.

Another light array is fashioned like a map of O'Hare.

DURING THE WEEK, 95 per cent of the clientele are businessmen staying at the Inn, but the local set collects there on weekends, according to Barbara Olejniczak, manager.

There's not a large dance floor, but there is live entertainment Tuesday through Saturday and the closing hour isn't until 4 a.m.

And if you're lucky, you might catch a spontaneous side show featuring a short bartender named Jack, who in a Yiddish accent exchanges mirthful barbs with the band between numbers.

ANOTHER LATE NIGHT entertainment spot is the lounge of the Navarone Steak House, 1905 Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township. Live music is provided evenings, until 4 a.m. Tuesday through Sunday. The lounge also stays open until 2 a.m. Mondays and Tuesdays without entertainment.

Gatsby's, 427 E. Rand Rd. in Wheeling Township near Arlington Heights, is a mecca for drinkers who like to play the electronic games over their after-hours hooch.

Electric pong, skeet-shooting, baseball, a combination hockey, soccer and tennis game, gunfight and the proverbial foosball are among the fare. Food is also served. Closing is 5 a.m. Sundays and 4 a.m. the rest of the week.

THE GATSBY'S crowd is young and casual. An added inducement is the jukebox that well covers the era of rock 'n' roll including Elvis Presley, the Everly Brothers and the Beach Boys.

Rick-O-Chez Lounge, 1501 Rand Rd. in Palatine Township, offers a quiet atmosphere — at least after midnight, but the jukebox is in working order and there's a raised dance floor.

Open until 4 a.m. Monday through Saturday, and 5 a.m. Sunday. Rick-O-Chez attracts a slightly older crowd than Gatsby's regulars, and usually wearing suits and ties.

IN DES PLAINES, there's the Isle of Man Tap, River and Rand Roads. It's open until 4 a.m. seven days a week. The atmosphere is strictly "tavern" with few if any frills.

The After Hours Lounge, 700 N. Rand Rd., near Des Plaines, is open until 4 a.m. Monday through Saturday and 5 a.m. on Sunday. The lounge is located on the lower level of the After Hours Restaurant that's open until 1 a.m. every night.

The area has a number of other spots where you can have a late-night drink, many of them also connected with restaurants.

IN DES PLAINES, Arthur's, Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, and Romano's Restaurant and Lounge, 1396 Oakton St., sell liquor until 4 a.m. during the week.

Elk Grove Village offers Jake's Pizza Pub, 66 E. Devon Ave., the Maitre D' Restaurant and Lounge, 11 E. Higgins Rd., and the Elk Grove Village Motel, 2325 E. Higgins Rd. All are licensed until 4 a.m. Monday through Saturday and until 5 a.m. on Sunday.

Johny O's, 321 S. Rohlwing Rd., in Palatine, was formerly a late-night bar until the village reduced its hours to 1 a.m. week nights and 3 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

PALATINE late-night watering holes include Uncle Andy's Cow Palace, Northwest Highway and Quentin Road; the Pickwick House, 10 N. Northwest Hwy. Howard Johnson's, Northwest Highway and Ill. Rte. 53; and Ye Old Town Inn, 36 S. Northwest Hwy. All serve drinks until 4 a.m. a.m.

Pleased to be a part of top ballet company

by LYNN ASINOF

Eleanor d'Antuono is one of the best in the world, and she knows it. She dances with the American Ballet Theatre because it is the best in the world.

"Ballet Theatre is the most important company in the world," she said Tuesday while sipping coffee in a hotel coffee shop. Noting the lengthy list of dance luminaries who have danced with ABT she added, "It is exciting to have all the best in one place."

The best includes ballet superstar Mikhail Baryshnikov, who made his Chicago debut this week, Natalia Makarova, Gelsey Kirkland, Ted Kivitt, Fernando Bujones, Martine van Hamel and others too numerous to mention.

D'Antuono is a big fish in a big pond. She's comfortable with the role, and therefore, gracious too.

Because the list is awesome, some have complained about the star system which plays on the big names, particularly those of the Russian defectors. But d'Antuono says the foreign dancers belong here and add to the company.

"I'm not afraid of the competition," she said with the same confidence that permeates her dancing. "I think our dancers are certainly equal to what they have."

AT 35, THE brunette dancer with gentle eyes has won acclaim for her technique, which is as solid as the Rock of Gibralter. But as an artist, d'Antuono said she is tired of hearing about the fact that she never misses.

"I am extremely strong and I never miss, but that has nothing to do with my art," she said. "One tends to overlook how I dance."

D'Antuono said she would rather be remembered for her artistry than her bravura, but insists that she doesn't want to be categorized.

While she does newer modern pieces, d'Antuono is best know for her interpretation of the classics, and "Giselle" is one of her favorites. She said, however, she more or less fell into the role of a classical ballerina.

"They needed a classic ballerina at the time and I suited their needs," she said. It was a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

D'Antuono has been with the American Ballet Theatre since 1961 and was raised to the rank of principal dancer in 1963. Despite brief run-ins with the company, d'Antuono has been loyal to ABT and sees the company as a vehicle for her career.

"I HAVE A LOT to do and only a few years to do it," she said, referring to her age. "But that has nothing to do with the company."

She says she would still like someone to create a ballet for her. "That's very special because you feel that it suits you and uses the best of your abilities," she said. She would also like to dance in Europe again and in Russia.

Asked if any such trip was in the offing, she said, "There is something, but I'm very superstititous so I don't want to talk about it. If you talk about it, it might not happen."

The men in her dance life are varied. "Because of my size I dance with all the boys," she said. With a smile, however, she admitted that Fernando Bujones, whom she dances with often, "is one of the very special ones."

"I get something very special from him," she said. "It's a certain excitement. It is challenging to me to keep my technique that young."

Rudolf Nureyev also rated special mention among partners. "Rudolph, naturally being older, was a much richer experience," she said, referring to their partnership in his "Raymonda."

D'ANTUONO SAID she is not particularly interested in exploring the field of choreography. "I just don't think the world needs another good dancer turned bad choreographer," she said with a laugh.

The field of modern dance, however, seemed to have a stronger pull. "For the future possibly, but not now," she said when asked if she might follow Nureyev's ventures into this area.

Right now, d'Antuono seems prepared to enjoy her position and prestige to the fullest. "I'm at a very nice time in my career," she said, noting that she has a variety of both old and new roles.

And the so-called dance explosion is creating "Ballet Theatre mania" which only draws more attention to the stars of the star-laden troupe.

As she put it — "We're riding high right now, and I think we should enjoy it."

Week night thirst?

Where to go to find a beer on tap after 2 a.m.

by JOHN MAES

The streets don't roll up at 10 p.m. in the suburbs. Not even at midnight. Not even on a week night. That's a proven fact.

And while Northwest suburbia's late, late night watering holes are fewer than the abundance of pubs and bars where it's lights out after 1 or 2 a.m., it is possible to get a beer on tap past 3 a.m. and maybe even until 5. That is, if you're a real night owl.

Though discotheques are noted for staying open until the wee hours of the morning, there are other places to alight, where the atmosphere is less than flashy and the room cleared out but for one lonely bartender.

SOME OF THE drinks-only places have taken refuge in the unincorporated areas of the county because surrounding municipalities don't allow liquor sales past 1 or 2 a.m. during the week unless it's in a restaurant.

Despite a relative paucity in number compared with the earlier closing places, you can even be fussy to the extent of wanting a dance band, an arcade of electronic games or just some place quiet and comfortable.

One spot is the Runway-22 lounge in the Des Plaines Holiday Inn.

BILLED AS THE "lounge with the different approach" (it's only a few minutes from O'Hare Airport at Touhy and Mannheim Roads), the Runway's decor will make one feel as though he's enjoying his potable at 5,000 feet.

Done up like the cabin of a jetliner, the trappings include airplane-type seats, walls with portholes depicting a Chicago panorama and a montage of flashing, colored lights over the bar, presumably a facsimile of a pilot's instrument panel.

Another light array is fashioned like a map of O'Hare.

DURING THE WEEK, 95 per cent of the clientele are businessmen staying at the Inn, but the local set collects there on weekends, according to Barbara Olejniczak, manager.

There's not a large dance floor, but there is live entertainment Tuesday through Saturday and the closing hour isn't until 4 a.m.

And if you're lucky, you might catch a spontaneous side show featuring a short bartender named Jack, who in a Yiddish accent exchanges mirthful barbs with the band between numbers.

ANOTHER LATE NIGHT entertainment spot is the lounge of the Navarone Steak House, 1905 Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township. Live music is provided evenings, until 4 a.m. Tuesday through Sunday. The lounge also stays open until 2 a.m. Mondays and Tuesdays without entertainment.

Streisand's new album a dreamlike classical

by Tom Van Malder

Barbra Streisand has stressed versatility throughout her career, choosing many types of songs. She has wanted to make a classical album for quite some time and "Classical Barbra" (Columbia) is the beautiful result.

Her fans will love the album, but those devoted to classical music should be warned the album is not meant to demonstrate that Miss Streisand has a tremendous vocal range. Rather both the singer and conductor Claus Ogerman have worked to produce a record of dreamlike quality, especially apparent in the haunting piece "Pavane" by Gabriel Faure.

Miss Streisand seems equally at ease whether singing in French (which she has on earlier albums), Latin, German or Italian. Selections were composed by Hugo Wolf, Joseph Canteloube, Carl Orff, George Frideric Handel, Robert Schumann and conductor Ogerman, with Claud DeBussy's "Beau Soir" rated particularly good.

Other new classical releases include:

• "The World's Favorite Tenor Arias" by Luciano Pavarotti (London). Pavarotti is probably one of the world's favorite lyric tenors (he was Newseek's cover subject two weeks ago). Some selections may be too familiar to his many fans, however, since four of the 10 songs have been released as part of opera recordings or recitals.

Still, Pavarotti is in excellent form, especially on some arias which are not in his current performing repertoire. His traditional rendering of "Vesti la giubba" from "I Pagliacci" is among the highlights of the new recordings, as is "Flower Song" from "Carmen."

• "Prokofiev: Cinderella/Britten: Young Person's Guide To the Orchestra" with Andrew Davis conducting the London Symphony Orchestra (Columbia). Davis' label debut is made up of two fine performances of familiar classics. The music from "Cinderella" flows easily and delightfully.

• "Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 4" with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic (Columbua). This is yet another energetic interpretation of an old favorite by Bernstein. The record has a special low price.

• "Schoenberg: Cabaret Songs and Nine Early Songs" sung by Marni Nixon with Leonard Stein, pianist (RCA). The cabaret side is good, with the songs patterned after the light Viennese musical style of the 1900s — not the decadent Berlin style of the '20s. The "Early Songs" side, heavily influenced by Brahms' music, is heavier in comparison and will probably appeal to collectors.

Miss Nixon, well known for being the dubbed singing voice of many a movie star, does a creditable job, particularly with the cabaret songs. Stein, who was Schoenberg's assistant, is as good as one would expect. Of the album's 17 songs, only two have been previously recorded by others.

• "Plaisir d'Amour" by Beverly Sills and Andre Kostelantez (Columbia). This delightful combination of French poetry and music closely follows the pair's successful album of Victor Herbert music on Angel. These selections have often been performed in concert by the two.

Represented in the album is the music of Georges Bizet, Franz Liszt, Charles Gounod and Giovanni Martini and the words of Jean Anouilh and Victor Hugo, among others.

Soundings:

The first collaboration between Leonard Bernstein and Alan Jay Lerner is the musical "1600 Pennsylvania Avenue" which is scheduled to open on Broadway May 4 after three weeks in Philadelphia and five weeks in Washington. The show will cover eight presidents from Washington to Teddy Roosevelt. One actor will be cast to play all the presidents and one actress, all their wives. Capitol will record the original cast.

New albums: "How the Mistress Met Ivan," a collection of Russian wedding, festival and seasonal songs; "Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 1" by U.S.S.R. State Symphony Orchestra; and "Carlos Chavez: Concerto For Piano & Orchestra" by Chavez and Vienna State Opera Orchestra.

Vidal's tale of centennial told with style, substance

The book stall

"1876" by GORE VIDAL
(Random House, $10)

Cashing in on the Bicentennial can be condoned when it is done with the style and historical substance of Vidal's novel concerning the United States' centennial year. "1876" completes a loosely connected trilogy which began with Vidal's "Burr," a choleric view of the Founding Fathers, and ends with the previously published "Washington, D.C." an unflattering portrait of the capital in the mid-1960s.

"Burr" is the best of the three, but "1876" has its particular strengths, not the least of them Vidal's creation of a delightful cynic, Charles Schermerhorn Schuyler, to tell his tale.

SCHUYLER, illegimate son of Burr, returns to the United States after 38 years reporting the European scene for American publications. He has been ruined by the Panic of 1973 and seeks to attach himself to Samuel J. Tilden, the Democratic candidate for president, in the hope of being named minister to France.

Schuyler naively believes that the Republicans cannot keep the presidency because of the scandals of the Grant administraton, a sellout to big business interests. He finds American life and politics vastly more shoddy and corrupt than he had ever dreamed from his haven abroad.

Vidal does not hesitate to emphasize parallels between the payoffs and political deals of 1876, when Rutherford B. Hayes deposed popular vote victor Tilden by the one electoral vote, and the corruptions of Watergate.

THE ONLY change in the moral climate of Washington in 100 years seems to be that deals today are made with more finesse and the establishment is more responsive to public indignation. The gadfly in Vidal is entirely at home nipping at the soft underbelly of the Republic.

Unfortunately the book slows down - although never tedious - as it relates the nearly five months of infighting between the time of the disputed election and Hayes' inaugural. The earlier section devoted to Schuyler's observations of New York, its growing mercantile society known as the Aristocracy, its political figures, journalists and authors, is pure delight.

VIDAL DEVELOPS an interesting subplot in the marital maneuvers of Schuyler's widowed daughter, Emma, a siren with some secrets even a father preferred not to comprehend.

There is no one writing better than Vidal today, Clarity of thought, aptness of word, spareness of expression, briliance of characterization, thoroughness of research, bit of sardonic humor, all recommend "1876" to readers who like their meat red under an exquisite sauce bearnaise.

"THE NEW AGE BEGINS," by PAGE SMITH.
(McGraw-Hill, two volumes, $24.95)

Billed as a people's history of the American Revolution, these easy-reading volumes present the Revolution from the viewpoint of the participants. We learn, for instance, of the American objections to British tariffs on goods shipped to the colonies through public letters written by a Philadelphia lawyer posing as an outraged farmer.

The author, a respected historian, quotes copiously from contemporary diaries, newspapers and journals. The result is a wordy (1,899-page) history but with a consistent ring of authenticity that this was the way the colonists saw it happening.

"THE NEW AGE BEGINS," by PAGE SMITH. (McGraw-Hill, two volumes, $24.95)

Billed as a people's history of the American Revolution, these easy-reading volumes present the Revolution from the viewpoint of the participants. We learn, for instance, of the American objections to British tariffs on goods shipped to the colonies through public letters written by a Philadelphia lawyer posing as an outraged farmer.

The author, a respected historian, quotes copiously from contemporary diaries, newspapers and journals. The result is a wordy (1,899-page) history but with a consistent ring of authenticity that this was the way the colonists saw it happening.

—Joan Hanauer (UPI)

Plan children's choir workshop

Rare bottle exhibit

Bottle owners are invited to have their antique containers appraised at the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute's (GCMI) traveling Bicentennial exhibit, "A History of Our Country as Seen Through Glass," continuing through Sunday at Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

GCMI is making a nationwide search to find the six most unusual American-made glass containers. Winners will receive a trip to the Jamestown, Va., Glasshouse, site of America's first industry.

The GCMI traveling exhibit is an illustrated panorama of American history with a display of authentic bottles from six key historical periods.

Art classes begin

Registration for children's spring art classes continues through Sunday at Countryside Art Center, 414 N. Vail in Arlington Heights. They begin Tuesday for five weeks. Six classes for the 6-to-10-year-olds are being offered on Tuesday, Wednesday or Friday, 4-6 p.m.; and Saturday, 9-11 a.m., 11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 3-5 p.m. One class for 11 to 14-year-olds is being offered Saturdays, 1-3 p.m. Fee is $13.50 including all supplies. Friday, 9-10 a.m. preschoolers 4-6 years old will meet. Fee is $7.25.

In addition Carol McQueen's adult painting class on Thursdays, 7-10 p.m., is being extended five weeks beginning April 1. Fee is $18.75 for members and $22.50 for non-members. Information, 253-3005.

First one April 10

Art fair season nears

Art fairs, like crocuses, lilac buds and tiny crawling creatures, are popping up faster than you can say "Spring is here." Now is the time for all good artists and craftsmen to register so they may show their talents to an expectant public.

April 10: The Midwest Artists Association will hold its fair at the Crystal Point Mall, Crystal Lake, Ill. Included will be paintings, sculpture, woodcraft, jewelry, pottery, macrame, creative stitchery and graphics. For more information, persons interested may call Midwest Artists, 448-0334 or 448-8995.

April 24-25: The Niles Art Guild holds its 14th annual art fair at Candlelight Courte, Milwaukee Avenue and Oakton Street. Fee is $10 for nonmembers, $6 for members and applications should be received before April 9. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded for oils and acrylics, watercolors, mixed media and sculpture; ribbons for limited crafts. Further details are available from Marilyn Brown at 647-0185.

May 16: The Arlington Heights Art Guild invites area artists and craftsmen to exhibit their works at Arlington Heights High School, Ridge Street entrance. Applications are available from Betty Borgeson, 259-0042. Entry fee is $10.

May 22: The 17th annual Art Showcase will be held at Hemmens Plaza in downtown Elgin. March 28 is the final deadline, so those interested in entering must call Mrs. Kathryn Long, 742-0768, or Mrs. Lynne Wiggall, 741-8055, immediately. Sponsored by the Elgin branch of the American Association of University Women, the juried show features more than $500 in cash awards.

June 5-6: Deadline for receiving applications for the 57th Street Art Fair at East 57th and South Kimbark Avenue is April 10. There will be cash awards for painting, sculpture, lithos or photos and crafts. To obtain application, interested artists may write 57th Street Art Fair, c/o Freehling, 5442 S. Hyde Park Blvd., Chicago, 60615.

June 5-6: Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central Roads, announces its 14th annual art fair, with entries currently being accepted until the limit of 100 is reached. Oil painting, watercolors, acrylics, pastels, sculpture, pottery and various crafts will be represented. Artists wishing to display may contact Adele Jeschke days at 255-0644, or evenings, 543-3549, before 10.

June 6: Roselle University Women's Club sponsors is 10th annual Art Fair, to be held at Depot Park on Irving Park Road between Prospect and Park Streets. A $5 entrance fee entitles exhibitor to 8 by 10 feet of space. Cash prizes will be awarded to "Best of Show" and to first place winners in two categories: 1. Paintings, including oils, watercolors, acrylics and pencil sketches, and 2. Arts and crafts. Loretta Skeen, 529-2185, or Jean Bonavelonta, 529-4516, may be called for details.

July 4: In connection with the Elk Grove Lions Club celebration, an art fair will be held at Lions Park, Elk Grove Boulevard, just east of Arlington Heights Road. All area artist, not just Elk Grove residents, are invited to exhibit. April 1 is the deadline for entering, so those interested should call Bonnie Casey, 437-0617, as soon as possible.

July 31-August 1: The Evanston Recreation Department announces its fourth annual Art Festival, to be held at Dawes Park, Church Street and the lakefront, near downtown Evanston. Exhibition space, being assigned now through July 19, carries a fee of $10 per day. For further information, Mrs. Gresham, may be called at 864-8243 after 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. If no answer, 475-3100, ext. 227.

Aug. 21-22: Deadline for entires in the seventh annual Four Lakes Village Art Fair is May 17. The festival will be held at Four Lakes Village, near the Four Lakes Ski Area, in Lisle. There will be $650 in cash prizes and more than $2,000 in guaranteed purchases by fair patrons. Application may be obtained by calling Linda Ross at 964-6800 or writing Four Lakes Village Art Fair, P. O. Box 430, Lisle, Ill. 60532.

ABT troupe boggles mind

by LYNN ASINOF
(A review)

The American Ballet Theatre is playing a game of one-upsmanship with itself this week and winning. The audience is falling in love with the unsurpassed ballet company, and particularly with Mikhail Baryshnikov.

The programming of the six-day visit reads like a ballet smorgasbord — there is everything from full-length classics to upbeat comic spoofs. Some programs, like the one which opened the visit Tuesday night, are almost too full for the mind to digest.

That's not an objection, mind you. Particularly when the casting includes the likes of Baryshnikov paired with Natalia Makarova, wonder boy Fernando Bujones with Eleanor d'Antuono, Martine van Hamel, Hilda Morales, Marianna Tcherkassky and Vladimir Gelvan all in one evening. But it does boggle the mind.

BARYSHNIKOV himself is enough to boggle the mind. He is a total dancer in complete control of every muscle. He is artistic rather than athletic, and his movements seem to well up from within. His range is incredible, his technique is superb, his sensitivity is touching and his humor is on target.

Chicago has been waiting a long time to see this widely acclaimed superstar. It is inconceivable anyone could have been disappointed, unless they were among those who couldn't get seats for the sold-out performances.

Tuesday, Baryshnikov's partnership with Makarova in the grand pas de deux from "Don Quixote" turned out to be just a teaser for what was to come in Twyla Tharp's "Push Comes to Shove."

The new Tharp piece, choreographed for Baryshnikov, is a wild spoof of classical ballet, full of mugging and twitching and wiggling hips. The bows came in the middle of the piece, everything was off-balance, out-of-kilter and right on target.

IT STARTS with Baryshnikov, a derby hat and Joseph Lamb's Bohemian Rag 1919. The magic begins as Baryshnikov slouches his way through the prelude with one foot doing a modified jitterbug and the other doing classic cabrioles and beats.

There is Martine van Hamel wiggling her way into a classic pose and wiggling her way out again to the strains of Haydn's 82 Symphony. Clark Tippet acts as her prop spoofing the supportive role of male dancers. Marianna Tcherkassky and Kristine Elliot get their licks in, too, as they tackle the lyrical ballerina and turn her into a fully developed caricature.

It was self-parody poking fun at the kind of dance that filled the early part of the evening.

The program included the local premiere of Tudor's "The Leaves Are Fading," which is an exercise in loveliness. It is a modern, dreamy piece where floating ethereal bodies fill the stage in fluttering costumes, creating a sense of tenderness and timelessness.

"LA BAYADERE," performed last year by the company, looked much improved in the corps area. The dancers managed to maintain unity with the slow, sustained movements without too many wobbly knees.

Fernando Bujones added bravura and excitement to the piece with his portrayal of Solor. He dances with energy and brashness that celebrate his youth. The increased depth he has gained over the past year makes it clear that his talents are only beginning to be tapped.

With all this outpouring of talent and fine ballet, it would appear that the ABT is out to court Chicago, not traditionally a strong city for the company. The strategy seems to be working since most performances are sold out. A few poorly located seats are still available for some performances, but even those are going quickly.

Is this any way to start a love affair? You bet it is.

High schoolers exhibit jewelry

Barrington High School Art Department will host the first Illinois High School Jewelry Invitational Exhibition April 5-15. The show will be open to the public in the school's art gallery from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays and from 7 to 9:30 p.m. April 7, 8 and 14.

For information regarding catalogs or field trips, interested persons may call Greg Greenwood, the school's jewelry instructor, at 381-1400, ext. 242.

June 5-6: Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central Roads, announces its 14th annual art fair, with entries currently being accepted until the limit of 100 is reached. Oil painting, watercolors, acrylics, pastels, sculpture, pottery and various crafts will be represented. Artists wishing to display may contact Adele Jeschke days at 255-0644, or evenings, 543-3549, before 10.

June 6: Roselle University Women's Club sponsors is 10th annual Art Fair, to be held at Depot Park on Irving Park Road between Prospect and Park Streets. A $5 entrance fee entitles exhibitor to 8 by 10 feet of space. Cash prizes will be awarded to "Best of Show" and to first place winners in two categories: 1. Paintings, including oils, watercolors, acrylics and pencil sketches, and 2. Arts and crafts. Loretta Skeen, 529-2185, or Jean Bonavelonta, 529-4516, may be called for details.

July 4: In connection with the Elk Grove Lions Club celebration, an art fair will be held at Lions Park, Elk Grove Boulevard, just east of Arlington Heights Road. All area artist, not just Elk Grove residents, are invited to exhibit. April 1 is the deadline for entering, so those interested should call Bonnie Casey, 437-0617, as soon as possible.

July 31-August 1: The Evanston Recreation Department announces its fourth annual Art Festival, to be held at Dawes Park, Church Street and the lakefront, near downtown Evanston. Exhibition space, being assigned now through July 19, carries a fee of $10 per day. For further information, Mrs. Gresham, may be called at 864-8243 after 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. If no answer, 475-3100, ext. 227.

Aug. 21-22: Deadline for entires in the seventh annual Four Lakes Village Art Fair is May 17. The festival will be held at Four Lakes Village, near the Four Lakes Ski Area, in Lisle. There will be $650 in cash prizes and more than $2,000 in guaranteed purchases by fair patrons. Application may be obtained by calling Linda Ross at 964-6800 or writing Four Lakes Village Art Fair, P. O. Box 430, Lisle, Ill. 60532.

ABT troupe boggles mind

by LYNN ASINOF
(A review)

The American Ballet Theatre is playing a game of one-upsmanship with itself this week and winning. The audience is falling in love with the unsurpassed ballet company, and particularly with Mikhail Baryshnikov.

The programming of the six-day visit reads like a ballet smorgasbord — there is everything from full-length classics to upbeat comic spoofs. Some programs, like the one which opened the visit Tuesday night, are almost too full for the mind to digest.

That's not an objection, mind you. Particularly when the casting includes the likes of Baryshnikov paired with Natalia Makarova, wonder boy Fernando Bujones with Eleanor d'Antuono, Martine van Hamel, Hilda Morales, Marianna Tcherkassky and Vladimir Gelvan all in one evening. But it does boggle the mind.

BARYSHNIKOV himself is enough to boggle the mind. He is a total dancer in complete control of every muscle. He is artistic rather than athletic, and his movements seem to well up from within. His range is incredible, his technique is superb, his sensitivity is touching and his humor is on target.

Chicago has been waiting a long time to see this widely acclaimed superstar. It is inconceivable anyone could have been disappointed, unless they were among those who couldn't get seats for the sold-out performances.

Tuesday, Baryshnikov's partnership with Makarova in the grand pas de deux from "Don Quixote" turned out to be just a teaser for what was to come in Twyla Tharp's "Push Comes to Shove."

The new Tharp piece, choreographed for Baryshnikov, is a wild spoof of classical ballet, full of mugging and twitching and wiggling hips. The bows came in the middle of the piece, everything was off-balance, out-of-kilter and right on target.

IT STARTS with Baryshnikov, a derby hat and Joseph Lamb's Bohemian Rag 1919. The magic begins as Baryshnikov slouches his way through the prelude with one foot doing a modified jitterbug and the other doing classic cabrioles and beats.

There is Martine van Hamel wiggling her way into a classic pose and wiggling her way out again to the strains of Haydn's 82 Symphony. Clark Tippet acts as her prop spoofing the supportive role of male dancers. Marianna Tcherkassky and Kristine Elliot get their licks in, too, as they tackle the lyrical ballerina and turn her into a fully developed caricature.

It was self-parody poking fun at the kind of dance that filled the early part of the evening.

The program included the local premiere of Tudor's "The Leaves Are Fading," which is an exercise in loveliness. It is a modern, dreamy piece where floating ethereal bodies fill the stage in fluttering costumes, creating a sense of tenderness and timelessness.

"LA BAYADERE," performed last year by the company, looked much improved in the corps area. The dancers managed to maintain unity with the slow, sustained movements without too many wobbly knees.

Fernando Bujones added bravura and excitement to the piece with his portrayal of Solor. He dances with energy and brashness that celebrate his youth. The increased depth he has gained over the past year makes it clear that his talents are only beginning to be tapped.

With all this outpouring of talent and fine ballet, it would appear that the ABT is out to court Chicago, not traditionally a strong city for the company. The strategy seems to be working since most performances are sold out. A few poorly located seats are still available for some performances, but even those are going quickly.

Is this any way to start a love affair? You bet it is.

High schoolers exhibit jewelry

THE MARKETPLACE RESTAURANT offers more than fine dining. Exquisite preparation, meticulous service, unique atmosphere . . . all to delight the gourmet in you.

Italian fare excellent and ample

The management at Cesare's reminds one of a good Italian "mama." No one leaves the table still hungry.

The restaurant located at 500 W. Higgins Rd., Schaumburg, features unbelievably large portions of Italian fare. Proprietor Gene Carelli boasts that in the few months he has operated the restaurant, he has attracted repeat family business.

One reason must be the careful preparation and homemade sauces for the pasta dishes. Cesare's Lasagna, $3.95, is stuffed with a thick meat sauce. And if you can finish one whole portion, you will be served a second one free of charge. Yet few patrons accept the offer, said our waitress with a grin.

Featuring:
Cesare's

MY HUSBAND AND I passed up appetizers such as baked clams, $2.25; raw clams, $1.75; and the usual onion rings, mushrooms and pizza and garlic breads to save room for the antipasta salad table which I still dream about.

In addition the usual salad greens, and accouterments, the table was laden with several different kinds of cheeses, anchovies, spicy perreroni, salami and proscuitto. Potato, macaroni and egg salads and marinated raw vegetables are also available.

A sign above the antipasta table reads, "Help yourself to all you can eat, we want you to feel like you had a feast." And you will. Ala carte the salad table is $2.75; with pasta dishes, $1.25; with a sandwich or pizza, $1.75. It is included in the price of regular dinners.

ALTHOUGH THE restaurant was crowded the night we dined, the service was very good. Our waitress showed unusual consideration in asking if we preferred a relaxed, leisurely meal or were in a hurry.

For his main entree, my husband chose Steak A La Pizzaiola, $6.25. An ample portion of melt-in-your-mouth filet mignon, the meat was smothered in a heavy, spicy, red tomato and wine sauce and arrived at the table steaming hot.

He insisted on ordering french fries even though I warned him it was a bad choice in an Italian restaurant. He learned his lesson. Instead he could have selected a baked potato or pasta.

I chose the latter with my entree of Veal Parmigiana A La Cesare, $6.25. The veal cutlet consists of layered thin slices of veal served in the same rich, spicy sauce with mushrooms and onions also added. It was delicious, but definitely not suited to the person who does not enjoy heavily spiced, oily preparations. It might be considered overpowering.

UNFORTUNATELY, the paper napkins provided are inadequate for a spaghetti meal or any of the Italian dishes served. Our waitress gave us several additional ones at my request, but they were so skimpy and flimsy it was a nuisance. Better to provide real dinner napkins than let one small irritating matter upset an otherwise perfect meal.

In addition to the regular menu, Cesare's provides a children's menu for children 12 and under. Prices as well as portions are scaled down accordingly, and range from a high of $1.95 for ravioli to 85 cents for a hamburger basket.

My husband and I regretfully passed up dessert. We didn't have any room left. Cesare's offers bisque of tortoni, "an ice cream liquor concoction," said our waitress; spumoni, and cannoli A La Siciliana, a cream-filled rolled cooke.

Cesare's, we understand from friends, also serves very good pizza, both thick and thin crust.

Night out

by Genie Campbell

Checking with the STUDEBAKER THEATRE I learned there are still a limited number of tickets for "THE BELLE OF AMHERST," but they're going fast.

Even so, those persons who don't take the opportunity to see JULIE HARRIS' sensitive portrayal of the vibrant, spunky, sometimes outspoken poetess Emily Dickinson will miss one of the most meaningful, rewarding pieces of theater to hit Chicago in the last several seasons.

Audiences come away with a knowledgeable, entertaining character analysis of the poetess that one would never derive from reading a book. Miss Harris does not merely recite Emily Dickinson's poems. She lives them. But she offers much more.

By relating the amusing anecdotes, idiosyncrasies and even disappointments of Emily Dickinson's life, Miss Harris spoon-feeds bits of philosophy, personality and witticisms of the now famous poetress who lived out her final days as a romantic recluse in her father's Amherst house. Literary recognition came late, well after her death in 1886.

No one could carry off a one-woman show as well as Julie Harris is currently doing. But just as much credit is due the creators of the show, Playwright William Luce and collaborator Timothy Helgeson.

The stage is like a kaleidoscope with the audience peering into Emily Dickinson's parlor set in front of a naturalistic scene that continually fades in and out through an expert use of lighting by H. R. Poindexter. It is significant since much of Miss Dicksinon's inspiration came from nature.

If you never appreciated Emily Dickinson before, after seeing the "The Belle of Amherst" you'll never pass her up again. I'm sure. The play closes April 3.

This spring there are plenty of choices in Chicago area theater.

"RAISIN," the Tony and Grammy Award-winning best musical based on the late Lorraine Hansberry's classic play, "A Raisin In The Sun," opened last night at the Shubert Theatre for five weeks.

And tonight marks the premiere of Israel Horovitz's drama, "OUR FATHER'S FAILING," at the Goodman Theatre.

"GOD'S FAVORITE," Neil Simon's newest comedy will open Tuesday at Candlelight Dinner Playhouse in Summit. Next door, the Forum is getting ready to stage the spicy French tale "IRMA LA DOUCE," beginning April 7. The Midwest Theater Foundation, a newly formed organization dedicated to the promotion and production of live theater in the Chicago area, has leased the Forum Theater for three musicals. The series will include "Irma La Douce," "Fantasticks" and "The Grass Harp."

"MY DAUGHTER'S RATED X" will have its Midwest premiere at Country Club Comedy Theatre in Mount Prospect next Wednesday.

Other announcements include "THE PORTABLE PIONEER AND PRAIRIE SHOW" set to open at the First Chicago Center April 21, and "YOUR ARM'S TOO SHORT TO BOX WITH GOD," a musical booked into the Blackstone Theatre beginning April 8.

And CLAUDETTE COLBERT will make her Drury Lane East Theatre debut April 7 when she stars in the comedy "THE MARRIAGE GO-ROUND."

But with all the new shows about ready to open, I still miss Arlington Park Theatre. I hope David Lonn will be allowed to reopen very soon.

by Genie Campbell

Checking with the STUDEBAKER THEATRE I learned there are still a limited number of tickets for "THE BELLE OF AMHERST," but they're going fast.

Even so, those persons who don't take the opportunity to see JULIE HARRIS' sensitive portrayal of the vibrant, spunky, sometimes outspoken poetess Emily Dickinson will miss one of the most meaningful, rewarding pieces of theater to hit Chicago in the last several seasons.

Audiences come away with a knowledgeable, entertaining character analysis of the poetess that one would never derive from reading a book. Miss Harris does not merely recite Emily Dickinson's poems. She lives them. But she offers much more.

By relating the amusing anecdotes, idiosyncrasies and even disappointments of Emily Dickinson's life, Miss Harris spoon-feeds bits of philosophy, personality and witticisms of the now famous poetress who lived out her final days as a romantic recluse in her father's Amherst house. Literary recognition came late, well after her death in 1886.

No one could carry off a one-woman show as well as Julie Harris is currently doing. But just as much credit is due the creators of the show, Playwright William Luce and collaborator Timothy Helgeson.

The stage is like a kaleidoscope with the audience peering into Emily Dickinson's parlor set in front of a naturalistic scene that continually fades in and out through an expert use of lighting by H. R. Poindexter. It is significant since much of Miss Dicksinon's inspiration came from nature.

If you never appreciated Emily Dickinson before, after seeing the "The Belle of Amherst" you'll never pass her up again. I'm sure. The play closes April 3.

This spring there are plenty of choices in Chicago area theater.

"RAISIN," the Tony and Grammy Award-winning best musical based on the late Lorraine Hansberry's classic play, "A Raisin In The Sun," opened last night at the Shubert Theatre for five weeks.

And tonight marks the premiere of Israel Horovitz's drama, "OUR FATHER'S FAILING," at the Goodman Theatre.

"GOD'S FAVORITE," Neil Simon's newest comedy will open Tuesday at Candlelight Dinner Playhouse in Summit. Next door, the Forum is getting ready to stage the spicy French tale "IRMA LA DOUCE," beginning April 7. The Midwest Theater Foundation, a newly formed organization dedicated to the promotion and production of live theater in the Chicago area, has leased the Forum Theater for three musicals. The series will include "Irma La Douce," "Fantasticks" and "The Grass Harp."

"MY DAUGHTER'S RATED X" will have its Midwest premiere at Country Club Comedy Theatre in Mount Prospect next Wednesday.

Other announcements include "THE PORTABLE PIONEER AND PRAIRIE SHOW" set to open at the First Chicago Center April 21, and "YOUR ARM'S TOO SHORT TO BOX WITH GOD," a musical booked into the Blackstone Theatre beginning April 8.

And CLAUDETTE COLBERT will make her Drury Lane East Theatre debut April 7 when she stars in the comedy "THE MARRIAGE GO-ROUND."

But with all the new shows about ready to open, I still miss Arlington Park Theatre. I hope David Lonn will be allowed to reopen very soon.

Clam takes in food through neck

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's Yearbook of Science and the Future to Susan Brezina, 12, of Lethbridge, Alta., Canada, for her question:

HOW DO CLAMS EAT?

One of the basic processes of life is eating, and most of us do it without much thought. Rabbits daintily nibble at lettuce and other greenery while woodpeckers bang away on a tree trunk in search of their dinner. The elephant uses his trunk to pull down leaves, and even whole trees, for his mighty meals. Most animals merely pop food into their mouths, chew it up and swallow it. But pity the poor clam. He lacks not only a proper mouth — he doesn't even have a head.

Clams belong to a large group of animals called mollusks. The slowpoke snail is a member of this group, as is the speedy squid. With most of the mollusks, it is fairly easy to tell the front end from the back end, but with the clam and its close relatives the job is more difficult.

The clams, oysters, mussels and scallops make up a separate group of mollusks called bivalves. They all have two shells that are held together by muscular hinges. Generally the shells are left open a bit, but when they decide to clam up they contract strong muscles attached to their shells and snap shut.

Since clams and other bivalves lack a head, they use the next best thing with which to eat, breathe and get rid of body wastes — their necks. The neck is really a pair of tubes called siphons. The two siphons work together to bring in and expel water. The larger siphon, located below the smaller one, brings in water loaded with oxygen and food. The smaller siphon removes excess water and waste products from the clam's body.

Clams feed on tiny plants and animals that live in the ocean called plankton. As plankton is brought into the body, along with lots of water, tiny hairs on the clam's gills fan the small food particles back onto a very small opening that leads to the clam's stomach. Oxygen is removed from the water, and waste gases are removed from the body as the water passes over the clam's gills.

The bivalves get around by means of a long muscular foot which they use to burrow into the sand and pull themselves along. They don't travel very fast, but then they don't need to. With their meals already close at hand, there's no rush to the dinner table.

There are many different kinds of clams. For the most part their flattish shells are fist-size or smaller. On the coral reefs of the West Indies and off Australia, however, there are giant clams. These whoppers may grow to be more than three feet across and weigh as much as 500 pounds.

Andy sends a student globe to Karen Da Dilva, 12, of Coventry, R.I., for her question:

WHY AREN'T AIRSHIPS USED TO CARRY PASSENGERS?

The golden age of passenger-carrying airships reached its pinnacle in the 1930s. In 1928 the Graf Zeppelin was built in Germany, followed in 1936 by one of the biggest ever constructed, the Hindenburg. This mammoth was 812 feet long, 135 feet across and could travel at 78 miles per hour. Tragically, a series of terrible disasters involving airships included the Hindenburg, which crashed in the United States as it was landing in 1937, killing 35 of the 97 passengers and crew.

Blimps are small airships used today for advertising, weather reporting and television transmission. Although blimps can take small groups of people for aerial sightseeing rides, they are rarely used to carry passengers from one place to another like an airplane. Their use as commercial passenger vehicles is restricted because storms and high winds affect their safety. And, although extremely comfortable and pleasant to travel in, they are much slower than airplanes.

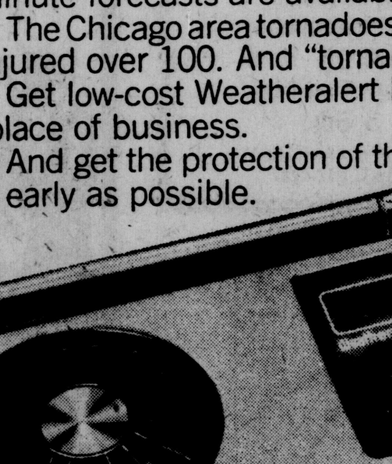
How to live through Chicago's next tornado.



Get the new Weatheralert Radio. It'll protect you from killer storms the way burglar and fire alarms protect you.

With an alarm. An alarm that goes off any time—night or day—when a severe storm threatens.

The alarm is triggered by the National Weather Service, broadcasting from Sears Tower. They then follow with a complete report on the danger.

If you're at home when the alarm sounds, open windows (but stay away from them) and take shelter in the basement or under heavy furniture in the center of the house. In a school or office building, move quickly to the shelter area or to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. (Get our free brochure—"Tips On Tornado Safety"—at the Weatheralert dealers listed below.)

When conditions are normal, the weather station's up-to-the-minute forecasts are available continuously on Weatheralert.

The Chicago area tornadoes of March 12, 1976 took 7 lives and injured over 100. And "tornado season" is just beginning.

Get low-cost Weatheralert Radios today for your home and place of business.

And get the protection of this early storm warning system as early as possible.

Hawkeye's really a women's libber

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — On camera, Hawkeye Pierce is as manipulative of the "M*A*S*H" nurses as his homemade martinis will allow. In private life, he sings a different tune.

Alan Alda is a dedicated feminist, and has written the introduction to "A Guide to Non-Sexist Children's Books," compiled by Judith Adell and Hilary Dole Klein (Academy Press Limited, Chicago, $3.95 paper, $7.95 hardcover).

The Guide recommends books that reinforce a non-sexist attitude among young people and might counter the male chauvinist bias of many otherwise admirable standards from Cinderella to Dr. Seuss.

HOW DOES A television sex symbol find himself introducing a book such as this?

"I guess partly because I'm a very active feminist," Alda said in an interview.

Some men come around to a feminist viewpoint after nothing like being told your budding brain surgeon daughter would do better as a nurse to bring out the feminist in a man. Alda insists, however, that his feminism precedes his three daughters, who are 14, 15 and 17 years old. It isn't even the fact that his wife is a teacher and clarinetist. For him, women's lib means male liberation as well.

"Until men begin to realize they have a stake in what happens to women, they aren't going to get too enthusiastic, which is one reason I talk so much," he said. "It's important for men to hear it from other men — that way they're more likely to listen."

The ways in which men are shortchanged by male chauvinism include men married to underpaid working wives, men who are not allowed to show a soft side, to cry or to take six months off to write a book or study theology, Alda said.

Play is tougher at table

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

West's queen of spades is allowed to hold the first trick. He continues the suit and dummy is in with he king.

A low diamond is led and it is up to you to play from the East hand. What do you play?

If you have been reading this week's articles, you should have no problem. You play your ace of diamonds. Second hand high!

This play is not at all hard to make in a bridge column. It is much tougher at the table, yet any expert worth his salt would make it.

He can see that the only way to beat three notrump will be for his partner to score some spade tricks. He can also see that West can't hold much in high cards. But he can be looking at the king or queen of diamonds and it is up to East to let him keep that high diamond in his hand until the ace of spades is knocked out.

New Trier East to head field in Wildcat Relays

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

New Trier East's powerful track squad will come to Wheeling High School tonight for the 12th Annual Wildcat Relays, the area's biggest indoor invitational, with everything to lose and nothing to gain.

Well, almost nothing to gain accept the Indians' second straight Relays trophy.

When the meet begins with preliminaries and field events at 4 p.m. (finals start at approximately 7:00), New Trier will be defending the title they took last year when the Indians beat Glenbrook North 55-50 in a tight, two-team race. The year before, Glenbrook was first and New Trier second.

"New Trier is really strong — overwhelmingly so," said Wheeling head coach Jim Nagel, who has had a chance to look over the entries for tonight's meet.

"They've got somebody everywhere," Nagel continued. "They've got someone in the top six or eight in just about every event. Last year, they won mostly with juniors, so I knew they'd be tough coming back."

Leading the Indians into battle will be senior Sam Detmer, who has won the Wildcat mile two years in a row, last year in 4:35.1. This time Detmer will run both the mile and the two-mile for New Trier.

Another defending-champion Indian is Dave Waitley, the winner in 1975 in the 880-run. Waitley, who ran a 2:02.5 last year, has logged a 2:01.8 indoors this season and will be pushed hard by Kevin Shannon of Glenbrook North.

North's Spartans will sorely miss Mike Kiepura, a senior last year when he swept to victories in both hurdles races; and two-miler Dave Warren, who was two-time defending champion in that event.

The Spartans' top athlete might be pole vaulter Ron Ellwanger, who is top-seeded with a 13-9 effort.

Wheeling finished 6th last year with 19 points, but Nagel concedes that his Wildcats will be hard-pressed to finish that high in 1976.

His chief hopes for scoring rest with triple jumpers Mark Larson and Darryl Stillson. Both have reached 39-1½ for their best marks. Larson has also long jumped 19-6.

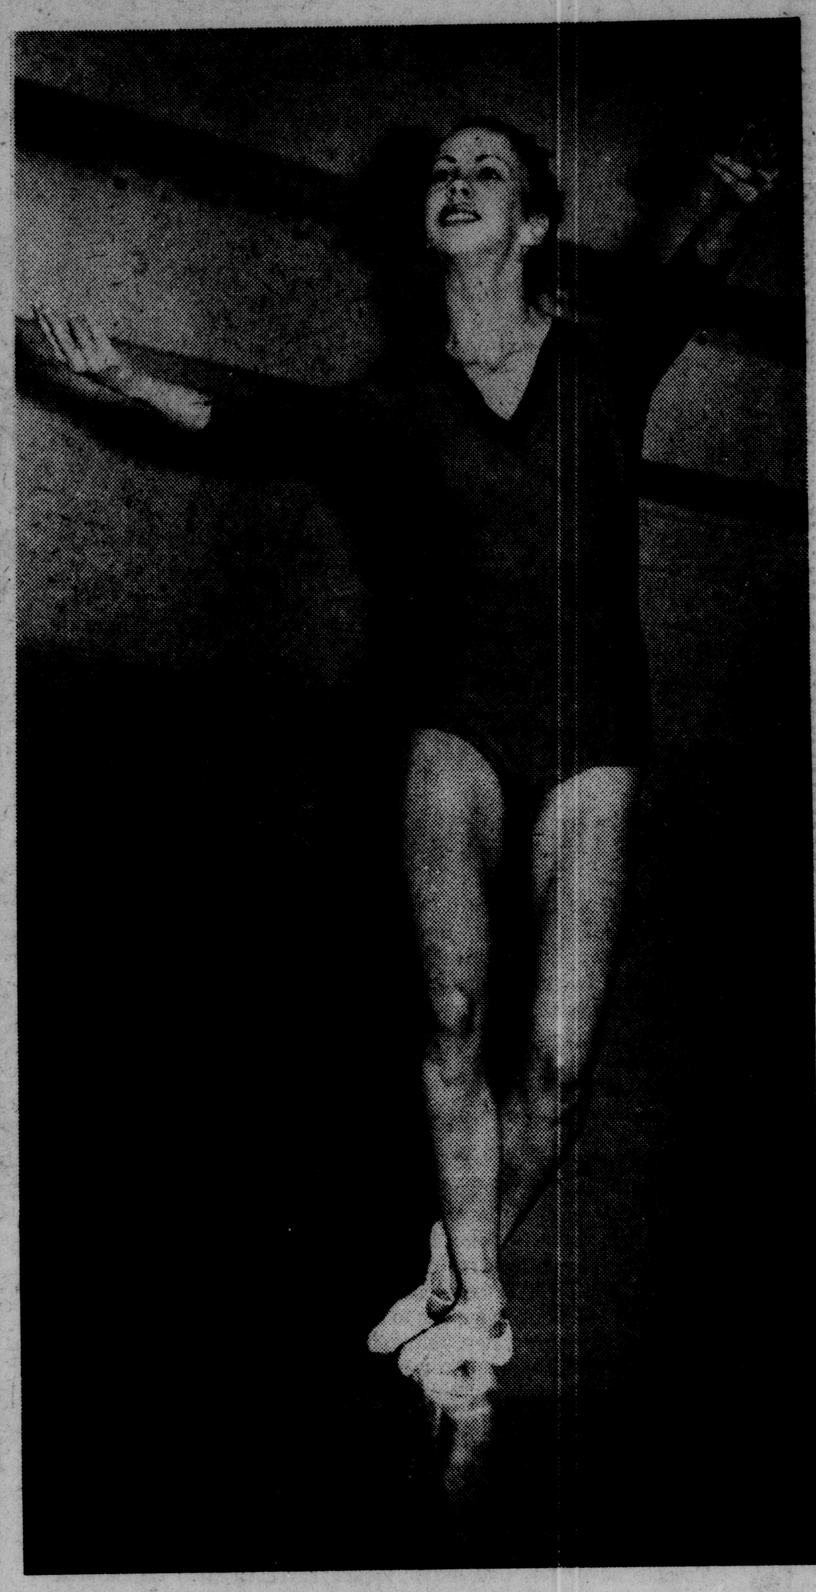
Wildcat distance runner Ben Sanchez won't compete because of a leg injury. Nagel figured his sophomore sensation might have placed in the two-mile.

"Ben's leg has been bothering him and I think it might be the beginning of a stress fracture," Nagel noted. "So I'm going to rest him, though he might run in the conference meet next week."

The two-mile field will feature Bill Chamberlain of Glenbrook South and Dick Resseguie of Deerfield, both of whom have run 9:32.

A top attraction will be in the triple jump, where Steve Roth of Highland Park (45-2), Steve King of New Trier (44-8), and Bruce Burroughs of Zion-Benton (43-0) have all surpassed state-qualifying distance. Burroughs is the meet's defending champion and also owns the best-seeded long jump (21-7).

The heir apparent to Kiepura's double-pronged hurdles crown could be George Hubbard of New Trier. He is among the top-seeded hurdlers in both the highs and lows. Hans Miller of Libertyville, Tom Foster of Glenbrook South, and a pair of Barrington hurdlers, Gordon Gilly and Bob Seehausen, are also among those in the running.



A L L-AROUND standout performer for defending Mid-Suburban champion Hoffman Estates is Linda Buddenbaum, working out here on the balance beam. The talented senior and her team will open the MSL season at Arlington Monday night. She won the intermediate floor exercise title last year with an 8.40.

Back in the days when players traveled by train, bus and their own cars, there was a professional league called the Basketball Assn. of America, or BAA to those in the know.

Unfortunately, not many knew. It wasn't much of a league, but then professional basketball wasn't much of a show in those days. Cities, teams and owners came and went like truck drivers at a highway cafe.

The presence of DePaul University All-American George Mikan helped create new excitement and interest and stature for all pros, but those early days still were filled with struggle.

The BAA, put togeher in 1946 by a group of men who owned the country's largest arenas, battled for survival with the National Basketball League, or NBL. The BBA had the arenas; the NBL had the players.

No, that's not quite right. In the early days the NBL didn't have all the players, just most of them. The BBA did showcase a player named Joe Fulks, and that was enough for me as a young fan growing up in Evanston and making frequent Sunday afternoon trips to Chicago.

There was a certain magic then going to the stadium, leaving Evanston, the trip to Chicago, being there. The magic of television today is electronic. The tube is always nearby. Today's athlete is simply overwhelmingly available, playing too many sports for too many hours on too many television sets.

There was nothing quite like an afternoon sitting high in the Chicago Stadium watching Joe Fulks of the Philadelphia Warriors and Max Zaslofsky of the Chicago Stags match talents. I'll never forget those shootouts between Max "The Touch," a classic two-handed set shot artist, and Fulks, the jump shot specialist.

As a youngster just learning about the game of basketball, I was in awe of those two men, particularly Fulks who was the BAA's first real hero. Yes, I had a new hero. Move over, Phil Cavaretta and Stan Hack.

Fulks, who had seen action on Iwo Jima and Guam as a Marine, played at Murray State in Kentucky but earned his reputation in the service. That's when the reports filtered back to Eddie Gottlieb, coach of the Philadelphia Warriors.

Fulks was a 6-foot-5, broad-shouldered, long-armed, poker-faced country boy who had been reared by the banks of the Tennessee River in Marshall County, Ky. He not only knew how to shoot a jump shot; he also knew how to drive a hard bargain.

Fulks demanded $8,000 to play for the Warriors. The BAA had a $5,000 payroll limit on each club at the time, and Gottlieb hadn't even seen Fulks play. He was just going on a solid recommendation.

The Philadelphia coach argued, pleaded, but Fulks wouldn't give in. Joe won out and joined the club at the age of 26, bringing to the Warriors and the league his philosophy:

"To win, you've got to have points, so I fire away at every opportunity."

Fulks fired away at a snappy 23.2 per game clip in his first season, but the Warriors finished second in the Eastern Division. They made up for it by beating St. Louis, New York and Chicago (and my other hero, Max "The Touch") in the playoffs to win the first championship.

As professional basketball developed, eventually forming the National Basketball Assn., Fulks continued to dazzle crowds across the country. I followed his career closely although in those days you couldn't really tell what athletes were like by reading newspapers. The stories lacked proximity.

Joe Fulks

Joe played eight seasons for the Warriors before retiring in 1954 and was named to the All-Time Pro Basketball team. In one game he scored 63 points, a record that stood for several years.

Time passes, ideas change. I no longer care that much for professional basketball. I guess heroes are for youngsters, but sport was terribly important to me in the 1940s, and I endowed players with superhuman magic.

Having made these gods, I set about worshiping my own creation, sitting in the Chicago Stadium or at Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park. Worshiped is a word that goes with hero, and Joe Fulks was my hero as a youngster.

That's why it was so shocking to read the item that came across last Sunday's sports wire. The story wasn't long. It carried an Eddyville, Ky., dateline.

"Joe Fulks, a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame," the story began, "was shot to death Sunday and another man was charged with murder.

"Lynn County coroner Eugene Denney said Fulks, 54, died of a gunshot wound in the neck. Greg Bannister, 24, was charged with the murder. Fulks had worked in recent months as a recreational officer at the Kentucky State Penitentiary."

When I was growing up, athletes were looked upon as creatures slightly higher than angels. Athletes, like movie stars, stood as remote from middle-class life as Mount Olympus.

Those were the simple, gentle times when everyman was either hero or hero-worshiper.

A hero was buried Tuesday.

Orioles show same cast in bid for AL honors

This is the 4th in a series of 24 baseball spring training camp sizeups).

MIAMI (UPI)—Looking at the Baltimore Orioles in spring training this year is like watching one of those television reruns.

This year's version of the Orioles is virtually the same one which finished four and half games behind the Boston Red Sox in the American League East last season. But Baltimore's reluctance to engage heavily in the off-season trade mart indicates the front office feels it already has the personnel to recapture the AL East title.

The Orioles were the team everyone pegged to win it all in the AL East a year go, and for the last four months of the season they were the best club in the entire league. But, a record of 18-26 for the first two months of the season and horrendous offensive performances from Paul Blair (.218) and Brooks Robinson (.201) proved the club's undoing.

Still, the personnel is defeinitely there to win it all this season.

"We didn't make many trades, but we go in stronger this year than we did last season," says manager Earl Weaver. "We know what we can expect out of guys like Ken Singleton (.300), Mike Torrez (20 wins) and Lee May (99 RBIs) which we didn't know a year ago. Also, Paul Blair hit 60 points under his lifetime average and is gonna get some of those points back and the same with Brooks Robinson."

Bobby Grich, the club's star second baseman, thinks cockiness might have cost the Orioles the Al East pennant last year and feels the team's mental outlook will be much better this season.

"We were a little lackadaisical at the start of the season last year," says Grich. "We had won our division the two previous years and we might have gone into the season thinking we're gonna do it again. We weren't bearing down from the beginning and it took us almost two months to get it together.

"Last year made believers out of us. We realized we're gonna have to scratch and fight for every victory. I think the shorter spring training session will help us. Last year we peaked about 10 days before the end of spring training then went flat when the season started."

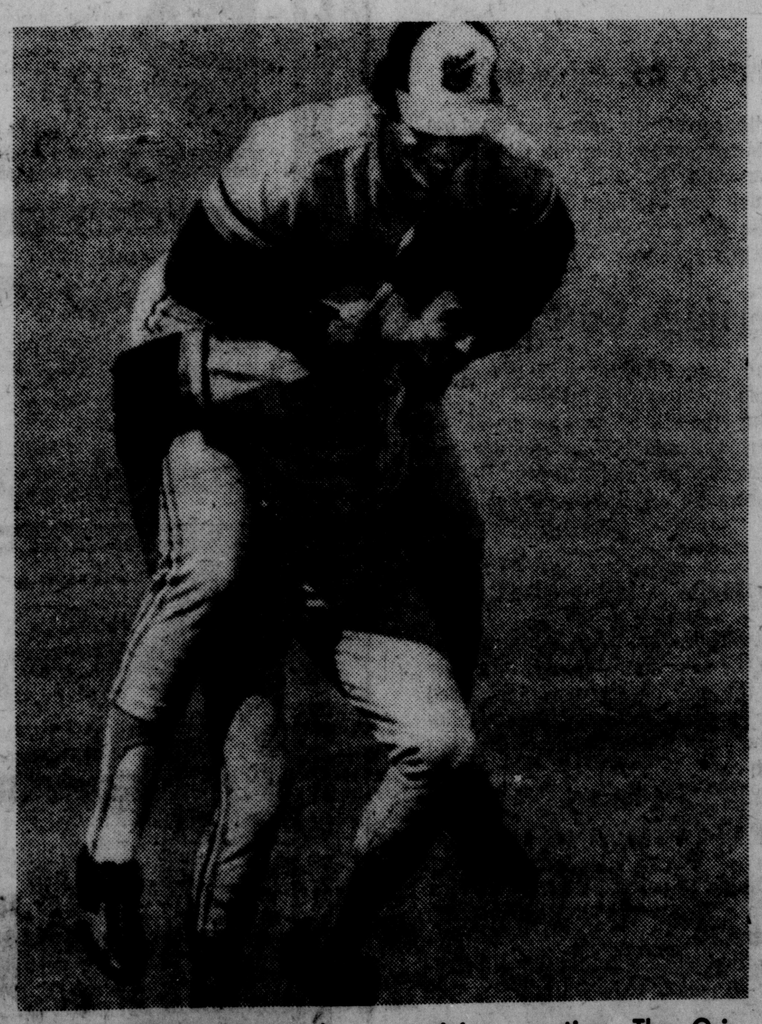
WEAKNESSES — Bullpen, a disappointment last year, still a problem; catching weak offensively.

NEW FACES — Veteran Tommy Harper, acquired from Oakland, adds greatly to bench strength, providing speed and power. Taylor Duncan, who hit .284 at Rochester last season, might stick as reserve infielder.

OUTLOOK — Will fight it out with the Red Sox for the AL East flag.



BALTIMORE Orioles' catcher Willie Royster gets a ride from shortstop Mark Belanger at the end of a spring training practice. The Orioles should make a strong run for the American League East flag.

UCLA's Bartow predicts tight game

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A coach who leads his team to the NCAA basketball tournament usually does not have to explain how it got there, but every coach does not follow a John Wooden.

During a telephone news conference with the coaches of UCLA, Indiana, Rutgers and Michigan, the four teams that will meet Saturday in the semi-finals, UCLA coach Gene Bartow was asked a lot of questions about Wooden.

Bartow, who coached at Illinois last year, came to UCLA this season after Wooden retired with an amazing record of 10 NCAA basketball championships in the past 12 years, seven of them in a row from 1967 through 1973.

"I'm pleased to be in the final four," said Bartow. "I think things have gone as well as expected when you following a living legend."

Bartow has his hands full in the semi-finals. His team, ranked fifth, meets No. 1 ranked Indiana, unbeaten in 30 games, and holders of an 84-64 victory over UCLA at the start of the season.

Bartow said Bobby Knight's Hoosiers "did very well against us" in the first game. He said, "Our players were feeling the effects of a new coach" and that in the first part of the season, he was trying to "stabilize our guards. We are stabilized now and I feel it will be a closer, better game."

Knight said it was "really hard to determine how the game will go. It could go any one of a hundred ways. I feel our team is ready to play and I think ours will be a fun basketball game."

Tom Young, the Rutgers coach, said he feels playing a "physical Michigan team may hurt us a little bit, but our own quickness will be a big advantage for us.

"I don't think we will change our game plan at all," said Young, who predicted a high-scoring contest.

Michigan coach Johnny Orr did not agree with Young's assessment of the Wolverines' strength.

"We are a very small, skinny team," he said. "We're quick and have a good jumping ability. If the big guys underneath don't get the ball, it comes out and our guys get it and go."

Warriors in badminton meet lead

The Maine West Warriors' badminton team will take a commanding lead into the Central Suburban South championships this afternoon, beginning at 4:30, on the Maine South courts.

Coach Royleen Tipton's Warriors have first, third and fourth singles as well as first and third doubles players still alive heading into the finals after a successful opening round Thursday. West, winner of the dual meet portion of the schedule, has 12 points going into the finals with Maine South having 10, Niles West 8 and Glenbrook South 6. Four other teams are out of contention.

West's Karen Kiester will meet a Niles West opponent for the first singles title. Robin Downing will be seeking the third singles crown against a Niles West foe and Barb Klein, who shocked the top seed in fourth singles, will also be after a title.

In doubles, Evelyn Johnson and Jan Krauser will face Maine South for the No. 1 title with teammates Barb Breider and Laurie Meissner seeking the third doubles crown against a Glenbrook South duo.

"My third doubles team was a pleasant surprise," said Tipton. "I'm very pleased with their play. The rest of the team is playing very well as a whole, too."

New Trier East to head field in Wildcat Relays

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

New Trier East's powerful track squad will come to Wheeling High School tonight for the 12th Annual Wildcat Relays, the area's biggest indoor invitational, with everything to lose and nothing to gain.

Well, almost nothing to gain accept the Indians' second straight Relays trophy.

When the meet begins with preliminaries and field events at 4 p.m. (finals start at approximately 7:00), New Trier will be defending the title they took last year when the Indians beat Glenbrook North 55-50 in a tight, two-team race. The year before, Glenbrook was first and New Trier second.

"New Trier is really strong — overwhelmingly so," said Wheeling head coach Jim Nagel, who has had a chance to look over the entries for tonight's meet.

"They've got somebody everywhere," Nagel continued. "They've got someone in the top six or eight in just about every event. Last year, they won mostly with juniors, so I knew they'd be tough coming back."

Leading the Indians into battle will be senior Sam Detmer, who has won the Wildcat mile two years in a row, last year in 4:35.1. This time Detmer will run both the mile and the two-mile for New Trier.

Another defending-champion Indian is Dave Waitley, the winner in 1975 in the 880-run. Waitley, who ran a 2:02.5 last year, has logged a 2:01.8 indoors this season and will be pushed hard by Kevin Shannon of Glenbrook North.

North's Spartans will sorely miss Mike Kiepura, a senior last year when he swept to victories in both hurdles races; and two-miler Dave Warren, who was two-time defending champion in that event.

The Spartans' top athlete might be pole vaulter Ron Ellwanger, who is top-seeded with a 13-9 effort.

Wheeling finished 6th last year with 19 points, but Nagel concedes that his Wildcats will be hard-pressed to finish that high in 1976.

His chief hopes for scoring rest with triple jumpers Mark Larson and Darryl Stillson. Both have reached 39-1½ for their best marks. Larson has also long jumped 19-6.

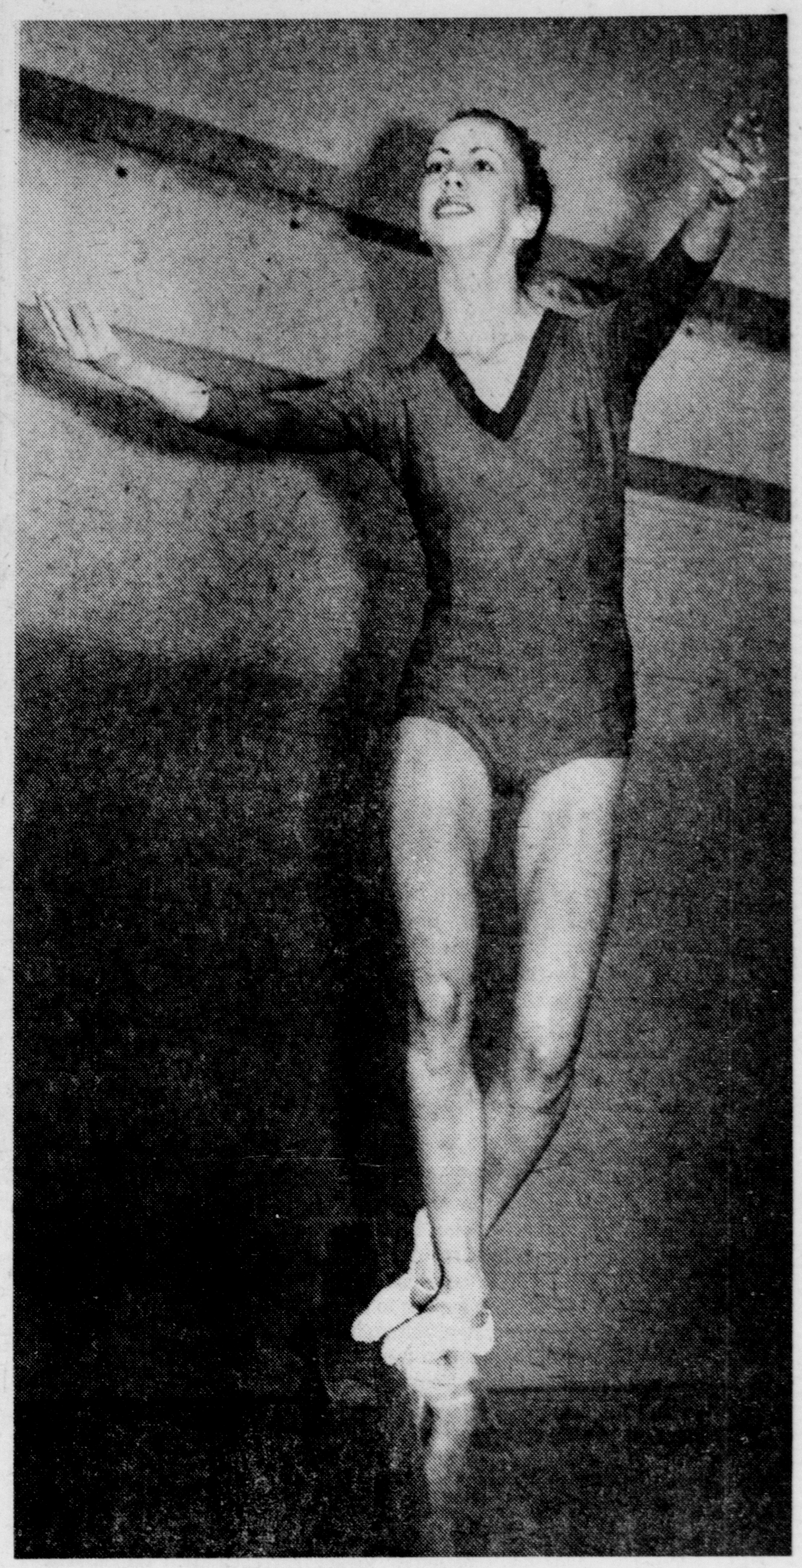
Wildcat distance runner Ben Sanchez won't compete because of a leg injury. Nagel figured his sophomore sensation might have placed in the two-mile.

"Ben's leg has been bothering him and I think it might be the beginning of a stress fracture," Nagel noted. "So I'm going to rest him, though he might run in the conference meet next week."

The two-mile field will feature Bill Chamberlain of Glenbrook South and Dick Resseguie of Deerfield, both of whom have run 9:32.

A top attraction will be in the triple jump, where Steve Roth of Highland Park (45-2), Steve King of New Trier (44-8), and Bruce Burroughs of Zion-Benton (43-0) have all surpassed state-qualifying distance. Burroughs is the meet's defending champion and also owns the best-seeded long jump (21-7).

The heir apparent to Kiepura's double-pronged hurdles crown could be George Hubbard of New Trier. He is among the top-seeded hurdlers in both the highs and lows. Hans Miller of Libertyville, Tom Foster of Glenbrook South, and a pair of Barrington hurdlers, Gordon Gilly and Bob Seehausen, are also among those in the running.



ALL-AROUND standout performer for defending Mid-Suburban champion Hoffman Estates is Linda Buddenbaum, working out here on the balance beam. The talented senior and her team will open the MSL season at Arlington Monday night. She won the intermediate floor exercise title last year with an 8.40.

Joe Fulks—a superstar in simple, gentle times

Toronto to enter American League

The American League will expand to 14 teams today with Toronto being awarded a franchise for the 1977 season, it has been learned by United Press International.

The action by the American League will mean it has beaten the National League to the Canadian city after both leagues announced their intention of establishing franchises in Toronto during a meeting in New York last Saturday.

The addition of Toronto along with the return of Seattle will make the American League a 14-team circuit for the first time in its history.

The National League will be left with 12 teams unless it decides to change its present position, which is against expansion.

One of the reasons the American League was able to move into Toronto before the National League has to do with a difference in their voting regulations for expansion. Only nine of 12 votes are needed to admit a new franchise in the American League while the vote in the National League has to be unanimous.

Needing only nine votes, the American League already has approved the establishment of a franchise in Toronto by 11 votes.

Official certification of Toronto as a new American League franchise will be made at a meeting in Tampa, Fla., today when two Toronto groups make presentations before American League officials. Labatt's Brewery, which had offered $12 million for the San Francisco Giants last month only to be turned down is expected to wind up with the new franchise. Another group, though, will be given the opportunity to make its presentation as well.

Toronto never has had major league representation although it had been a member of the International League for many years. The major leagues first began operation in Canada six years ago when the Montreal Expos became a member of the National League.

Black Hawks lose, 4-2

A pair of fluke goals by Jean Ratelle and Hank Nowak in the second period Thursday night helped the Boston Bruins to a 4-2 win over the visiting Chicago Black Hawks.

The victory pulled the Bruins to within two points of clinching the National Hockey League's Adams Division title. Boston holds an 11-point lead over second place Buffalo with six games left for each team.

With Chicago leading 1-0 on a Pit Martin goal, Ratelle tried to center a pass from the left corner on a power play. But the puck bounced off a skate and bounded past Chicago goalie Gilles Villemure at 5:22 of the middle frame.

Less than three minutes later, Nowak was attempting to keep control of the puck in front of the Black Haw k nnatehd control of the puck in front of the Black Hawk net and his blind pass bounced off a defenseman into the Chicago net.

Wayne Cashman got the game-winner, which at that time gave Boston a 3-1 lead, at 19:10 of the middle period on a goalmouth pass from Bob Schmautz.

Terry O'Reilly added a third period goal for Boston which was countered less than a minute later by Dennis Hull.

The Black Hawks managed only 15 shots on Boston goaltender Gerry Cheevers. Boston had 31 shots on Villemure.

Perfect game puts Laub on top

Larry Laub took a four-pin lead over Bill Spigner Thursday in the $100,000 St. Louis Open bowling tournament. A seven-time titlist from San Francisco, Laub moved up from seventh with the help of a perfect game to replace Spigner, Hamden, Conn. Laub's 18-game pinfall was 4,099, a 227 average, while Spigner was at 4,095.

Rounding out the lead five were Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., 4,076; Barry Asher, Costa Mesa, Calif., 4,063, and Mike Berlin, Muscatine, Iowa, 4049.

Sox withdraw offer to Messersmith

The Chicago White Sox have withdrawn their four-year, $750,000 offer to free-agent pitcher Andy Messersmith, the club announced Thursday night. A Sox spokesman said the club never received acknowledgement of the offer, which was extended March 18, and had placed "several calls" to the office of Herb Osmond, Messersmith's agent, this week without reply.

Ohio St. to name new cage coach

Officials at Ohio State University Thursday called a 9 a.m. Friday press conference to announce the selection of the school's new basketball coach. Speculation on the new coach, to replace Fred Taylor who resigned Feb. 5 after 18 years, centered around Mid-American Conference coach of the year Eldon Miller of Western Michigan and former Virginia Tech coach Don DeVoe.

Delta St. women roll in tourney

Cornelia Ward hit a tournament high 38 points Thursday to pace defending champion Delta State to a 97-55 win over Baylor at the AIAW tournament in University Park, Pa.

Ward hit 18-of-25 shots from the field while teammate Lusia Harris, bothered by fouls, settled for 16 points while hitting seven of her eight shots.

Delta State shot a sizzling 60.6 per cent from the field. Ramona Von Zoeckman was playmaker for the offense with nine assists.

Delta State will meet Wayland Baptist, a 75-59 winner over Mississippi College, today in the semi-finals.

KC blanks Sox; Cubs fall, 8-5

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Kansas City got five innings of tight pitching from Al Fitzmorris and two unearned runs in the third Thursday to score a 2-0 shutout of the Chicago White Sox (split squad) for the Royals' second straight Grapefruit League victory.

Fitzmorris gave up just two infield singles and allowed only two fly balls to the outfield as he exhibited good control through five innings. The White Sox threatened briefly in the fourth on an error and the two scratch hits to fill the bases with two outs. However, Niles Nyman grounded out to end the inning.

The Royals' unearned runs came off Jack Kucek on a walk, a wild pitch, a sacrifice fly and a double by Amos Otis.

Starting catcher Brian Downing of the Chicago White Sox has a sore elbow, Manager Paul Richards revealed Thursday.

"Downing can't throw," Richards said, "and he hasn't shown any improvement."

Downing has been in pain since mid-August of last season when he began a throw to second base at the start of a game, held up because the fielder's back was turned and "felt something pull."

Big inning hurts Cubbies

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI) — A two-run double by rookie outfielder Gene Richards and run-scoring singles by Bob Davis and Dave Winfield keyed a six-run sixth inning for San Diego Thursday as the Padres defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-5 in an exhibition game.

Back-to-back triples by Hector Torres and Bob Davies in the sixth inning added a pair of insurance runs. Triples by John Summers and Rob Sperring and singles by Andy Thornton and Steve Swisher accounted for Chicago's runs.

Bill Greif, Dan Frisella and Butch Metzger pitched for San Diego while Cubs starter Ken Frailing blanked the Padres on no hits over the first three innings.

In other major league action, it was California over Oakland, 4-1; Pittsburgh over Detroit, 4-2; Los Angeles over Philadelphia, 7-0; the New York Yanks over Atlanta, 2-1; St. Louis over the New York Mets, 1-0; Montreal over Houston, 5-4; Boston over Minnesota, 7-2; and Texas over Baltimore, 10-8.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP Muhammad Ali doesn't seem to be intimidating Antonio Inoki, world heavyweight wrestling champion, during the promotion of their upcoming 15-round (or less) fight in Tokyo, June 25.

Toronto to enter American League

The American League will expand to 14 teams today with Toronto being awarded a franchise for the 1977 season, it has been learned by United Press International.

The action by the American League will mean it has beaten the National League to the Canadian city after both leagues announced their intention of establishing franchises in Toronto during a meeting in New York last Saturday.

The addition of Toronto along with the return of Seattle will make the American League a 14-team circuit for the first time in its history.

The National League will be left with 12 teams unless it decides to change its present position, which is against expansion.

One of the reasons the American League was able to move into Toronto before the National League has to do with a difference in their voting regulations for expansion. Only nine of 12 votes are needed to admit a new franchise in the American League while the vote in the National League has to be unanimous.

Needing only nine votes, the American League already has approved the establishment of a franchise in Toronto by 11 votes.

Official certification of Toronto as a new American League franchise will be made at a meeting in Tampa, Fla., today when two Toronto groups make presentations before American League officials. Labatt's Brewery, which had offered $12 million for the San Francisco Giants last month only to be turned down is expected to wind up with the new franchise. Another group, though, will be given the opportunity to make its presentation as well.

Toronto never has had major league representation although it had been a member of the International League for many years. The major leagues first began operation in Canada six years ago when the Montreal Expos became a member of the National League.

Black Hawks lose, 4-2

A pair of fluke goals by Jean Ratelle and Hank Nowak in the second period Thursday night helped the Boston Bruins to a 4-2 win over the visiting Chicago Black Hawks.

The victory pulled the Bruins to within two points of clinching the National Hockey League's Adams Division title. Boston holds an 11-point lead over second place Buffalo with six games left for each team.

With Chicago leading 1-0 on a Pit Martin goal, Ratelle tried to center a pass from the left corner on a power play. But the puck bounced off a skate and bounded past Chicago goalie Gilles Villemure at 5:22 of the middle frame.

Less than three minutes later, Nowak was attempting to keep control of the puck in front of the Black Haw k nnatehd control of the puck in front of the Black Hawk net and his blind pass bounced off a defenseman into the Chicago net.

Wayne Cashman got the game-winner, which at that time gave Boston a 3-1 lead, at 19:10 of the middle period on a goalmouth pass from Bob Schmautz.

Terry O'Reilly added a third period goal for Boston which was countered less than a minute later by Dennis Hull.

The Black Hawks managed only 15 shots on Boston goaltender Gerry Cheevers. Boston had 31 shots on Villemure.

Perfect game puts Laub on top

Larry Laub took a four-pin lead over Bill Spigner Thursday in the $100,000 St. Louis Open bowling tournament. A seven-time titlist from San Francisco, Laub moved up from seventh with the help of a perfect game to replace Spigner, Hamden, Conn. Laub's 18-game pinfall was 4,099, a 227 average, while Spigner was at 4,095.

Rounding out the lead five were Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., 4,076; Barry Asher, Costa Mesa, Calif., 4,063, and Mike Berlin, Muscatine, Iowa, 4049.

Sox withdraw offer to Messersmith

The Chicago White Sox have withdrawn their four-year, $750,000 offer to free-agent pitcher Andy Messersmith, the club announced Thursday night. A Sox spokesman said the club never received acknowledgement of the offer, which was extended March 18, and had placed "several calls" to the office of Herb Osmond, Messersmith's agent, this week without reply.

Murphy leads Heritage by 1 shot

Burly Bob Murphy used home movies earlier this week to correct a flaw in his golf swing and Thursday capitalized by shooting a 66 to take the first round lead in the star-filled Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S. C. Murphy's a stroke ahead of Don January and two ahead of a third-place group that included hot-streaking Hubert Green, winner last week at Jacksonville and the week before at Doral.

Ohio St. to name new cage coach

Officials at Ohio State University Thursday called a 9 a.m. Friday press conference to announce the selection of the school's new basketball coach. Speculation on the new coach, to replace Fred Taylor who resigned Feb. 5 after 18 years, centered around Mid-American Conference coach of the year Eldon Miller of Western Michigan and former Virginia Tech coach Don DeVoe.

Delta St. women roll in tourney

Cornelia Ward hit a tournament high 38 points Thursday to pace defending champion Delta State to a 97-55 win over Baylor at the AIAW tournament in University Park, Pa.

Ward hit 18-of-25 shots from the field while teammate Lusia Harris, bothered by fouls, settled for 16 points while hitting seven of her eight shots.

Delta State shot a sizzling 60.6 per cent from the field. Ramona Von Zoeckman was playmaker for the offense with nine assists.

Delta State will meet Wayland Baptist, a 75-59 winner over Mississippi College, today in the semi-finals.

KC blanks Sox; Cubs fall, 8-5

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Kansas City got five innings of tight pitching from Al Fitzmorris and two unearned runs in the third Thursday to score a 2-0 shutout of the Chicago White Sox (split squad) for the Royals' second straight Grapefruit League victory.

Fitzmorris gave up just two infield singles and allowed only two fly balls to the outfield as he exhibited good control through five innings. The White Sox threatened briefly in the fourth on an error and the two scratch hits to fill the bases with two outs. However, Niles Nyman grounded out to end the inning.

The Royals' unearned runs came off Jack Kucek on a walk, a wild pitch, a sacrifice fly and a double by Amos Otis.

Starting catcher Brian Downing of the Chicago White Sox has a sore elbow, Manager Paul Richards revealed Thursday.

"Downing can't throw," Richards said, "and he hasn't shown any improvement."

Downing has been in pain since mid-August of last season when he began a throw to second base at the start of a game, held up because the fielder's back was turned and "felt something pull."

Big inning hurts Cubbies

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI) — A two-run double by rookie outfielder Gene Richards and run-scoring singles by Bob Davis and Dave Winfield keyed a six-run sixth inning for San Diego Thursday as the Padres defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-5 in an exhibition game.

Back-to-back triples by Hector Torres and Bob Davies in the sixth inning added a pair of insurance runs. Triples by John Summers and Rob Sperring and singles by Andy Thornton and Steve Swisher accounted for Chicago's runs.

Bill Greif, Dan Frisella and Butch Metzger pitched for San Diego while Cubs starter Ken Frailing blanked the Padres on no hits over the first three innings.

In other major league action, it was California over Oakland, 4-1; Pittsburgh over Detroit, 4-2; Los Angeles over Philadelphia, 7-0; the New York Yanks over Atlanta, 2-1; St. Louis over the New York Mets, 1-0; Montreal over Houston, 5-4; Boston over Minnesota, 7-2; and Texas over Baltimore, 10-8.

Hoffman Estates' Paape hits 14-4 in pole vault

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

A newspaper clipping spurred Hoffman Estates pole vaulter Dave Paape to new hieghts, and now the red-headed senior is making his own headlines.

Paape and Maine West hurdler Joe Farrell each shattered fieldhouse records in an indoor dual meet at Maine South as Central Suburban South champ Maine West bumped Hoffman, 79-35, by taking 10 firsts, including three relays.

Paape broke a two-year-old pole vault record when he reached 14-4 for a victory at the Maine South fieldhouse. The old mark was held by Maine South's Brian Murphy at 14-0.

Farrell, who swept the high and low hurdles, ran the 50-yard lows in :06.0, a tenth of a second better than the existing house record and four-tenths ahead of Hoffman's Bill DiPuma who was second.

Maine West's other winners were Tony Krainik in the 440 (:54.0), Scot Unger in the 50 (:05.6), Mike Klebe in the high jump (6-3), and Brian Tolan in the two-mile.

Paape, whose older brother Doug was a top-notch vaulter at Conant two years ago, surpassed his own Hoffman school record with the 14-4 and became the third highest vaulter in MSL indoor history. Only Schaumburg's Bruce Mahlig, at 14-9, and Mark Harris of Rolling Meadows, 14-6, have gone higher. Both are now at the U. of Illinois.

Paape, who has also high-jumped 6-2 this season, was third in the MSL indoor finals last year (13-0) and eventually qualified for the state meet in May after missing the conference outdoor due to an injury.

"Last year, Dave had a pulled groin muscle and went into the districts needing a 13-6 to qualify for state," said Hoffman coach Jim Swift. "He hadn't been on a pole in 10 days, but he got his 13-6 and went downstate. That shows what kind of competitor he is."

Swift is quick to give all the credit to Paape and Hawk vault coach Bill Spaletto, former gymnastics coach at Northern Ill. U.

"Bill really does a good job," said Swift. "If I said I had anything to do with Paape's success, I'd be lying."

But Swift did admit tht Paape was fired up by a recent newspaper article that suggested Mahlig's indoor league mark of 14-5¾ was untouchable.

"Dave had only gone 13-6 in meet competition," said the Hawk coach. "But he had looked really good in practice and we knew that eventually he would get 14-0. We wanted him to have the best mark going into the conference meet for seeding purposes."

So Paape was held out of the high jump against Maine West, which boasts a pair of 6-6 floppers. He'll be concentrating on the vault in Wednesday's MSL finals, too.

"I think Paape is a 15-foot vaulter," Swift ventured. "He may not do it indoors, but he'll get it soon enough."

DiPuma, meanwhile, set a personal record in the long jump by going 19-6 for a win. Other Hawk wins were by miler Sam Cox, who turned in an impressive 4:30 time, and shotputter Joe Bartow, who won with 44-11½.

Hoffman's Ed Elliott ran a 2:02 in the 880 to finish second behind Maine West's outstanding junior, Jeff Brydges, who clocked 2:01.4.

Old Orchard to host writers' tournament

Old Orchard Country Club will host the second annual Chicago Area Golf Writers' Invitational championship tourney, according to Lou Sabo, the club pro-manager.

The 18-hole tourney will be held at the Mount Prospect course on Friday, June 4.

Hoffman Estates' Paape hits 14-4 in pole vault

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

A newspaper clipping spurred Hoffman Estates pole vaulter Dave Paape to new hieghts, and now the redheaded senior is making his own headlines.

Paape and Maine West hurdler Joe Farrell each shattered fieldhouse records in an indoor dual meet at Maine South as Central Suburban South champ Maine West bumped Hoffman, 79-35, by taking 10 firsts, including three relays.

Paape broke a two-year-old pole vault record when he reached 14-4 for a victory at the Maine South fieldhouse. The old mark was held by Maine South's Brian Murphy at 14-0.

Farrell, who swept the high and low hurdles, ran the 50-yard lows in :06.0, a tenth of a second better than the existing house record and four-tenths ahead of Hoffman's Bill DiPuma who was second.

Maine West's other winners were Tony Krainik in the 440 (:54.0), Scot Unger in the 50 (:05.6), Mike Klebe in the high jump (6-3), and Brian Tolan in the two-mile.

Paape, whose older brother Doug was a top-notch vaulter at Conant two years ago, surpassed his own Hoffman school record with the 14-4 and became the third highest vaulter in MSL indoor history. Only Schaumburg's Bruce Mahlig, at 14-9, and Mark Harris of Rolling Meadows, 14-6, have gone higher. Both are now at the U. of Illinois.

Paape, who has also high-jumped 6-2 this season, was third in the MSL indoor finals last year (13-0) and eventually qualified for the state meet in May after missing the conference outdoor due to an injury.

"Last year, Dave had a pulled groin muscle and went into the districts needing a 13-6 to qualify for state," said Hoffman coach Jim Swift. "He hadn't been on a pole in 10 days, but he got his 13-6 and went downstate. That shows what kind of competitor he is."

Swift is quick to give all the credit to Paape and Hawk vault coach Bill Spaletto, former gymnastics coach at Northern Ill. U.

"Bill really does a good job," said Swift. "If I said I had anything to do with Paape's success, I'd be lying."

But Swift did admit tht Paape was fired up by a recent newspaper article that suggested Mahlig's indoor league mark of 14-5¾ was untouchable.

"Dave had only gone 13-6 in meet competition," said the Hawk coach. "But he had looked really good in practice and we knew that eventually he would get 14-0. We wanted him to have the best mark going into the conference meet for seeding purposes."

So Paape was held out of the high jump against Maine West, which boasts a pair of 6-6 floppers. He'll be concentrating on the vault in Wednesday's MSL finals, too.

"I think Paape is a 15-foot vaulter," Swift ventured. "He may not do it indoors, but he'll get it soon enough."

DiPuma, meanwhile, set a personal record in the long jump by going 19-6 for a win. Other Hawk wins were by miler Sam Cox, who turned in an impressive 4:30 time, and shotputter Joe Bartow, who won with 44-11½.

Hoffman's Ed Elliott ran a 2:02 in the 880 to finish second behind Maine West's outstanding junior, Jeff Brydges, who clocked 2:01.4.

Old Orchard to host writers' tournament

Old Orchard Country Club will host the second annual Chicago Area Golf Writers' Invitational championship tourney, according to Lou Sabo, the club pro-manager.

The 18-hole tourney will be held at the Mount Prospect course on Friday, June 4.

Last year's low gross champion was Chuck Frank of the Suburban Trib with an 83. A low net champion will also be crowned this year.

Wooden at clinic

John Wooden, the former head basketball coach at UCLA, Al McGuire of Marquette, Ray Mears of Tennessee and Al LoBalo of Fairleigh-Dickinson will be among the coaches speaking at the Medalist World of Basketball Coaches Clinic at Chicago's Hyatt Regency O'Hare April 2-4.

Pre-registration fees for the clinic are $25 and all coaches may register the day of the clinic for $30.

Additional information can be obtained by writing the Medalist Basketball Coaches Clinic, 735 N. 5th St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53203. Or by calling 414-276-0989.

From campuses nationwide

—Kim Brydon, a freshman at Grinnell College (Iowa) from Palatine, earned a varsity letter with the women's swimming team this year.

—Mark Russo completed his first year of basketball at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay with 24 total points and nine rebounds. Russo is a graduate of Forest View High School.

—Jamie Bucaro, from Mount Prospect, is entering his second season with the Indiana University baseball team.

Bucaro played in 31 games as a freshman infielder last year, batting .171, stealing five bases and turning the double play five times.

—The Southern Illinois University baseball team is traditionally stocked with area products and this season is no exception.

The Salukis signed a talented freshman in Jerry DeSimone, a student baseball and basketball player from Arlington High School.

Also on the squad are sophomore Bruce Hanson, from Rolling Meadows High School, senior Jim Locascio from Arlington, junior Bert Newman from Wheeling and sophomore George Vukovich from Arlington.

Newman has a .337 career average with the Salukis while Locascio has batted .296 in three seasons.

—Joe Thimm, former Maine West standout, led the Iowa Wesleyan College basketball team in scoring, rebounding and shooting percentage this year.

The 6-6 Thimm averaged 24.9 points and 12.0 rebounds a contest and hit 48 per cent of his shots from the floor.

—Five former Mid-Suburban League swimmers have completed a very successful year on the Eastern Illinois University swim team.

Dave Toler, senior co-captain from Elk Grove, capped his collegiate career with the 100-yard free-style record (47.7). He also was a member of three record-setting relays, the 400 and 800 freestyles and the 400 medley. During his freshman and sophomore years, he was a member of the national champion 400 medley relay team.

Scott Bolin, also from Elk Grove, set the 200-yard freestyle school record (1:45.5) and was also a member of the 800 and 400 freestyle relay teams.

Joe Nitch, Arlington Heights, set school records as a freshman in the 500 freestyle (4:40.6), the 1000 free (9:55.8) and the 1650 free (16:16.5). At the national finals, Nitch finished second in the 1650 free and fourth in the 500 to be the team's top individual point producer.

Charlie Dunn, also from Arlington, swam in the nationals as a sophomore in the 100 and 200 backstroke events.

Tim Brennan, Arlington Heights, was a freshman diver.

—The Western Illinois University gymnastics squad will be shooting to finish in the top 10 or better this weekend at the NCAA Division II Nationals in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Helping the Bulldogs will be side horse specialist Dave Peterson, from Wheeling, and Dean Kolts, a high bar man from Maine West.

—David Schultz, from Arlington Heights, one of just 10 freshmen who won both frosh numerals and varsity letters in swimming at Carthage College (Wis.) during the 1975-76 season, was voted "most improved swimmer" by his teammates.

Life is not a wide-open jump shot

Jim Murray

As luck would have it, the police were out and prowling that section of La Brea Ave. that day in 1968 when a bunch of college kids came swinging along in a packed sedan celebrating someone's birthday.

The police noted the car was being driven erratically so they pulled it to the curb and shook down the occupants. They found marijuana. One rider introduced himself as Lucius Oliver Allen, a basketball player at UCLA. The police fished a marijuana cigaret from his pocket. "You mean you were a UCLA basketball player," he said wryly.

For Lucius Allen, this was his second arrest in a year. A year before, a lid of grass had been discovered in the glove compartment of his car. He was able to convince police his car had been stolen, and the charges were dismissed. But this time, he was not so persuasive.

For Allen, this came at a time when all life looked like an easy layup or, at most, a wide-open jump shot from the top of the key. Ahead was nothing but three-point plays, champagne in the locker room and netting around shoulders.

He had been the most soughtafter high school player in Kansas. More than 120 colleges and universities came knocking on his door. He chose UCLA and became part of the only freshman team in history to beat its own varsity by 12 points — when that varsity was ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Basketball was easy for Allen — too easy. The team had a 7-foot-plus man in the pivot, Lewis Alcindor. It had Mike Warren at the other guard. It won games and national championships with boring regularity.

Allen was the most likeable member of that team. He roomed with Alcindor, soon to become Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. He made friends. He played superb basketball. The pros were waiting in the wings with trucks full of money.

A simple traffic pinch seemed to have blown all that in one giggly afternoon. Life suddenly looked like a backcourt violation. It had called a sixth personal on Lucius O. Allen.

He dropped out of school, and drifted into semi-pro ball. It was a foregone conclusion his career had ended. Two technicals are all anyone gets. Who wanted a guy with a pot bust on his record? They wanted a guard, not a head. That cigaret probably cost Allen a million dollars.

Among those who thought so was Allen. "I thought my entire career was gone," he said the other day at a Lakers' practice. " 'Now,' I thought, 'I got no education, no job, no nothing.' I had to give up my scholarship. I thought, 'You Fool, you.'."

Friends scattered, the phone stopped ringing. Lucius went into deep depression. Only Sam Gilbert, the non-alumnus who has been a financial father to a generation of UCLA basketball players, offered counsel to this fouled-out human being that was Lucius Allen.

Meanwhile, expansion had come to the National Basketball Assn., and UCLA graduates, even discredited ones, were the shiniest of ivory to talent-starved teams like the Seattle SuperSonics. They offered Allen a contract with a carefully inserted morals clause which provided for instant dismissal for any new brushes with the law.

They didn't need it. Recalls Lucius. "I realized I was one of the luckiest persons alive. I think I became a better person because of what happened. I was forced to change my life around and face up to my responsibilities. I could look at myself and like myself. I was not really sorry for myself because I could see I should blame myself."

Traded toMilwaukee, Allen adjusted even to earmuffs and overshoes. Reuinted with Alcindor (as he was still known then in 1970-71, Lucius became an effective swing guard between Oscar Robertson and John McGlocklin, and Milwaukee won its only world championship that year.

Allen became a Los Angeles Lake in a trade on Nov. 8, 1974. He was followed by Jabbar six months later. Lucius became a 19-point player, and a playmaker whose job it is to bring the ball up court and set the attack. He became particularly expert in complementing Jabbar, anticipating the big man's moves and having the ball and man arrive at the same moment at the same place.

One of Allen's spectacular moves is saving the wild pass from going hopelessly out of bounds. But no on-court saves can ever match the one he made off-court in the summer and winter of '68-'69, when he kept the person of Lucius Allen in bounds and under the basket — and in the game.

Schaumburg sports signup on Saturday

The Schaumburg Hockey League will hold registrations for its spring program this Saturday at Parson's Sports Center in Schaumburg from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

This year's spring program will include two separate events, hockey and soccer. The hockey portion will include 15 games and five practices plus league playoffs. Jerseys and socks will be supplied by the league and all skating will be done at the Rolling Meadows Complex.

The soccer schedule will include 20 practices and 10 games. Jerseys, shorts and socks will be furnished.

Total registration cost, which includes participation in both programs is $75 per boy. All boys wishing to register should be at Parson's on Saturday.

Car care is perhaps the one most important factor in your car's life. A car that is kept in fine running condition is safer, runs longer and is ultimately worth more in trade-in value. And yet, most people know so little about car maintenance and repair! To help dispel some of the mystery surrounding the newest trends in car upkeep, manufacture and safety watch this spot. In the weeks and months to come we hope to be able to bring you information which will be of service to both you and your car!

Helpful Hint:

Pumping the accelerator while waiting for traffic lights distracts other drivers and also wastes gas.

Instant replay technique helps with golf problems

The instant replay in televised sports has added a new dimension to any game broadcast, and golfers, serious about improving their game right away, have the opportunity to take advantage of this new technique at Jack Hogan's Indoor Golf School and Practice Range, 1375 Oakton St., Des Plaines.

Hogan, a veteran of 26 years as a PGA professional golfer and teacher, has given everyone who plays, from the duffer to the scratch linksman,

Jack Hogan

THE CAMERA is rolling and chances are this golfer's game will be improved when she sees herself in action on the closed circuit set at the left. Jack Hogan's Golf School and Practice Range has installed the technique to help every golfer improve.

the chance to make immediate improvements in his game by viewing himself on television.

The benefits of the system are twofold.

First, the camera points out flaws in the golfer's stance, swing style and ball contact. It also lets Hogan quickly visualize and explain the student's errors.

Incidentally, a student watching himself perform on camera for the first time can be almost revealing experience.

There are other benefits of the Hogan school.

It is generally agreed the hardest shot to master in golf is the sand blast or chipping from a trap.

Hogan's school has taken steps to help golfers overcome this stumbling block by installing an eight foot by 60 foot continuous sand trap with canvas barriers in front to practice driving balls into.

There are also longer distances from the tees to the canvas barriers on the driving range and a high ceiling to allow golfers an unimpeded swing.

Finally, the most important aspect of golf, getting the ball into the hole, is stressed with a putting green runner incorporating two practice cups.

Hogan's unique approach to teaching has been reduced to a formala incorporating five easy-to-comprehend principles: 1. Proper grip, 2. The angle of the club to the ball, 3. Lining up properly to the target, 4. Proper shoulder position and turn, 5. Swing, rhythm and tempo.

Hogan's is open seven days a week, all year, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Hogan feels leaving an indoor range open during the golf season allows the golfer to concentrate on the target without any outside interference.

Draft Dennis Franklin and draft a lawsuit

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Michigan quarterback Dennis Franklin would rather play wide receiver for the Detroit Lions than throw passes for one of the two new National Football League teams.

Franklin has indicated that if the Lions don't protect him from the expansion draft next week, then maybe the courts will.

"I'm tired of hearing bad things about Detroit," said Franklin, who came from Massillon, Ohio, to play quarterback for Bo Schembechler for three seasons. "I've been in this area five years and I like it."

"If they draft Dennis they're going to draft a lawsuit, too," said Franklin's attorney, Bob Rossman. "I hope they'll take that into consideration. basically the Cullen Bryant case is the precedent. I feel there is reasonable restraint of trade."

Franklin's stance runs contrary to the posture of the player's association. The new Tampa and Seattle franchises brought the association into court and were assured it would not contest the legality of the expansion draft. That did not bind individual players, however.

"I just like it here," Franklin said. "I like the people in this area. I listen to the other comments and they talk about the bad things. Other cities are the same, but people don't reflect on the bad things.

"Sure, Los Angeles has the weather but the industry potential is on the same level," he said. "I know they (the Lions) have a lot of other players to protect. But anything I can do to stay here, I will. If that includes suing — I might have to sue."

The quick-footed wide receiver only played two complete regular season games for the Lions, catching five passes, then was idled by injury. After a brief appearance he was sidelined for the season by the same viral infection that hit him his senior season at Michigan.

"I feel fine now and there has been no problem with it," said Franklin, who has been running every day and working out three times a week in Pontiac Stadium.

Instant replay technique helps with golf problems

The instant replay in televised sports has added a new dimension to any game broadcast, and golfers, serious about improving their game right away, have the opportunity to take advantage of this new technique at Jack Hogan's Indoor Golf School and Practice Range, 1375 Oakton St., Des Plaines.

Hogan, a veteran of 26 years as a PGA professional golfer and teacher, has given everyone who plays, from the duffer to the scratch linksman, the chance to make immediate improvements in his game by viewing himself on television.

Jack Hogan

The benefits of the system are twofold.

First, the camera points out flaws in the golfer's stance, swing style and ball contact. It also lets Hogan quickly visualize and explain the student's errors.

Incidentally, a student watching himself perform on camera for the first time can be almost revealing experience.

There are other benefits of the Hogan school.

It is generally agreed the hardest shot to master in golf is the sand blast or chipping from a trap.

Hogan's school has taken steps to help golfers overcome this stumbling block by installing an eight foot by 60 foot continuous sand trap with canvas barriers in front to practice driving balls into.

There are also longer distances from the tees to the canvas barriers on the driving range and a high ceiling to allow golfers an unimpeded swing.

Finally, the most important aspect of golf, getting the ball into the hole, is stressed with a putting green runner incorporating two practice cups.

Hogan's unique approach to teaching has been reduced to a formala incorporating five easy-to-comprehend principles: 1. Proper grip, 2. The angle of the club to the ball, 3. Lining up properly to the target, 4. Proper shoulder position and turn, 5. Swing, rhythm and tempo.

Hogan's is open seven days a week, all year, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Hogan feels leaving an indoor range open during the golf season allows the golfer to concentrate on the target without any outside interference.

For further information phone 296-8088.

THE CAMERA is rolling and chances are this golfer's game will be improved when she sees herself in action on the closed circuit set at the left. Jack Hogan's Golf School and Practice Range has installed the technique to help every golfer improve.

Basketball needs changes in rules

Dear Fans Forum:

Something has to be done about the rules in basketball. I'm tired of going to a game only to see the reserves play because the regulars are sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

The game is at the mercy of the officials and some call them tight, some call them loose. It's no wonder the players don't know what's going on.

The sport of basketball penalizes the fans because of the rules that put the best players on the sidelines. If a boy gets three or four quick fouls, he's almost unable to do anything until the final minutes and then he's still operating under too severe a handicap because he knows he may foul out.

I think disqualification should not be allowed in basketball, or at least they should make it six fouls per player. The game is so fast today but they insist on sticking with five fouls in high school and college. They can make strict ball-loss penalties on the seventh foul but not disqualification.

Would it cause more violence in the game? Absolutely not, and I think the fans would be treated to at least seeing the good players on the floor and not on the bench. Why doesn't basketball wake up?

JOB WELL DONE

Dear Editor:

I just want to thank the Herald's sports staff for another excellent year for high school basketball coverage in this area. For years, I've been telling my friends that the Herald has the best prep coverage I've ever seen from any paper, either local or otherwise. I've never been let down in my appraisal in this regard.

Your coverage of the IHSA tourneys was outstanding as usual with Bob Frisk's preview of the Class AA meet incisive (and accurate) as usual. Nothing like Mr. Frisk's article to psyche a basketball fan up for the big tourney!

Your annual all-area team looked good and honors a group of well-deserving youngsters who, I'm sure, richly appreciate the honor. I feel the all-area section of your paper caps off another successful year of informing and entertaining your readers. Your prep sports coverage fills a necessary void in local journalism.

Bud Byers
Arlington Hts.

EDITOR'S NOTE: We appreciate the kind words from Mr. Byers and hope that we can live up to his praise in the future.

CELTS GROW THEIR OWN

Dear Sirs,

I recently watched the Boston Celtics play on national television. And I got to thinking, what makes the Celtics so good? Naturally, they have some outstanding players who are unselfish and play totally as a team. But there must be something else that keeps this team among the best year after year after year. Could you come up with any other reasons why the Celtics are so great despite the loss of Bill Russell?

Rick Rehman
Hoffman Estates

EDITOR'S NOTE: There's one thing that few people outside of fanatic Boston fans might know. Boston, under the guiding hand of General Manager Red Auerbach, has sustained a team unity that's unparalleled in professional sports. John Havlicek's been playing 14 seasons. During that time the Celtics have made just two trades! They made great choices in the college draft and then keep them. That's the secret to success.

Basketball needs changes in rules

Fan's forum

Dear Fans Forum:

Something has to be done about the rules in basketball. I'm tired of going to a game only to see the reserves play because the regulars are sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

The game is at the mercy of the officials and some call them tight, some call them loose. It's no wonder the players don't know what's going on.

The sport of basketball penalizes the fans because of the rules that put the best players on the sidelines. If a boy gets three or four quick fouls, he's almost unable to do anything until the final minutes and then he's still operating under too severe a handicap because he knows he may foul out.

I think disqualification should not be allowed in basketball, or at least they should make it six fouls per player. The game is so fast today but they insist on sticking with five fouls in high school and college. They can make strict ball-loss penalties on the seventh foul but not disqualification.

Would it cause more violence in the game? Absolutely not, and I think the fans would be treated to at least seeing the good players on the floor and not on the bench. Why doesn't basketball wake up?

JOB WELL DONE

Dear Editor:

I just want to thank the Herald's sports staff for another excellent year for high school basketball coverage in this area. For years, I've been telling my friends that the Herald has the best prep coverage I've ever seen from any paper, either local or otherwise. I've never been let down in my appraisal in this regard.

Your coverage of the IHSA tourneys was outstanding as usual with Bob Frisk's preview of the Class AA meet incisive (and accurate) as usual. Nothing like Mr. Frisk's article to psyche a basketball fan up for the big tourney!

Your annual all-area team looked good and honors a group of well-deserving youngsters who, I'm sure, richly appreciate the honor. I feel the all-area section of your paper caps off another successful year of informing and entertaining your readers. Your prep sports coverage fills a necessary void in local journalism.

Bud Byers

EDITOR'S NOTE: We appreciate the kind words from Mr. Byers and hope that we can live up to his praise in the future.

CELTS GROW THEIR OWN

Dear Sirs,

I recently watched the Boston Celtics play on national television. And I got to thinking, what makes the Celtics so good? Naturally, they have some outstanding players who are unselfish and play totally as a team. But there must be something else that keeps this team among the best year after year after year. Could you come up with any other reasons why the Celtics are so great despite the loss of Bill Russell?

Rick Rehman
Hoffman Estates

EDITOR'S NOTE: There's one thing that few people outside of fanatic Boston fans might know. Boston, under the guiding hand of General Manager Red Auerbach, has sustained a team unity that's unparalleled in professional sports. John Havlicek's been playing 14 seasons. During that time the Celtics have made just two trades! They made great choices in the college draft and then keep them. That's the secret to success.

Niblick ?

NEW YORK (UPI) — A niblick is neither a cocktail nor a Russian curse word. It is a number eight iron, a golf club with a wide, deeply slanted face used for short shots out of the sand or tall grass.

Don't be fooled by fancy rustproofing promises.

The "proof" is in the process.

Ziebart because:

Rust can destroy a new car after a couple of years. Undercoating and conventional rustproofing don't do a complete job. Ziebart does.

Ziebart because:

We use 9 patented tools to get inside your new car's body and spray every inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make it really rustproof. And soundproof. And worth more money when you decide to sell it.

Ziebart because:

You may want to keep your new car for a couple of years or longer.

There's only one Ziebart rustproofing process. And there's only one place to get it. From us.

NIMAGA plans exciting golf season

This year is the 18th renewal of the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) season. Founded in 1959 as a vehicle for amateurs to compete in organized events, it has prospered substantially with last year's total prize pay out in excess of $15,000.

At present there are over 300 members who compete once a month from April thru October over a wide variety of courses, ranging from Countryside Golf Club in northern Mundelein south to Cog Hill in Lemont and west to St. Andrews in West Chicago.

Competition is divided into four flights of almost identical size:

A scratch division for handicaps 0-6, A Flite from 7-10, B from 11-15, and C for those with handicaps of 16 and over.

Trophies and prize money in the form of gift certificates are given in each division with first prize normally being $75 and scaled downward from there.

Included in its memership are many area standouts as well as a number of Sunday golfers who are out for some good, keen competition and a chance to play some courses they wouldn't normally try during the course of a summer.

Membership is $30 per year. It also covers the cost of obtaining and updating each person's certified golf handicap. In fact, this reason alone is enough for many publishers to apply for membership.

ALL TOURNAMENTS are 18-hole events with the exception of the NIMAGA Championship which is a 36-hole affair.

April 10th is the first event, the Spring Thaw, which is held at St. Andrews and at Indian Lakes in Bloomingdale and is open to all members in good standing as of March 1. Anyone interested in membership may receive an application by contacting NIMAGA, P.O. Box 107, Golf, Illinois 60029.

NIMAGA Board of Directors for the 1976 season are as follows:

THE NIMAGA season tournament dates are as follows:

- April 10 — Spring Thaw — St. Andrews and Indian Lakes.
- May 22 — May Jamboree — White Pines, St. Andrews, Village Greens (Woodridge) and Big Run.
- June 19 — Summer Classic — Countryside, Buffalo Grove, Four Winds and Arlington.
- July 18 — Two-Man Best Ball — Cog Hill no. 1 & 3, Village Greens and Big Run.
- Aug. 14-15 — NIMAGA Championship — Countryside, Buffalo Grove, Four Winds and Arlington.
- Sept. 19 — Autumn Classic — Cog Hill no. 1 & 3, Village Greens and Big Run.
- Oct. 17 — Final Fling — Countryside, Buffalo Grove, Arlington and Four Winds.

unless you're moving to Carlisle Cove in Schaumburg

Whether you have lived in your present home 32 years or just 2 years, the memories that you leave behind make moving difficult.

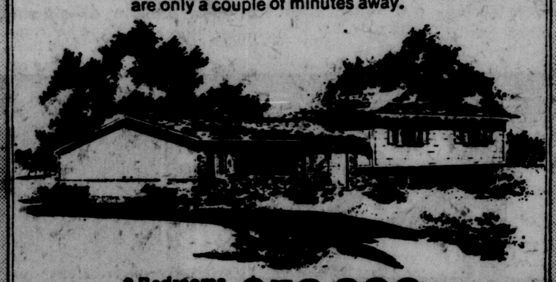
Carlisle Cove can't replace these memories, but it can be the beginning of a whole new way of life with many pleasant memories for the future.

Carlisle Cove offers you the environment and home that you are looking for.

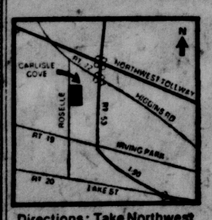
Located in beautiful Schaumburg, the new home sites are part of an already mature area of homes. They are adjacent to a 20 acre park which includes 3 swimming pools (one Olympic sized with a 15' diving tower), lighted tennis courts, baseball diamond and swings.

The homes are soundly built by one of Chicago's most respected builders, who backs his construction with the HOW (Home Owners Warranty) Program, protecting your home for 10 years against any major defects. Included are many of the "little" extra features you are looking for like: walk-in closets, large family rooms, separate dining rooms, large kitchens and 2-car garages. The exteriors are face brick with your choice of siding on fully seeded lots.

Woodfield shopping is less than 10 minutes away and there is a large local center within walking distance. An elementary school is on the property and bus service is provided to the Jr. and Sr. Highs. Major roadways and the commuter trains are only a couple of minutes away.



3 Bedrooms from $53,600



Directions: Take Northwest Tollway to Rt. 53, 53 south to Higgins Rd. (Rt. 72) Higgins west to Roselle Rd.; Roselle south to the models

Leaving the old neighborhood is never easy...

unless you're moving to Carlisle Cove in Schaumburg

Whether you have lived in your present home 32 years or just 2 years, the memories that you leave behind make moving difficult.

Carlisle Cove can't replace these memories, but it can be the beginning of a whole new way of life with many pleasant memories for the future.

Carlisle Cove offers you the environment and home that you are looking for.

Located in beautiful Schaumburg, the new home sites are part of an already mature area of homes. They are adjacent to a 20 acre park which includes 3 swimming pools (one Olympic sized with a 15' diving tower), lighted tennis courts, baseball diamond and swings.

The homes are soundly built by one of Chicago's most respected builders, who backs his construction with the HOW (Home Owners Warranty) Program, protecting your home for 10 years against any major defects. Included are many of the "little" extra features you are looking for like: walk-in closets, large family rooms, separate dining rooms, large kitchens and 2-car garages. The exteriors are face brick with your choice of siding on fully seeded lots.

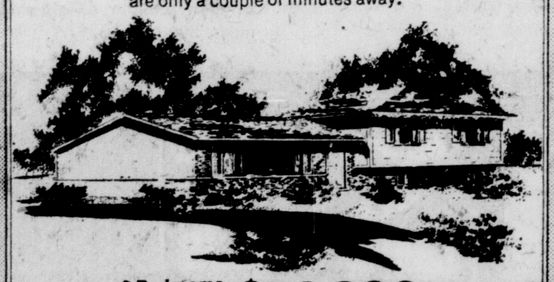
Woodfield shopping is less than 10 minutes away and there is a large local center within walking distance. An elementary school is on the property and bus service is provided to the Jr. and Sr. Highs. Major roadways and the commuter trains are only a couple of minutes away.



3 Bedrooms from $53,600

Pepitone looks for job in baseball, new start

YUMA, ARIZ., (UPI)—The shaggy-maned veteran sat forlornly on the bench. He wore a make-shift uniform and blue spiked shoes that were dried out and cracked. He had been to a lot of places in the baseball world, including Japan, and now he was training his sights on just one more stop.

Joe Pepitone, 35, and a journeyman ball player with a string of flings in his playboy background, vows he has settled down and that he is never more serious than he is today. He's trying for that last shot as a non-roster member of the San Diego Padres.

"My wife and son are in Kansas City staying with my in-laws," said Pepitone, "and I'm here to work, to try to make some money so we can all eat."

Pepitone is under contract to the Hawaii Islanders of the Pacific Coast League, the Padres AAAA affiliate. The first baseman — sometimes outfielder, often times nightlifer, was supposed to start his quest for a job with the minor leaguers when they check into the Yuma complex March 26. But he arrived 16 days early and asked for a chance to work with the big club until then.

Manager John McNamara said "sure," and Pepitone was issued a more suitable uniform. "I'm not kiddin' myself about what I'm up against here," he said. "I know everyone thinks I'm washed up as a player and it's going to be up to me to prove them wrong."

With that, the one-time All-Star first baseman stepped to the plate and lined three singles and two home runs during 10 swings against right-hander Danny Frisella.

"When you have a job it's easy to goof off in batting practice, but I was really concentrating," he said after batting. "That was the first time I hit against a pitcher since 1974."

Pepitone quite in Japan after two months of the 1974 season — "I sas too much anti-American sentiment over there" — and stayed out of the game entirely last year. He became a partner in a Chicago Restaurant-Discotheque. It went sour and Joe went broke. Then, last Thanksgiving Day, most of this personal belongings went up in smoke when a fire razed a house he was renting in New York.

The left-handed slugger got back into baseball a few months ago when he telephoned Jack Quinn, Hawaii general manager, and was given a contract.

Pepitone chuckled as he told of going into a Chicago sporting goods store to buy a glove. "I told the clerk my name," he said "and he still charged me $42.50."

His last big league appearance was in 1973 with Atlanta when Pepitone hit .364 in three games with the Braves before he decided to call it a career even though Eddie Mathews, then skipper of the Braves, tried to talk him out of the act.

When he departed from Atlanta, Pepitone left all his baseball gear in the clubhouse of the Braves — shoes, gloves, everything.

"Now some of my equipment is in the Hall of Fame," he quipped. "Henry Aaron took six pairs of my shoes and cracked home run No. 714 while wearing a pair of them. In 1967, when I was with the Yankees, Mickey Mantle borrowed one of my bats and slugged home run No. 500.

"Both the shoes and bat are in Cooperstown. And here I am in Yuma trying to start all over again."

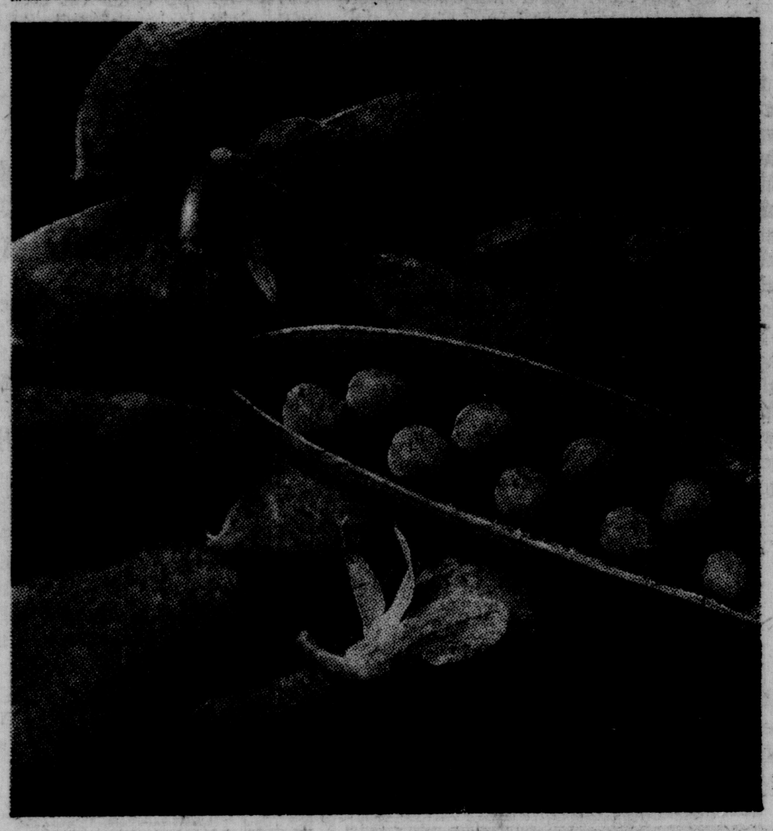
THE PRETTY AND PRACTICAL GARDEN

A GUIDE TO PLANNING AND PLANTING A BEAUTIFUL, EDIBLE GARDEN



These beautiful vegetables are part of the bountiful harvest from one garden. This garden was a project for a "mixed-up" family where flowers, herbs and vegetables were integrated, furnishing beauty to the eye and good taste for use all year round. "All About Vegetables," from the Ortho Garden Book series, describes ornamentals and vegetables which can be grown together.

Spring is the time when a gardener's fancy turns to thoughts of lovely plants. While impatiently waiting for the ground to become workable, gardeners are poring over seed catalogues and thinking about what to plant where. And this year, more and more Americans are giving thought to raising a garden that will be utilitarian as well as ornamental.

Considering the battered food budget, it's not surprising that so many gardeners are eager to try their green thumbs at growing vegetables. And, of course, a garden can be both pretty and practical. "All About Vegetables," from the Ortho Book Series, puts it this way: "In the language of gardening, the word 'ornamental' is used to distinguish plants used for beauty in the landscape from plants used for food and fiber. But many plants serve a dual purpose. And so you have edible ornamentals and ornamental edibles."

To illustrate, the Ortho Garden Book suggests planting a bed of curly kale alongside a bed of ferns, rhubarb chard combined with white Sweet William and a groundcover of parsley with daffodils dancing above. Other possibilities are crinkled Savoy cabbage and okra in a flower border and the ferny foliage of asparagus planted to show its delicate tracery against a house wall. Consider, too, some chives tucked neatly into nooks and crannies around the garden and a row of sunflowers along a fence. All are beautiful additions to the garden and each contributes something delicious to the family fare.

Another attractive way to combine the pretty and the practical is to alternate long, narrow rows of vegetables with flower beds of complementary shapes and colors. And borders of low growing annuals such as alyssum and dwarf species of many flower varieties will add color and contrast to vegetable beds.

Proper planning, fertilizing, watering, care, and of course, work, go into producing a flourishing flower garden. These same elements can also produce a vegetable garden. But according to "Gardening Shortcuts," another in the Ortho Book Series, one additional factor is needed to insure a crop of good-to-eat vegetables – selecting varieties that are suited to the length of the growing season in your area.

Most seed packets indicate the number of days the plant needs from seeding to maturity. Such information is important to gardeners in warm climates who can grow both early and late varieties, and vital to gardeners in short season areas. For the latter, planting the early varieties is recommended – these will produce crops with less total summer heat than the later maturing varieties.

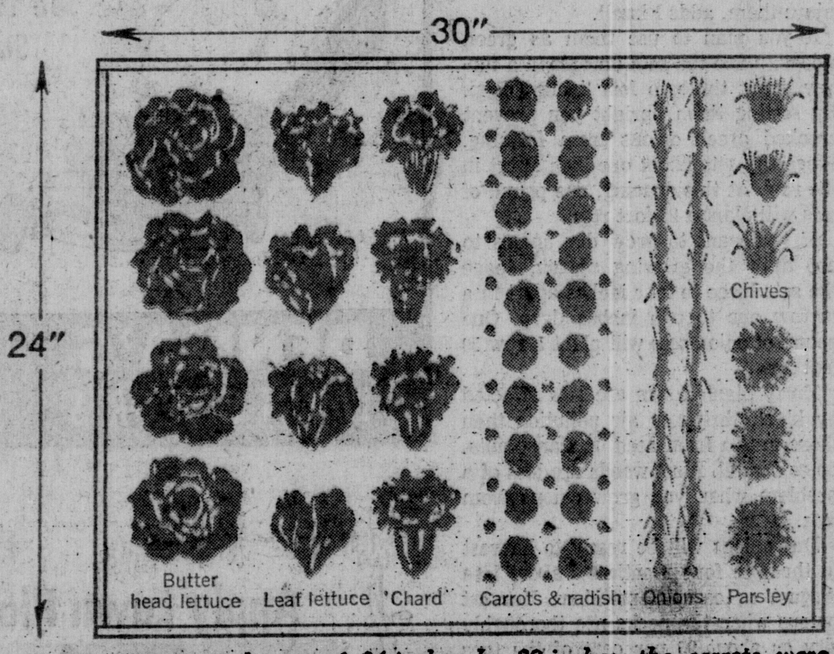
"Gardening Shortcuts" points out that each vegetable has its own range of temperatures for maximum growth and each has its minimum temperature at which it will not grow. So when choosing vegetable varieties to plant, also keep in mind the length of the days in your climate zone, day and night temperatures and the intensity of heat. Suiting plants to your garden's environment will go a long way toward that ultimate triumph – a harvest of succulent vegetables.

How large a plot do you need to grow a vegetable-flower garden? As big or as small a space as you have or wish to plant. In fact, both can be grown in no garden space. Plants and flowers can flourish in containers, and so can vegetables. Large containers filled with fertilized synthetic soil are perfect for growing tomatoes, peppers and eggplants. Most herbs, too, do beautifully in pots making them an ideal choice for city dwellers. And containers, being movable, can be positioned in the sunniest locations, which frequently gives them a decided advantage.

For those with space for planting vegetables, "All About Vegetables" offers plans for gardens of various sizes. Two of these plans, illustrated below, show how much can be grown in small plots. An area of 24 inches by 30 inches, can be cultivated to amply fill the salad bowl of a family of four during the summer months. And it will produce sufficient parsley and chives that, if frozen, will garnish their dishes throughout the winter as well.

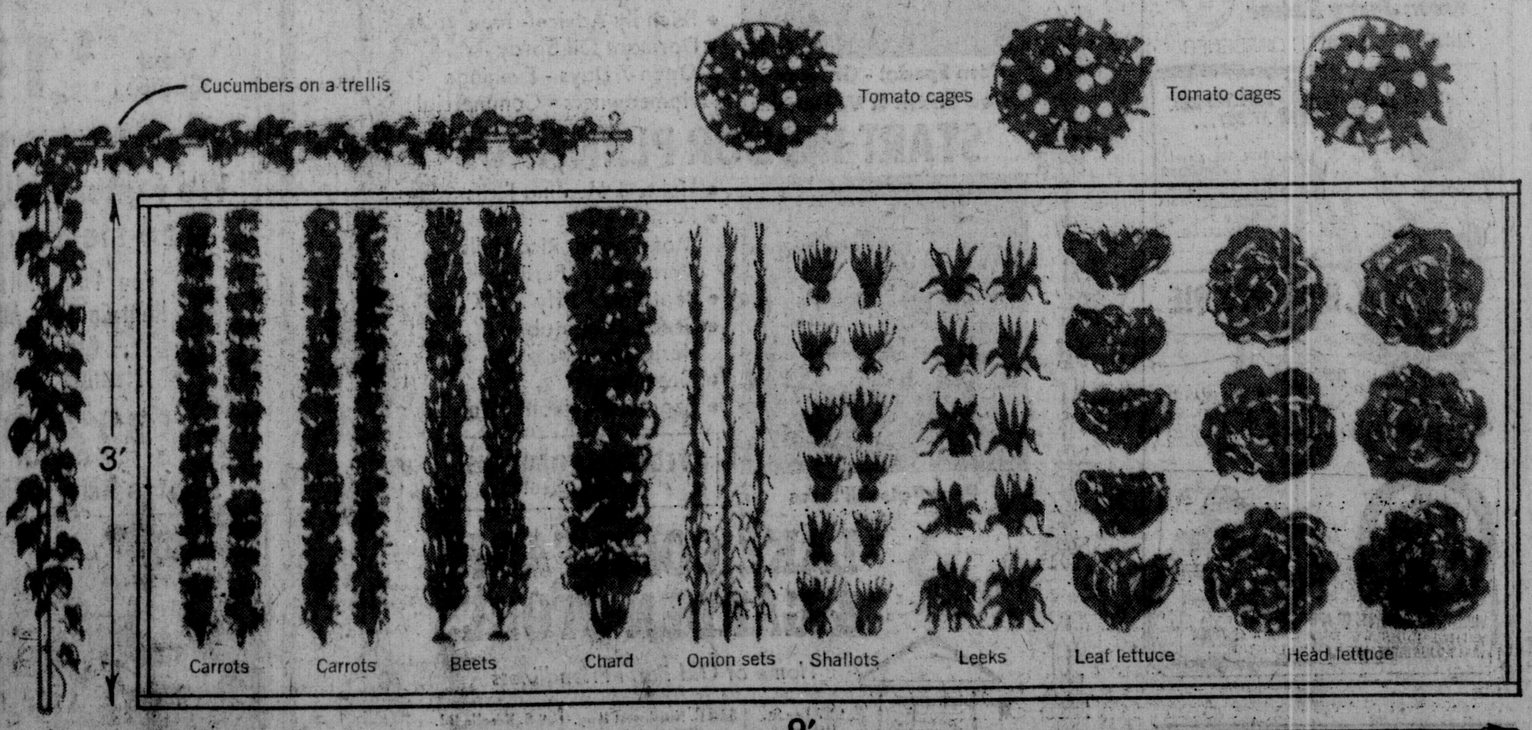
And with a plot 3-feet by 9-feet, a family of six can be assured of a bountiful harvest of salad greens and root vegetables. Add to this tomatoes, peppers and eggplants grown in containers, and the space is utilized to its fullest potential.

The small space gardener, however, has a difficult task when it comes to planning a garden that will yield a continuous supply of fresh vegetables. When planting, a 30-foot row of lettuce may look short. But when 30 heads of lettuce arrive in the kitchen in a ten-day period, that row becomes very long indeed. To avoid this feast or famine situation, "All About Vegetables" advises small plantings at two or three different times of the same vegetable. That way, the harvest period can be spread over a longer period of time. In areas with long growing seasons, a succession of plantings, from early spring to late fall, will insure a continuous harvest of just-picked vegetables.



In this concentrated area of 24-inches by 30-inches, the carrots were sowed in 4-inch wide bands, spaced 5-inches apart. After thinning and eating baby carrots, two rows of mature carrots remain in each band, yielding about 66 carrots. The two rows of onion sets can yield more than 50 green onions.

Beautiful green cabbages grow side-by-side with varied colored annuals in this pretty and practical garden. Vegetables can be ornamental as well as good to eat and when combined with complementary flowers, make a garden that is both edible and attractive.



In this 3-foot by 9-foot plot, planting in bands 4-inches wide, spaced 5-inches apart, allows for two rows each of carrots and beets, one row of chard, three rows of onion sets, two rows each of shallots and leeks, one row of Bibb lettuce and six heads of leaf lettuce. A trellis for cucumber adds a crop without taking much ground space. Tomatoes, peppers and eggplants grown in tubs bring this garden into maximum production.

With nice spring days popping up frequently it's natural that thoughts begin to turn to things you are going to add to your landscaping. That's fine but before you rush into planting remember the first, and important, rule of good landscaping. Plan before you plant. Overlooking this rule can result in being unhappy with your landscaping in years to come and the possible expenditure of lots of money to correct easily avoided mistakes.

Landscape architect and designers can supply tips that can help you achieve greater beauty for your grounds. The tips are really just common-sense and apply to any property — large or small. Landscaping properly is also a dollar and cents thing. Real estate experts have estimated that good landscaping can add as much as 20 per cent to the value of a home.

The place to start landscape planning is from the inside of the house. Look out the windows from every room and decide what you would like to see when you look out. Or, maybe, there is something you'd rather not see. For instance, if the view is something you'd rather not look at, that is obviously a situation that calls for shrubs or trees to provide a screen. Keep in mind, also, that screening provides a sound barrier that will diminish noise.

Put in as much landscaping as you can, or want, to take care of. Nothing around the house will look worse than plantings that are neglected. And speaking of work, if you have a large lawn and don't need a large lawn, eliminate some of it by putting in evergreens or shrubs that will take a lot less maintenance effort.

When you plant, especially a tree, remember it won't always be the size it is now. You know what happens with cute kittens and puppies. Well, the same thing happens to trees, evergreens and shrubs. So, keep in mind how tall and full it will be when it matures. Transplanting is expensive and it could result in the death of a beautiful specimen.

Proper use of shade trees and wind-screens can mean substantial savings in addition to their beauty. For instance, the right kind of shade trees in the right places on the south and west sides of the house can reduce temperatures by as much as eight per cent without using air-conditioning. Evergreen wind-screens on the north and west sides of the house, can save as much as 10 per cent to 30 per cent of winter fuel bills. Another example of how important it is to plan before you plant.

In early spring few things will do more to perk up spirits than to look out the window and see a tree covered with a mass of flowers. If you have a room with a view by all means plant one or more ornamental trees. Flowering crabapples, hawthorns or a gorgeous magnolia are some that do well in the climate.

If you looked at your house during the winter and it looked kind of drab you can brighten the winter scene with evergreens. These will provide color all year around and after a snow storm they will make your house look like a Christmas card picture.

Last but not least, when you have a pretty good idea of what you want to achieve don't rush out to buy and plant. Ask questions. Find out what will grow in the area to be planted and avoid putting in a sun-loving plant in a location that gets more shade than sun. Don't put in plants that have soil and water requirements that you can't furnish. Don't be afraid to ask questions — the nurseryman wants you to have the right plants in the right places. Another word of advice — stick to plants that are climatically suited for this area. Buy plants that have been nursery grown in this climate and you'll be sure they will withstand the local temperature variations.

PROPER landscaping can add as much as 20 per cent to the value of a house. Landscape experts suggest careful planning before planting, however, for best results.

Roses: do's and dont's

Roses are versatile, beautiful and easy to care for. They can bloom from April to November and reward the gardener with a rainbow of different colors and a variety of sizes.

Do choose a sunny spot for planting.

Don't crowd too many plants together. Easy access to each plant is a must.

Do plant in a hole 18-20 inches in diameter with the bud onion, (thickened portion at the top of the root) above the soil.

Do water roses frequently. Water should reach the full depth of the roots.

Do nourish plants with "Precise" Timed Release Rose Food, which contains a balanced combination of nutrients (8-12-4) designed for sturdy plants and abundant blooms. A single application is sufficient for the entire season!

Don't be afraid of pruning. It's necessary to encourage new growth. Trim dead leaves, limbs and weak or damaged twigs.

Do cut one-third of last year's new growth on a 45 degree angle above each leaf bud.

Don't forget to spray! It's an important part of rose care to insure pest-free plants.

Do spray in the evening so that the combination of pesticide and heat won't burn the leaves.

Don't neglect winter protection. Cover the bud onion (at stem base) with eight inches of soil. After soil freezes place straw or leaves on it.

Flower Show closes Sunday

The 18th Annual Chicago Flower and Garden Show is at McCormick Place through Sunday. Under the sponsorship of the Chicago Horticultural Society, this show fills the entire seven-acre main exhibition hall at McCormick Place, which makes the show the largest indoor flower show in the world.

Exhibits, films, shops, lectures, contests and demonstrations will focus on the floral opportunities of today and tomorrow.

Hours are 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Sunday.

Plant onion sets now

You can have green onions from your garden in six to eight weeks if you plant sets now, says James A. Fizzell, University of Illinois Extension Horticulturist in Cook County.

Planting sets is the easiest and surest way to grow onions. Sets are small bulbs less than an inch in diameter that have been grown from last year's seed. You can buy them in grocery, seed, garden and hardware stores.

You can plant onion sets anytime the soil can be worked — March in most of Illinois. A little frost will not injure them, adds Fizzell.

If you plan to use them as green onions, place the sets upright in a furrow about three to four inches deep. By setting them upright you prevent crooked green onions from forming. Place the sets about one inch apart in the row. At this spacing, one pound of sets will plant a 25-foot row.

If you want to grow dry onions to use after the growing season, space the sets three to four inches apart in a furrow one to two inches deep. One pound of onion sets will plant a row 50 feet long.

Early planted sets are less affected by blast, thrips or air pollution than those grown from seed or transplants, notes Fizzell. Also, weeds are less of a problem when you grow onions from sets.

Dry onions will be ready to harvest in three to four months — about late August or early September. Harvest onions when the necks are thoroughly dry or about 95 per cent of the tops have bent over. Pull the onions and place them under cover to finish drying.

Cut off the tops about an inch above the bulb, place in a well ventilated container such as a mesh bag, and store in a cool, dry place.

MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

Mini-gardening produces results

LETTUCE THRIVES in a discarded styrofoam bowl, once a swimming pool toy.

You don't need the "wide open spaces" to grow your own fresh vegetables. And, you don't need to be a vegetable gardening expert to have a succession of good crops.

What you do need is a sound plan and a good source of reference to help you decide exactly what to do.

When you know what you're doing, even a small box garden can supply a continuous yield of fresh vegetables. If, for example, you only have 24 inch x 30 inch to work with, plan three plantings — your first can be in March, the second in April and a third in May.

To get a continuous harvest of a vegetable, however, the second planting must go in before the first is harvested. Consequently, the limited-space gardener, obviously, has a more difficult problem than the gardener with "wide open spaces." But again, when you know what and how to do it, you can get all the produce you need.

There are several areas in and around your home where you can raise a small but productive box garden. These are areas you probably never even thought of.

Plant a mini-garden on the balcony, terrace, deck, patio, or even in a window box. And you can use a variety of containers in all shapes and sizes — boxes, tubs, bushel baskets, cans, etc.

Keep in mind, though, that some vegetables, such as lettuce, must be harvested all at once, so, in your first planting, put in only what you'll need, or you could end up with 10 heads in 10 days.

Fortunately, not all vegetables have such short harvest periods, and by selecting some with longer harvest times you can spread the harvesting period to suit your life style.

Favorite vegetables which offer a long harvest time by storage in the soil include carrots, beets, parsnips, salsify and Florence fennel. Of these, carrots and beets provide a wonderful succession of harvests from baby carrots and beets to the mature size, with a storage period of weeks or months depending upon the time of year and storage conditions. Leaf lettuce and Swiss chard also have long harvest periods, since they can be picked a leaf at a time.

The best vegetables for very limited space gardens are those you like — taking into consideration those which will give the highest return per square foot — or the vegetables with the closest spacing per row.

But, make sure you like what you're planting and are not selecting only the vegetables that will do well and take up little space — or you could end up with some fantastic yields — to throw away.

Add color to vegetable gardens

by BILL MEACHEM

My wife is of the opinion that vegetable gardens can be pretty drab to look at and I can agree with her to a certain degree. There is, however, an interesting (and edible) way to liven up a vegetable garden, so if you're already thinking about your spring planting, think about adding some colorful vegetables.

The first that comes to mind is the red cabbage. It certainly does stand out in the garden and gives you something to take a picture of if you happen to be a camera-bug gardener like me.

But this year I found additional colors in some vegetable gardens I visited — and even introduced some into my own garden.

There is a rhubarb chard that has deep red stems and dark foliage. In fact, it has been mistaken many times for a giant beet, but it was chard with the appearance of rhubarb.

In other gardens I saw plantings of the red-leaved or ornamental basil. This is an herb and from appearances it is just as ornamental as it is useful.

One vegetable gardener I knew had a little flare for color in her lettuce planting. She planted the red-leaved ruby alternately with the green varieties. It was quite unusual and also colorful.

Like the basil, some cabbages can be so ornamental. There are both white and red varieties. The heads are more or less open and the two, planted in a row or a bed (yes, you can plant vegetables in a solid bed like flowers), add a nice touch of color.

The colorful vegetables would stand out best in a small plot. In fact, it would be advisable to plant a few in every small garden to overcome the drab appearance my wife complains about.

It would be best to start all these colorful vegetables early, from seed. Sow the seed indoors about four to six weeks before you intend to plant outdoors.

Sow the seeds in a mixture of packaged potting soil, peatmoss and vermiculite — equal parts of each. Before sowing the seed, spray the mixture to be sure there are no soil bugs present.

To complement your colorful and not-so-colorful vegetables, you also should keep your small garden neat. Keep weeds out and tie straggling plants to stakes. And, when planting use a string to be sure your rows are straight.

ACCORDING TO the experts at local Lake-Cook Farm and Garden Store, the time for dormant oil spraying has arrived.

Supply the right light

by JANET TARA

Success or failure with your window garden depends on the careful choice of plants. The major requirements of any plant are light, water, soil composition, temperature and humidity. Of these, light is the most important; a plant can adapt to other variations in its environment.

Although you can combine foliage and flowers best suited to a variety of temperatures and humidity, you must not group together plants with dissimilar light needs. Find out exactly how much light your window provides and then choose plants that will flourish in that light. Here are a few suggestions for each of the four main light exposures:

North window: Boston fern, caladium, chinese evergreen, fiddle-leaf fig (close relative to Indian rubber plant), grape ivy, piggyback plant, pigmy date palm, snake plant, string-of-hearts vine, windowleaf philodendron (not a true philodendron) avocado, pothos.

East-West window: asparagus fern, dracaena family, (filtered light), diffenbachia (filtered light), English ivy, kentia palm (filtered light), spider plant, schefflera, wandering Jew, wax begonia.

Southern window: velvet plant, (purple passion plant) gardenia, geraniums, wax plant, cacti and succulents, celeus and all flowering plants.

For a copy of Janet Tara's tip-filled "Indoor Gardening Guide," send 75 cents plus 25 cents to cover postage and handling to: "Indoor Gardening Guide," care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 489, Dept. E, Radio City Station, New York, New York 10019.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

AFTER TOMATOES, bell peppers are the most widely used bedding plant among home gardeners.

Spray while trees are dormant

Too many of us are not familiar with dormant spraying of fruit trees, lilacs, cottoneaster, snowball, flowering plum and many other ornamental shrubs.

This is simply an inexpensive miscible oil which can be mixed with water and sprayed on plant while still dormant.

This non-chemical spray will kill many harmful insects which sap the vigor and growth of many woody plants. Scale insects and eggs of mites and canker worms will be destroyed.

Certain spray oils can be used later in the season at a diluted rate to control other insects.

When to spray: Early in spring when tree is dormant and frost is not expected for 24 hours. Temperature is around 40 degrees.

Amount: five tablespoons per gallon of water. Spray one-half pint to three gallons water or two gallons oil per 100 gallons water.

Method: Drench plant thoroughly to point of run-off with conventional sprayer. Other chemicals can be mixed with this oil.

One will find that this simple, nontoxic method will take care of many insect problems and you will enjoy more beautiful flowers and better fruit.

Dormant oil spray is available at most garden and farm stores from quart to 55 gallon drums for commercial use.

Check soil

You can begin preparing your garden for planting as soon as the ground is dry enough, says Joe Vandemark, University of Illinois Extension vegetable crops specialist.

To determine if the soil is workable, squeeze a small amount of soil in your hand. If the compressed soil crumbles easily when gently pressed, it is dry enough to work.

Before you start, it's a good idea to find out what type of soil you have in your garden, says Vandemark. Garden soils vary from being nearly pure sand to the ideal sandy loam. Good garden soil is deep, loose, fertile, well-drained, slightly acid and rich in organic matter. Organic matter may be composed of decaying plant and animal material. A soil test will show if you need additional organic material, lime or fertilizer.

Sandy soil needs additional organic matter to improve its ability to hold water and plant nutrients, Vandemark explains. Silt loams and clays have the opposite problem. They hold water too readily, causing poor drainage.

Don't fertilize

Don't fertilize strawberries in the spring unless they are growing in a very sandy soil. Spring fertilization may make the plants grow too fast and cause the berries to be soft and more prone to rot. If the strawberry bed is going to stay one more year, fertilize the patch after harvest.

Slugs can cause garden problems

Slugs look like snails without shells. They are a common problem in gardens and lawns where there is a lot of moisture favorable for their development. Slugs feed on foliage and fruit and leave behind a trail of mucus wherever they have crawled. Slugs feed at night and hide under boards and other debris during the day. To reduce populations, make sure one has good drainage and keep the garden cleanly cultivated.

Stale beer works as a bait on a limited scale in small areas. Slug chemicals can be used but care must be taken not to contaminate food crops and are not suggested if small children use the area.

Plant partitions

Many modern offices are using living plant materials as partitions between work areas in offices. The plants not only help to add beauty and fresh air to the office, they also cut down excessive and distracting noise to result in better work performance by employees.

AFTER TOMATOES, bell peppers are the most widely used bedding plant among home gardeners.

Spray while trees are dormant

Too many of us are not familiar with dormant spraying of fruit trees, lilacs, cottoneaster, snowball, flowering plum and many other ornamental shrubs.

This is simply an inexpensive miscible oil which can be mixed with water and sprayed on plant while still dormant.

This non-chemical spray will kill many harmful insects which sap the vigor and growth of many woody plants. Scale insects and eggs of mites and canker worms will be destroyed.

Certain spray oils can be used later in the season at a diluted rate to control other insects.

When to spray: Early in spring when tree is dormant and frost is not expected for 24 hours. Temperature is around 40 degrees.

Amount: five tablespoons per gallon of water. Spray one-half pint to three gallons water or two gallons oil per 100 gallons water.

Method: Drench plant thoroughly to point of run-off with conventional sprayer. Other chemicals can be mixed with this oil.

One will find that this simple, nontoxic method will take care of many insect problems and you will enjoy more beautiful flowers and better fruit.

Dormant oil spray is available at most garden and farm stores from quart to 55 gallon drums for commercial use.

Check soil

You can begin preparing your garden for planting as soon as the ground is dry enough, says Joe Vandemark, University of Illinois Extension vegetable crops specialist.

To determine if the soil is workable, squeeze a small amount of soil in your hand. If the compressed soil crumbles easily when gently pressed, it is dry enough to work.

Before you start, it's a good idea to find out what type of soil you have in your garden, says Vandemark. Garden soils vary from being nearly pure sand to the ideal sandy loam. Good garden soil is deep, loose, fertile, well-drained, slightly acid and rich in organic matter. Organic matter may be composed of decaying plant and animal material. A soil test will show if you need additional organic material, lime or fertilizer.

Sandy soil needs additional organic matter to improve its ability to hold water and plant nutrients, Vandemark explains. Silt loams and clays have the opposite problem. They hold water too readily, causing poor drainage.

Horticulture specialists at the U. of I. list varieties in the "Illinois Vegetable Garden Guide." These recommended varieties are widely adapted, high in quality for home use, productive and resistant to troublesome diseases whenever possible.

Don't fertilize

Don't fertilize strawberries in the spring unless they are growing in a very sandy soil. Spring fertilization may make the plants grow too fast and cause the berries to be soft and more prone to rot. If the strawberry bed is going to stay one more year, fertilize the patch after harvest.

Slugs can cause garden problems

Slugs look like snails without shells. They are a common problem in gardens and lawns where there is a lot of moisture favorable for their development. Slugs feed on foliage and fruit and leave behind a trail of mucus wherever they have crawled. Slugs feed at night and hide under boards and other debris during the day. To reduce populations, make sure one has good drainage and keep the garden cleanly cultivated.

Stale beer works as a bait on a limited scale in small areas. Slug chemicals can be used but care must be taken not to contaminate food crops and are not suggested if small children use the area.

Plant partitions

Many modern offices are using living plant materials as partitions between work areas in offices. The plants not only help to add beauty and fresh air to the office, they also cut down excessive and distracting noise to result in better work performance by employees.
